CONSERVATION PAYS

You Can Do Your Part...

In this time of deep concern for our national resources, the pollution of our rivers and streams, the erosion of our soil, it's doubly important that each of us do what we can, to put an end to this widespread waste and destruction.

Here in our farming community, we have a special opportunity to help, through the use of sound soil conservation practices. Terracing, drainage, crop rotation — these and other methods can help conserve our land, for a tomorrow bright with prosperity.
