INDIAN SUMMER IDEAL TIME FOR OUTDOOR DINING

INDIAN SUMMER DINING — imported wrought iron furniture and a new melamine dinnerware pattern that traces its inspiration directly to sunny Italy, set the scene for Indian Summer terrace dining. The brilliant splash of ripe fruit colors in the center of the chalk white plates is repeated in the centerpiece and provides a strong color accent in an otherwise cool black and white setting. The blue of the grapes is echoed again in the tall stemmed Italian glasses which are ready to be filled with a light red wine to go with a meal with a Neapolitan accent.

Everyone knows that food tastes better when eaten outdoors, and from now until the first real nip of fall, is the peak of the outdoor dining season.

The hearty Italian-type casserole given here, however, will prove immensely satisfying no matter where you serve it. And so will the fresh new melamine dinner service, so perfect for terrace meals, but equally appealing indoors on the coldest winter day.

In addition to the usual place settings for eight, this new pattern includes a decorated salad bowl of really generous proportions, together with single handled decorated bowls that are as appropriate for hot soup as they are for chilled salad.

As for the recipe you are about to add to your collection of top favorites, a word of warning should perhaps be spoken. Once you serve it, you are apt to go on serving it over and over again. One bride, who started out with this recipe five years ago, is still serving it for every important occasion and at least once every two weeks in between. Another hostess once had the recipe mimeographed to hand out to guests who invariably asked for it.

"Casserole Napoli" is not Italian in the strict traditional sense, but is a perfect companion for charming Italian style melamine dinnerware, shown here in a setting at the National Design center in New York.

So, starting with the well designed, long-lasting melamine, let us proceed to one of the most universally popular dishes you can serve on it. Easy to prepare, you'll never forget it, once you have made it.

CASSEROLE NAPOLI

1 pkg. wide noodles, cooked as directed in salted water

1 lg. onion, sliced and sauted in 2-tbs. oil

1 lb. ground beef, added and cooked with onion

Add: 1 can tomato soup

1 can tomato paste

1 small can sliced mushrooms, drained

1/2 lb. processed American cheese, diced

Summer until cheese is well blended, add drained noodles, mix thoroughly and place in a 2 quart casserole. Bake uncovered in moderate oven until light brown on top. Serves 6.

Green peas are the vegetable of choice to go with this, but all that is really needed is a well-seasoned tossed salad and plenty of fresh, crusty Italian bread. You can top it off with spumoni or a spicy nut cake heaped with whipped cream.
