Thomas W. Simpson, President of the Asheville-Buncombe Technical Institute, and Harry Clarke, President of Western Carolina Industries make the following announcement.

Nine Industries in Buncombe County are experiencing tremendous business growth. Because of this growth, the employment opportunities in the metal working divisions have been estimated to be around 200 jobs available.

The manpower requirements are broken down as follows:

- A. Machine Operators.
- B. Machinist.
- C. Tool & Die Makers.

In order to meet the Manpower requirements of these expanding Industries, the Asheville-Buncombe Technical Institute has established the following program.

1. Four groups of twenty students will begin the Fall quarter of studies on August 16 in the Machine Shop Curriculum.

2. At the close of the Fall quarter these students will be given an opportunity to take employment in the metal working divisions of the nine industries.

3. The students may continue their studies on a full or part time schedule that will be compatible with their work load until they complete the requirements for the state diploma.

4. Prospective students between the ages of 18 and 40, who have a 10th grade education or better should make application directly to the Institute on Victoria Road.

This news release is given as an appeal to all news media to convey the story of these available jobs to the Western North Carolina area. The first quarter of work in the Machine Shop Curriculum at the Asheville-Buncombe Technical Institute will be necessary for entry into these occupational positions.
