-- Overlook On Life --
By WARREN S. REEVE
The idea of "Overlook" is taken from the Overlooks provided for viewing panoramas along the Blue Ridge Parkway.

Except for the persistently clinging oak leaves, which the frosts and the gales have now seared into browns and tans, the colorful foliage of autumn has passed away, and the slopes of our hills and mountains assume their wintry hue. Each season of the year, but especially the fall season, evokes in us, I think a particular mood.

We human beings are subject to our moods. It is part of our human nature to have moods. The capacity for them is a blessing. They can, however, become our bane.

Perhaps we should pause to ask what we mean by a mood. I suppose, popularly, a mood signifies some special sort of feeling that may be induced either from within ourselves, or in response to things outside ourselves. Unquestionably some of our moods are the product of our physical condition. Poor health may put us in a mood of pessimism or grouching, whereas overflowing energy and splendid physical fitness may produce moods of confidence, cheer and jollity.

Moods are also our way of reacting to the environment around us and are indicative of our sensitivity to the external influences that play upon us. A dark, dreary morning of winter may take the light out of our eyes. The balmy brightness of a spring morning will make a boy whistle or sing. The pensive beauty of a quiet sea, tinted lavender by the evening's lights and shades, will cast a hush over our fringed souls and give us a sense of the infinite.

That human beings have the ability to respond consciously and intelligently to the things around them is something that most of us usually take for granted. But when you really stop to think about it, is it not one of the grandest mysteries of the universe? I use the word, "mystery" advisedly, ruin us. Moods are like horses, useful when trained and in control, but a menace when wild and loose.

Education in living will be a failure if it does not include a disciplining of our moods. Many incipient moods ought to be squelched at their outset. If we desire to be people of solid character, we must learn absolutely not to tolerate certain moods within ourselves.

Although man is gifted with the ability to be conscious of his moods, on the whole he does better not to be too conscious of them. For moods are like petulant children. They enjoy getting the attention of people. Whereas they should always be under the mastery of our minds and wills, as I said above, they cleverly contrive to make themselves masters, and they are smart enough to know that if they can become the center of attention, they will have attained their purpose. They will have us under their control, and we are in the peril of being ruined. So, moods must be kept in their place and disciplined.

And when such is a matured person's true character-victory, he can, from those God-given moments of holy moods, create his works of art and loveliness that will, if known to others, delight the world, and that may — shall we fancy it? — adorn the everlasting picture galleries of heaven!

Letter To Editor
November 4, 1958

Dear Editor:

Since leaving North Carolina, I have not received my copy of the Yancey Record. Please send back copies from October 16th, and oblige. You may be interested to know that I obtained a position upon my return, in a newspaper office on Miami Beach, assisting as "Gal Friday" Paul M. Bruun, famed columnist, who writes a syndicated column which goes to many northern papers. I enclose today's. From time to time I will send you a few items which if you think suitable you can put in the Record. Here are the following:

Obituaries
JAY B. TILLEY

Jay B. Tilley, 45, of Green Mountain, died in a Johnson City, Tenn. hospital Sunday night after a long illness.

Services were held Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. The Rev. Horace Burgess officiated and burial was in Fairview Cemetery.

Surviving are the wife, Mrs. Hassie Renfro Tilley; three daughters, Mrs. Bill Young of Marion, Mrs. John Hughes of Charlotte and Alice Faye Tilley, of the home; a son, Cecil of the home; three grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. T. P. Gravette of Swannanoa; and seven brothers, Roy E. of Green Mountain, Claude and Carl of Marion, Boone, and Charles of Johnson City, Ralph of Durham, and Lee of Portsmouth, Va.

are now ensconced in their winter quarters, and enjoying the friendly social atmosphere which obtains in their town.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pelletier will soon be coming to the southland, and it is possible that they, too, will settle in Avon Park. Could be that some day Avon Park will rival Cattail as winter residence for a lot of the Cattail summer colonists.

Mrs. Agnes M. Angell returned to her Miami home on October 20th, stopping over in Avon Park, Fla. enroute to visit the Ira Wests.

It was with keen regret that the Miami friends of Mary Melton learned of Tom's passing. They join me in sending their heartfelt sympathy to Mary.

Agnes M. Angell

Four big reasons why FORD IS OUTSELLING ALL OTHER '59 CARS

The world's best-selling car is the car with Thunderbird elegance

In the greatest styling decision of the year, the American public has already shown a clear preference for the new Fords. Ford sales are way ahead of all competition. Why? One reason is the classic simplicity of their Thunderbird-inspired design—clean, crisp lines that are pure automobile! And Fords are built for people—to sit in, to drive, to ride in—with comfort.

The car in hottest demand across the land has greater roominess and comfort

Thousands of customers have bought the new Ford over all competition for another compelling reason—it's a true six-passenger car. (The only four-passenger car we recommend is the Thunderbird!) All six Ford passengers get plenty of every kind of room—from leg and head to elbow and hip. Rear seat passengers don't feel like they're riding with their feet in a bucket!

The No. 1 car in sales saves money on gas, on oil, on maintenance bills

A new Ford will save you up to 5¢ a gallon on gas. That's because both standard engines—Six or Thunderbird V-8—thrive on regular gas. And Ford saves on oil, too, with a Full-Flow Oil Filter as standard equipment. Drive 4000 miles between oil changes! And you can forget about waxing your car. Ford's Diamond Lustre Finish stays gleaming bright without waxing—ever!

The most popular American car is priced as much as $102.75 lower

Ford costs you less right down the line than the competition. Compare price tags and you'll see that the manufacturer's suggested retail price of a Ford, equipped with radio, heater and automatic transmission, is as much as $102.75 less than the major competition! And on an air-conditioned car, you can save up to $219.85. So compare and save on a 1959 Ford!
