

TWO MINUTES WITH THE BIBLE

"COMFORT ONE ANOTHER"
The atom, hydrogen and nitrogen bombs, increasing world tension and the present trend of events in general are filling many with fear, and there are even sincere believers in Christ who fear that perhaps the "Great Tribulation" of prophecy, with all its horrors, is at hand.

It is true indeed that even Paul's epistles warn of this world judgment to come. "The day of the Lord," he says, "so cometh as a thief in the night."
"For when they shall say, Peace and safety, then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape" (I Thes. 5:2, 3).

But before this time comes the Lord will recall His ambassadors, as the Apostle tells us in the preceding passage:

"For the Lord Himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first: "Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air; and so shall we ever be with the Lord."

"WHEREFORE COMFORT ONE ANOTHER WITH THESE WORDS" (I Thes. 4:16-18).

This is the event with which the dispensation of the grace of God will be brought to a close. Then will follow "the day of His wrath," but even as Paul goes on to tell about this in the passage which follows, he reassures the members of Christ's Body that they will not be included among those to whom the Lord will come as "a thief in the night." "Ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief. Ye are all the children of the light. . . . God hath not appointed us to wrath, but to obtain salvation by our Lord Jesus Christ, who died for us. . . . Wherefore comfort yourselves together. . . ." (I Thes. 5:4-11).

School and Your Child

Every School Child Should Have His Own Dictionary
Every home should have a dictionary and, if possible, each child nine years or older should have his own personal copy.

This valuable tool for learning contains far more information than most folks realize.

Take Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary. In addition to the large section where words are defined, there are many "little dictionaries" providing a variety of information.

These are listed and explained by Mrs. Robert Boone, a veteran Durham (N. C.) High School librarian. Mrs. Boone last summer instructed in the library science department at Appalachian State Teachers College, Boone, N. C.

Webster begins with a "Guide to Pronunciation," says Librarian Boone. This section explains standard rules and symbols and abbreviations used in word definitions. A small "n" means noun, for example. Capital "G" following a word means that it is of German origin.

"Abbreviations Used in Writing and Printing" are found in the back of the dictionary. Abbreviations in general usage are listed and explained.

"Arbitrary Signs and Symbols" are given with their meanings in such special fields as astronomy and commerce. @ stands for "at" and # means number for example.

The "Biographical Names" section contains vital statistics about famous men and women. "A Pronouncing Gazetteer" lists towns, cities, rivers, and other places, along with their locations and key facts, such as historical associations, population, and industries.

Want to learn the correct pronunciation of Guantanamo, the American naval base in Cuba? The Gazetteer gives "Gwan to na mo."

Interested in origins of first names? See "A Pronouncing Vocabulary of Common English Given Names." Did you know that Phillip means "lover of horses?"

The "Vocabulary of Rhymes" offers a "miniature rhyming dictionary for the poet or the person who wants to write merely a birthday card. Needs a rhyme for bump? Look up "ump. You'll find clump, clump, dump."

Weak in spelling? In a special section there's a listing of the most important spelling rules and their exceptions.

The pages on "Punctuation, Compounds, Capitals. . . ." can be helpful when you wonder how to use a comma, when to hyphenate, and when to capitalize.

"Preparations of Copy for the Press" is an index of printers' terms and proofreaders' marks.

Want to know the location of a U. S. or Canadian college or University? A reference lists the institutions alphabetically, with their founding dates, locations and types of education offered.

Foreign words and phrases were once printed separately in Webster's but now they are found in the main word section.

A good dictionary costs several dollars. But it offers plenty for the money. If your child or a friend doesn't have a Mr. Webster, you might consider giving him one as a birthday or Christmas present.

It can be a very useful gift. Editor's note: Readers having questions concerning education are invited to send inquiries to School and Your Child, Appalachian State Teachers College, Boone, N. C.
