WAMY COUNTIES
TO RECEIVE TWENTY
WORKERS

The North Carolina Fund announced today that Watauga, Avery, Mitchell and Yancey Counties have been selected to receive twenty North Carolina Volunteers to work in local summer service projects.

The Volunteers will arrive here June 17, after finishing a week of orientation and training at Duke University. They will be accompanied by adult advisors.

North Carolina Volunteers will be working in the four counties for local agencies including the public welfare departments, the public health departments, the public school system, and the Avery-Mitchell - Yancey Regional Library.

Communities where Volunteers will serve this summer were selected from numerous applicants by the Board of Directors of The North Carolina Fund. Last summer only community action programs funded by The North Carolina Fund were eligible to apply for Volunteers. This summer all community action programs in the state were eligible to submit proposals for North Carolina Volunteers.

The North Carolina Volunteers program was started in 1964 with 100 students participating. Six North Carolina communities were served. This year the program has been expanded and more than 250 Volunteers will be working in 17 project areas.

Recruiting for Volunteers began in March of this year when recruiters from The North Carolina Fund started visits to 56 college campuses in the state. In April, Volunteer officials faced the complex task of screening the top 250 from 800 applicants. Each student was screened by a campus selections board. Applicants then appeared before regional interview boards composed of community leaders in business and education as well as people from community agencies directly concerned with poverty problems. The final screening was performed by the North Carolina Volunteers staff.

This summer's Volunteers will work at a variety of jobs. They will be attempting to extend existing services to the communities and, where there is a definite need, to create new and constructive programs to meet these needs. (It is hoped that programs started by the Volunteers will be continued by members of the community after the North Carolina Volunteers leave.) All Volunteers will be involved in programs designed to offer new opportunities to disadvantaged families, starting them on the road to self-reliance and self-respect.

Volunteers will work for eleven weeks. In most cases they will be living together on college campuses or in other facilities near their work areas. During this time they will receive their room and board. At the end of the program each Volunteer will be given an honorarium of 250 dollars.

Assignment of Volunteers will be announced at a later date.

Communities in North Carolina where Volunteers will work this summer are:

Dare, Clay-Cherokee; Rowan, Richmond, Robeson, Scotland; Forsyth, Durham, Watauga, Avery, Mitchell and Yancey; Craven, Harnett, Macon, Macklenburg, New Hanover, Surry, Wilkes, Yadkin; Pitt, Cumberland, Wake, and Orange.
