

INTREST SHOWN IN ROADSIDE
CLEAN-UP

Much interest in cleaning up the roadsides and making them more attractive is being shown this summer by organized community clubs taking part in the Western North Carolina Rural Community Development Program. A total of 68 communities, well over half the areas competing in the improvement contest, are taking part in a special roadside beautification contest.

Yancey county communities in the roadside contest are: Brush Creek, Double Island, Mine Fork and Newdale.

Purpose of the contest is to stimulate community pride and organized community effort in roadside clean-up programs and other projects that will help to protect and maintain the beauty of the roadsides.

According to Mayor Earl W. Eller of Asheville, president of the sponsoring Asheville Agricultural Development Council, "Many of the community clubs over Western North Carolina have shown great interest in the past in cleaning-up the roadsides and making their communities more attractive places in which to live. Results have shown that tremendous improvement can be made when communities tackle this problem and much needs to be done. We believe the organized rural communities through this program will 'show the way' in what can be done to improve the scenic beauty of this entire area."

Special area prizes are being offered to the communities doing the best job on improving their roadsides. First prize of $100 is sponsored by the ADOA Corporation of Biltmore, second prize of $50 by Ivey's of Asheville and four honorable mention prizes of $25 each by Ivey's and E. D. Mitchell of Asheville.

Communities in the contest will be inspected by county judges in late August and county winners will be visited by an area judging team in early September.
