NEW BOOKS ACQUIRED BY PUBLIC LIBRARY

By Ashtor Chapman

If you're looking for a good novel you should find something exactly suited to your reading preferences among the following new books acquired by your Avery-Mitchell-Yancey Public Library:

SLOWLY, BY THE HAND UNFURLED by Romulus Linney. A highly dramatic novel full of color and suspense. It's also a fascinating exercise in self-destruction, but it's final strength rests in its compassionate treatment of human guilt and suffering.

YANKEE DOODLE DANDY by Noel B. Gerson. A biographical novel about John Hancock, told against the thrilling background of a young nation's striving for freedom; filled with the drama and intense excitement of the most stirring period in America's history.

HOW FAR TO BETHLEHEM? by Norah Lofts. A brilliant re-telling of the most beautiful story of all time. She brings her readers a rare and exquisite experience so deeply moving that it transcends time and familiarity.

MESSIAH by Gore Vidal. This book, in Vidal's characteristically urbane style, will arouse anger and resentment in some people; it will stir and startle others; it will grip readers and make them think.

THE MALLOW DIARIES by Robert Nathan. A love story involving the eternal struggle between the young and the old.

THE MAN WITH THE GOLD GUN. The last of the "James Bond" novels written by Ian Fleming before his death. It is considered equally as good as any of its dozen predecessors which relate the adventures of Operative 007.

STORM TIDE. This exciting novel by Allan R. Bosworth will please all readers who enjoy tales of adventure and the sea—spiced with an unusual love story.

A CONFIDENCE IN MAGIC by Ramona Stewart. The perceptive and compassionate story of a desperate young man and the facts about life and loving he discovers in a Lexington Ave. brownstone.

A HIVE OF GLASS. This novel of spine-tingling suspense by P. M. Hubbard leads a glass-fancier from the dim obscurity of a second-hand shop through the sinister mazes of the city's auction rooms to a small town and an isolated house with strange inhabitants.

CALL IT ACCIDENT by Rae Foley. A "Mr. Potter" mystery. He was right, but even Mr. Potter couldn't have anticipated the dangers from a bizarre conspiracy or that he would become involved in a shattering and delightful romance.

FLASHES AND FLAGS, written and illustrated in color by Jack Coggins, in a comprehensive story of signaling.

OFFENSIVE AND DEFENSIVE DRILLS FOR WINNING BASKETBALL by Lyle Brown presents 250 game-situation drills that train players to react instinctively during the heat of competition, complete with charts.

THIS THE LAW

BY: ROBERT E. LEE
(For the N. C. Bar Association)
ANIMALS

This is the first of a fall series of articles which will appear each week throughout the next three months. They have been written for the non-lawyer as a public service of the North Carolina Bar Association.

May any person kill a mad dog?

Yes. The statutes of North Carolina expressly so provide.

The statutes also permit any person to kill any dog "if he is killing sheep, cattle, hogs, or poultry."

If a person knows, or has good reason to believe, that his dog is mad and has bitten another person, he becomes criminally liable if he neglects or refuses immediately to kill the dog, and further forfeits $50 to him who will sue therefor, as well as being civilly liable for damages to the person bitten.

Is it a criminal offense for an owner or keeper of a dog to fail to list the same for taxes?

Yes. The owner of the home or lessee of such home is responsible for listing any dog belonging to any member of his family.

Is a blind person entitled to be accompanied by his "seeing-eye dog" or "guide dog" on all public conveyances and to all other places of public accommodations?

Yes. Such dogs, when educated by a recognized training agency or school, have privileges other dogs do not have when they accompany blind persons.

Are there any laws protecting horses on the highways?

Yes. Under the statutes of North Carolina the driver of a motor vehicle, on signal by raising the hand of a person riding, leading or driving a horse or other draft animal, bring his motor vehicle immediately to a stop.

If the horse or other draft animal appears badly frightened, and the driver of the motor vehicle is signaled to do so, the motor of the vehicle must be caused to cease to run.

of the hot rod sport to be the best complication of authoritative material published in the field.

THE ROCK AND THE WILLOW by Mildred Lee. A richly rounded story with exceptionally mature values seldom offered in a novel published expressly for older teens.

MYSTERY OF THE ANGRY IDOL by Phyllis A. Whitney. This book for juvenile readers is a charming mystery laid in the seaport of Mystic, Conn., and involves a sea captain, the last of the whaling ships and a hideously carved Chinese image.
