

Yancey, Mitchell Subject Of Story In Geographic

Malcolm Ross, whose story on Yancey and Mitchell counties appears in the June issue of National Geographic, has sent three copies of the magazine to the Yancey County Library. These copies are available to anyone interested in reading the story, entitled "My Neighbors Hold To Mountain Ways". Copies of the magazine are not available on newsstands.

Incorrect information has been published previously to the effect that the article was to be about Burnsville, entitled "Burnsville In The Blue Ridge".

As it appears, the story covers different sections of the neighboring counties, Yancey and Mitchell.

"My Neighbors Hold To Mountain Ways" is illustrated with twenty-two photographs, by Flip Schulke, and a pictorial map of the two counties.

Mr. Ross, of the University of Miami Press, has a summer home near Burnsville. He and his family plan to spend at least a month here this season.

To find out the opinions of one reader of Mr. Ross' story, turn to page two of this issue.

Appreciation Voiced

(Editor's Note — The Record received the following letter from M. Leonard Lowe, of Forest City, who won the nomination for Solicitor of the 18th Solicitorial District in Saturday's Democratic primary.)

"I wish to extend my heartfelt thanks to the people of Yancey County for the splendid vote given me in Saturday's Primary Election. My wife and I will always treasure the friendships that have been made during the past four months. I want to extend an invitation for all of you to visit us whenever you are passing through Rutherford County. I shall stand ready at all times to serve the people of the District, not only in the Superior Courts of the District, but in every worth while church and community project."

M. Leonard Lowe
