

Needs In T. B. Control Emphasized In North Carolina Program

Raleigh — Recognized universal priority needs in tuberculosis control were emphasized in the 1957-58 program of the North Carolina Tuberculosis Association according to its annual report released recently.

With research heading the list, the report states that the other priority needs are selective case-finding, adequate treatment for non-hospitalized patients, and professional education.

The NCTA and its 101 affiliated local TB associations, in cooperation with official health agencies are co-sponsoring a five-year county-wide tuberculin testing pilot study in Pamlico County and also contribute Christmas Seal funds to supplement the research program of the N. C. Sanatorium system.

In addition, one per cent of the State's Christmas Seal Sale goes to the nation-wide research program of the National Tuberculosis Association which includes grants to two North Carolina researchers. They are Dr. Stuart Willis of Chapel Hill, head of the N. C. Sanatorium System, who is conducting studies on anti-tuberculosis vaccination; and Dr. Hilda Pope Willett, Duke University, who is studying the life habits of the TB germ.

The report points out that the selective approach to case-finding embraces X-ray screening of the population as long as TB or other abnormalities are found but demands the use of the tuberculin test as the screening device for low incidence groups.

"A recent United States Public Health Service study revealed that 45 per cent of known active cases are not in hospitals, and as a whole, do not receive adequate care and supervision," the report continued. Although hospitalized patients in North Carolina get the best possible care the report noted that what happens to those being treated at home, who won't go to a hospital, or leave against medical advice is a "question mark" in the TB control program.

The report explains that professional education is a priority need because treatment of TB in the future is expected to fall more and more to the general practitioner of medicine who may not have been fully prepared in medical school for the responsibility.

In addition to priority needs in TB control other highlights of the NCTA program were presented in a "Tell-O-TBGRAM" followed by a "News March" naming specific activities in research, case-finding, health education, rehabilitation, and the Christmas Seal Sale.

Other features of the report include a page devoted to "The You In TB Trends" and a "Plan-O-TBGRAM" which presents the budget and pin-points the major objectives of the NCTA in all pro-

IF you use a pancake turner to slide sandwiches into waxed paper sacks, the soft fillings will not ooze out of the sandwiches in the process.
Keep a plastic tablecloth in your shopping cart and use it if you're caught with sudden showers, on the way home with a load of groceries.

THIS WEEK'S RECIPE
Tuna-Cranberry Sandwiches
(Serves 4)
1 1/2-ounce can tuna, chunk style
1/4 cup soured cream
1 teaspoon grated onion
Dash of pepper
1/4 cup jellied cranberry sauce
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
8 slices buttered bread
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
Combine tuna, soured cream, onion and pepper; mix well. Combine cranberry sauce and celery; mix well. Spread 4 bread slices with mayonnaise, top with cranberry sauce mixture. Spread tuna mixture on remaining slices and put the two together. Slice in halves and serve.

Plate racks are wonderful for keeping children's books and records in apple pie order. Young fry will enjoy using them for neatness.

No room in the bathroom for a hamper? There are hampers which can be attached to the back of the door so they'll be off the floor and save space, too.

Hands can be protected while you scour pots and pans with the aid of a plastic holder that snaps onto the scouring pad. There's also a companion piece, a plastic tray that holds the pad so it need not mess up sink or drawers while not in use.

When you paint radiators to match wall colors of the room, have them a shade or two lighter than the wall color as they will turn darker when the heat is turned on.

The WORLD OUTDOORS

DON'T stow away your fishing gear just because cool weather and the hunting season has arrived. There's plenty of angling fun to be had in most parts of the country.

Many sportsmen go strictly by the seasons. If hunting season is open, they reason that a fellow won't have much luck fishing. This "ain't necessarily so" as plenty of fishermen will attest. Some just live for the days when the lake freezes over heavy enough for fishing through the ice. And others... they have found that there are plenty of fish to be caught in the brisk weather of Fall.

In the South, many veteran bass fishermen consider the month of September one of the best of the year... the month when the lazy, big lunkers can be more easily tempted to rise to a top water popping bait. The cooler temperature of the water, too, seems to put some extra pep and vigor into bluegill and sunfish.

Although some states restrict angling for certain species of fish to designated seasons, other states have "open" season the year round. Check your local and State laws if you are not familiar with them before you undertake year-round fishing. But, don't think that just because it's chilly enough for you to wear a jacket, it's too cold for the fish to bite.

Fishing is fun, the year round. You can, of course, get argument as to which season of the year is the best. Some anglers swear by Spring; many like the lazy days of Summer, when it feels best to dip the toes into the water; Fall is preferred by many; and to a small and hardy group, there's nothing like Winter fishing.

The season doesn't really matter. Fishing is fun and relaxing. The best time to fish—when ever you get the time.

Most of the heat that gets from the sun hits the equatorial regions. Some of it is reflected right back into space. The rest is absorbed, heating the land and evaporating ocean water.

In Borneo, diamonds are found in many stream beds and panned like gold. The island's 290,000 square miles contain, as well, rubber, coal, pepper and most important of all, petroleum.

"A Diller, A Dollar ..."

SUMMER'S END and the start of another school year is a time of mixed emotions for youngsters. Caught in these photos are two quite different yet typical reactions. An "old hand" at cracking the books (left) frowns dejectedly. To him, school is only a confinement. To the tots receiving last minute instructions from mother (below), however, school is an awesome adventure—their first "away from home."

WHETHER THEY ARE happy about school or not, if you drive you have a responsibility to see children arrive there safely. Watch for signs like this one. Slow down as you approach, ready to stop.

STAY ALERT DRIVING near school buses. Be prepared to stop quickly. More buses like this International are taking to the road now, because more children are attending school than before.

South Magazine reports:

"S&H GREEN STAMPS are helping Dixie grow"

"During the past few years a major addition to business in the South has been the fast-growing trading stamp industry.

"Proof of the growing importance stamps play in bolstering the area's economy is found in the Southern operations of The Sperry and Hutchinson Company, distributors of the widely-known S&H Green Stamps.

"In 1957 alone, S&H purchased more than $12 million worth of merchandise from Southern manufacturers, providing many of the area's industries with increased outlets for their products and boosting Southern payrolls.

"Added to those figures is the $2,250,000 annual payroll written by S&H for its present and growing 866-person Southern personnel. The Company has invested hundreds of thousands of dollars in real estate to locate its modern redemption centers, indicating that the industry has become a permanent part of the area's business life."
