3. . . "He (Jesus left Judea and departed into Galilee."
4. . . "And he must need go through Samaria."
Why did Jesus want to go through Samaria? There was several reasons. One, it seems that through Samaria could be a shorter route in His journey. But most of all Jesus wanted to prove that He wanted to win people into His onct that would believe in Him, one that would believe in Him, regardless of the race.
The scene starts at Jacob's Well, near the village of Sychar in Samaria. Jesus was resting at the well while his disciples went into the village to buy food.
6. . . "And it was about the sixth hour."
The sixth hour was from 9 to 12 midday. We could say it was probably close to 12 because His Disciples had gone to buy food.

Jesus surprised His Disciples by announcing that, "He must go through Samaria," because there was ill feelings, between the Jews and the Samaritans which had lasted for centuries. But Jesus disregarded this as he did all feelings of narrowness and prejudice.
While Jesus waited for His disciples at the well a woman came from the village to draw water. I believe that women didn't come to the well very often at this hour but maybe she didn't want to be seen when the other women came to draw water. Maybe Jesus knew this and that was one of the reasons He came at this hour. It seems that Jesus is always near.

I am reminded of the man who was always walking on a dark night. He seemed to get off the road and went into a rock quarry. He didn't know that he was in the quarry but Jesus did. All of a sudden there was a voice that spoke his name. He stopped and listened but didn't hear anything. He stood for a few seconds and then began on his way again. Then, there was the voice again. He stumbled and fell because he was afraid. He reached out his hand to break his fall but there was no ground under his hand. He barely hung on the ledge that he was on. If he had taken one more step he would have been dead because it was over one hundred feet to the bottom.

Jesus is always ready when we are. But there are conditions because Jesus said that His Spirit would not always strive with men.

The following is a check-list for use by those who, now or in the future, will be filing claims for social security benefits. I suggest that you keep this check-list with your social security card so that when a claim is filed you, or your survivor (s), will know what documents and information will be required when a claim is filed.

While the documents and information required may vary somewhat depending on the type of case, the following will generally be required in all cases:

1. Social security account numbers of the worker and of any other members of the family for whom the benefits will be requested, including children.
2. Proof of age for the worker if he is retiring or filing for disability, and for his wife if she is at least 62 years of age. This evidence must be at least 10 years old and preferably much older.

3. Birth certificates of his children if they are under age 18, or if they are unmarried and fully disabled and have been so disabled ever since the reached age 18.

4. Proof of the worker's earnings in the year before the application for benefits is filed. This will be his tax withholding statement, (Form W-2) if the worker was employed for wages. If he was self-employed, it will be a complete copy of his federal income tax return, plus proof of having filed with the Internal Revenue Service (cancel check, money order receipt, etc., showing that the federal tax was paid).

5. Each worker, whether employed or self-employed, will be asked to estimate the amount of his earnings for the year in which he files application for benefits.

A widow who is filing a claim for her deceased husband should bring a copy of her marriage certificate, and proof of her age. She should also be prepared to give complete information regarding the dates and places of any previous marriage of the worker or herself.

While the importance of furnishing the necessary proofs is emphasized, a person should not office employees will assist because he is unable to obtain a certain proof. The social security office employees will assist applicants when necessary in obtaining the documents which are needed.
