Few are the people in the world today who are not familiar with the life of Jesus. Many of us find the account of his life among our earliest recollections. Every Christmas we are reminded that he was born in a stable at Bethlehem. We soon learn how he grew up in a little village called Nazareth. He was a carpenter by trade. And, as far as we can tell, he spent only three years of his life teaching his doctrine. Within that short time, he accomplished a great deal.

We are told that during those years Jesus worked many miracles and attracted a large following. From among this following, we see his singling out twelve men who were his constant special companions. Then from among these twelve chosen men, he picked one, Peter, to whom he promised special consideration. He was betrayed by Judas, one of his chosen twelve. He was denied by Peter, the chosen one among his chosen, and abandoned by all. His life ended in apparent failure. His enemies took him, scourged and ridiculed him and nailed him to a cross. Then after three hours of terrible agony, he died.

But that was not the end. We are told that he rose again from the dead; that he turned defeat into victory by conquering death. He remained on earth for forty days appearing to many of his former followers. He spoke with them and ate with them and allowed them to touch him. So convinced were they that Jesus had indeed risen, that most of all of witness to the resurrection of them, went to their death baring Christ. And then when the forty days were up, Jesus ascended into heaven. But before he left, we are told that he gave his followers a mission to fulfill and promised that he would return.

This is a brief outline of Jesus' life. But what kind of man was Jesus? If he had been born in a barn just outside of Burnsville and had grown up in Ramseystown; if you had met him as he traveled up and down the dirt and gravel roads of Yancey County teaching the good news of the kingdom of God, what would he have been like? Would he have looked any different from anyone else? Would his voice have sounded any different? Would he ever have been hungry, thirsty or tired, happy or sad? And what would the people have thought of him? Would they have believed him? Would they all have been kind to him and have accepted him? Especially when he said he was God, what would they think?

The Christian Religion is not something. It is someone. It is Christ. Jesus said, "Learn of me." Jesus said, "Follow me." We must know Jesus. We must love him and want to become like him.

Here is another thought. Jesus was born in Yancey County. He also moved here. He does live in Ramseystown. He also lives in Burnsville and Pensacola. He is your next door neighbor, a member of your household. Did he not say, "Whatever you do for one of these, the least of my brethren, you do for me." How are you treating him?

Mining Engineers To Meet

On November 17 the Carolinas Section of the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical, and Petroleum Engineers, Inc. will hold their annual meeting in Raleigh. The program will start at 9:30 a. m. with registration at the Sir Walter Hotel. The forenoon will include technical presentations on "Plant Controlled by Computers", "North Carolina Phosphates", and "Trend of Southeast Industrial Minerals". In the afternoon the group will have the option of visiting the Research Triangle, Tungsten Mining Corporation's operations, or going to the N. C. State-Virginia football game. Evening guest speaker will be Mr. Marling Ankeny, Director, U. S. Bureau of Mines.

The Carolinas Section is composed of 120 members and associates located in North and South Carolina. Its members are geologists, mining, Metallurgical engineers, and other technical people associated with the mineral industry in these two states. This Section is one of ninety-eight local sections distributed among seven Regions located throughout the United States and foreign countries. There are approximately 40,000 members including associates and student members in the A. I. M. E. national organizations, which headquarters in New York City.

Most mineral activity in the Carolinas is in the field of non-metals. North Carolina is the first state in the nation in producing lithium minerals, feldspar, sheet and scrap mica, and crushed granite. It ranks second in tungsten and olivine; and third in talc and pyrophyllite combined. South Carolina ranks second in the nation in output of kaolin, kyanite, and vermiculite; and third in crushed granite.

Persons interested in attending the meeting or who are eligible to join this organization should contact Mr. Neil O. Johnson, Manager of Foote Mineral Company's Kings Mountain Operation, Delegate of the Southeast Region, Ralph Adair, Burnsville, or any one of the members located throughout North or South Carolina.

A Twist For Tradition!

Just for a change — serve a mincemeat dessert in a beautiful jellied mold instead of in a pie crust! It's delicious and as festive as can be. A delightful variation of the recipe is easily made by folding 1/2 cup whipped cream into the gelatin right after adding the mincemeat and walnuts.

JELLIED MINCEMEAT

1 regular size package (3 ounces) Jell-O Cherry Flavor Gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 cup cold water
1 cup moist mincemeat*
1/4 cup chopped California walnuts
condensed mincemeat may be used. Prepare as directed. Cool.
Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water. Pour 1/2 cup mixture into 1-quart mold or divide among 6 individual molds. Chill until almost firm.
Chill remaining gelatin until slightly thickened. Then fold in mincemeat and walnuts. Spoon onto gelatin in mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with sweetened whipped cream, flavored with rum extract, and garnish with whole maraschino cherries and mint leaves, if desired. Makes 6 servings.
