Use Of ESEA Funds In Mitchell

The recent newspaper and TV reports of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's audit of Mitchell County's use of $53,380.00 of ESEA funds has been questioned, along with nine other counties in the State, has caused speculation as to how the funds in question were used. The funds in question were used as a partial cost of the multipurpose facility that was constructed at Deaton School in 1967-68. Originally this construction was planned as a part of a pocket of construction that included the construction of a lunchroom and two new classrooms at Bowman School, and six additional classrooms at Gouge School. When bids were taken June 23, 1966 it was discovered that funds available were sufficient for only the Bowman and Gouge projects. Consequently, the Board of Education decided to proceed with the Bowman and Gouge projects and hold in obedience the Deaton project until such time as funds could be made available.

With the passage of the ESEA Act which made provision for school construction under certain conditions application was made for the $53,380.00 mentioned in the newspaper articles. This amount coupled with $11,234.34 secured from State Bond Funds was approved by the State Agency and used for this purpose. The application for these funds was fully approved by the State ESEA Agency, by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and by the Division of School Planning. This building has been used for the purposes for which it was constructed and has been of great benefit to the schools and the people of the Spruce Pine area.

In his press release of the audit findings Dr. A. Craig Phillips, State Superintendent of Public Instruction states that in his opinion the audit is in error, and he deplores the fact that the schools of the State are receiving unwarranted criticism as a result.
