

Quick Orange Cake

The following recipe was contributed by Mrs. Annie Bennett of Nu-Wray Inn:

QUICK ORANGE CAKE

- 1 package yellow cake mix
- 1 package instant lemon pudding mix (granular type — without flavor capsule)
- ¼ cup salad oil
- ¼ cup water
- 4 Eggs

Mix water with cake mix. Add oil, pudding mix and eggs, one at a time — Beat two or three minutes.

Pour into a greased and floured 10 inch tube pan. Put the cake into a cold oven. This is very important.

Turn on the oven to 325 degrees and bake for 1 hour.

Glaze

- 2 cups confectioners sugar
- 1 small can frozen orange juice (thawed and undiluted)

Mix sugar and orange juice together. Pour over the top of cake before turning it out. Pour the remainder on the sides and top until it is all absorbed.

Center Under Contract

RALEIGH — Contracts for the construction of an alcoholic rehabilitation center at Black Mountain were awarded to low bidders today, according to Ben Aiken, general business manager of the North Carolina Department of Mental Health.

The contracts and low bidders were: general contract, Z. B. Robinson Construction Company, Inc.; plumbing contract, A. W. Jones Plumbing Company; heating and A-C contract, R. & W., Inc., all of Asheville; and food equipment contract, Food Equipment Company, Raleigh.

The center at Black Mountain will serve citizens of western North Carolina, and is part of a building program authorized by the 1965 North Carolina General Assembly which included a center for eastern North Carolina and remodeling of the existing Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center at Butner.

Bids which have been received on the center at Butner exceeded appropriated funds. Re-study of the Butner plans is underway in an effort to bring the cost within available funds. The proposed new center for eastern N. C. at Greenville should be put out for bids within the next two to three weeks, Aiken said.

Institute Offers New Program

SANFORD — Central Carolina Technical Institute is offering, for the first time this year, an educational program — agricultural research technology — which is not duplicated anywhere in North Carolina.

The program is not only unique in the State, but it is the only known one of its kind in the nation.

The two-year curriculum is designed to prepare students for entry into the rapidly growing field of agricultural research.

George I. Resseguie, director of adult education at the technical institute, says, "Agricultural research will be a dominant factor in the continued development of the agricultural industry in North Carolina. The trend towards larger farming operations, greater automation and the development of new products, materials, methods and equipment will make skilled technicians a necessity for successful agricultural development."

It is now the plan for the students to work at North Carolina State University during the summer months between the two years of study where they may gain experience that will be valuable in their future careers.

When a student completes the agricultural research technology program, he should be qualified to find employment with state and federal experiment stations and farms; research centers of pharmaceutical, fertilizer and chemical companies; large farms and sales and service organizations.

SAFETY-MINDED PUBLIC OFFICIALS PUSH NEW CODE

State and municipal building code authorities are getting behind a new model code which tells how thick and strong safety glass should be when used in glass doors and panels in private homes and commercial structures.

Sponsored by the National Safety Council, the code has been accepted as a standard by the United States of America Standards Institute.

Local public officials are especially interested in the safety recommendations contained in the new code. A patio door made of safety glass will stand up to some pretty rough knocks. But even if it does break under tremendous impact, tempered safety glass simply crumbles into many small fragments without sharp cutting edges.

Building officials and other interested regulatory officials may obtain a copy of the new safety glass standard by writing to U.S.A. Standards Institute at 10 East 40th St., New York, N. Y. 10016.

HOTEL ETIQUETTE

Checking in at a hotel or motel is a custom that has carried over from the old "Guest-book" days of the early inns. Newlyweds and honeymooners often feel uncertain about check-in procedures and bring their marriage certificate along to show the desk clerk — forgetting that the wife's wedding ring is a symbol to the world!

Final Square Dance

The final square dance of the season will be held at Geneva Hall, Little Switzerland, Saturday night, September 23. Dancing will get underway at the usual time of 8:30 p. m. This has been one of the most successful seasons in the history of the popular event, which has been held annually for almost 40 years.

The dances are sponsored by the Little Switzerland Community Association, Inc., as a means of raising money for community projects. Music for the dances is furnished by THE STONY MOUNTAIN BOYS, a widely-known local Bluegrass group. Both the Association and the band would like to take this opportunity to express sincere thanks for the wonderful attendance at the Hall this year, and they are looking forward to an even bigger summer next year.
