GROUND BROKEN FOR EXPANSION OF PACEMAKER PLANT AT MICAVILLE

Much has been written about "industry seekers" — men from Chambers of Commerce and other interested cit.zens traveling throughout the country trying to induce industry to me their plants, and, more importantly, the r money into their town or county.

Two men from Micaville without fanfare, have gone quietly about the bus ness of bringing a thriving manufacturing plant to the little village of Micaville. These two men are Rev. John Powers and Jack Boone. Mr. Boone, a native of Micaville. and son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boone, is employed by the State Highway Department. Rev. Powers is a native of Ohio, but, being a Presbyterian minister, presently pastor of the Micaville-Estatoe Presbyterian churches, has traveled extensively throughout the country, and from all reports has always left the section to which he is called better than he found it. Certainly that is true of Micaville and Yancey County:

THE PACEMAKER MANU-FACTURING CORPORATION operates three plants — one in Hickory, where the headquarters office is located; one in Spruce Pine; and one in Micaville. Al Henderson is general super ntendent, supervising the operation of all three plants. They manufacture high type men's and boys' blue jeans.

Plant No. 2 of PACEMAKER MANUFACTURING CORP. began operation about two years ago in a plant, formerly used as a roller skating rink, owned by Powers and Boone, who were responsible for bringing the plant to Micaville.

The present facility, with approximately 6.000 square feet floor space employs approximately 78 people. With the exception of a maintenance man, a machine fixer, inspectors and packers, the workers are machine operators, and, as might be expected, women. Mrs. Georgia Burleson is plant manager. Mrs. Marcella Hughes is floor supervisor. Practically all employees are residents of Yancey County.

The plant is on a five-day operating schedule, except during rush periods when it goes on a sx-day schedule. Wages are good and are in line with wages paid by similar manufacturing plants throughout the country.

Ground for the expansion of the present plant was broken two weeks ago. This will be a steel, cinder block and concrete fire-proof building, with approximately 20,000 sq. ft. floor space. When completed and in operation it will employ an additional 200 people. The building will be done by local carpenters and workmen insofar as possible, with Rev. Powers, a master builder himself, keeping an eye on the overall construction.

When this building is completed and in full operation it will mean that 275 residents of Yancey County will have an opportunity to work near home. These same people, without this opportunity, might find it necessary to travel a distance of perhaps 50 to 75 miles a day to get to and from work. In addition to the time spent on the job there is the time spent in travel, wear and tear on automobile, to say nothing of the hazard of mountain driving during the winter months.

Our congratulations to Messrs Boone and Powers, "May their tribe increase."
