

Wyatt Aboard Destroyer Tender USS Everglades

USS EVERGLADES (AD-24) (FHTWC) Dec. 6—Engineman Second Class Thomas R. Wyatt, USN, son of Mr and Mrs. J. I. Wyatt of Route 2, Burnsville, N. C., has deployed to the Mediterranean aboard the destroyer tender USS Everglades, which will assist in the repair and maintenance of Sixth Fleet destroyers.

The Sixth Fleet is completely independent of shore bases, getting its entire support from seagoing service units, including tenders, supply, ammunition and repair ships.

The Everglades is equipped to perform a great range of repair jobs, from installing a new propeller to precise calibration of intricate electronic equipment. In order to do this, she is equipped with heavy machine shops, print shops, an electronics shop, foundry, optical shop and a helicopter repair shop.

The Everglades will be anchored in Naples, Italy during most of her deployment. She is scheduled to return to her homeport of Charleston, S. C. in early spring.
