Students Of "Painting In The Mountains" Study And Paint A Variety Of Subjects

Painting In The Mountains

"Painting in the Mountains" now in its sixth year, was last week completing its first season in a new studio on Phillips Knob overlooking Burnsville.

The studio, located one mile north of the Town Square, offers a sweeping view of the Black Mountains and other high Yancey County peaks and encompasses greatly expanded teaching facilities—a large portrait studio where classes may do landscape and still life painting.

Areas in the naturally wooded surroundings are gradually being developed where students may work from nature at close range. A living collection of mountain wild flowers is being assembled for study purposes. Nearby a mountain stream will furnish further subject matter.

The instructors, Everett Kivette of New York and Burnsville and John Bryans of Arlington, Virginia met as students of Edward S. Shorter and the late Frank Stanley Herring at the Burnsville Painting Classes; and in 1966, with a view to carrying on the tradition of those classes, they originated "Painting in the Mountains".

Students are offered instruction in landscape, still life, and portrait painting and work in oil, acrylic, water color, charcoal and pastel. Workshop instruction is also given in linoleum block and silk screen printing.

Through the courtesy of the Mitchell-Avery-Yancey Library, films on art are presented for the students and the general public each Thursday evening at the local library, and it is hoped that a series of lectures on art history may be offered in the future as part of the class program.

As a service to the community, several scholarships are given each year to young people from the Burnsville area who display special ability in art. This year scholarships have been awarded to Donna Beaver and Rosemary Kampf of Burnsville and to Mitzi Pressnell of Newdale.

The student body as a whole is made up of amateur and semi professional artists of all ages and from a wide geographical area. The men and women in this year's classes come from Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Massachusetts, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and Washington, D.C.

With a future expansion of classes in view, Mr. Kivette has tentatively arranged to hold an additional two-week session this October to take advantage of the fall color. Further information can be obtained by writing to Everett Kivette, Painting in the Mountains, P. O. Box 182, Burnsville, N.C. 28714.

Note Of Thanks

In our recent bereavement we found great comfort in our many friends. We can never express all our thanks and appreciation for food, flowers, and concern. Your prayers and sympathy helped to lighten our sorrow, and we so much thank the Holcombe Brothers for their great friendship and being so kind and good. Also Rev. Wilson for his wonderful inspiration of words and thoughts. It all is appreciated so much our prayers can be our thanks to all.
