

Learning Lab Open At MAY Tech

The Learning Lab at Mayland Technical Institute is now open Monday through Thursday from 8:00 a. m. to 10:00 p. m. and on Friday from 8:00 a. m. until 5:00 p. m.

The appointment of an additional Learning Lab Coordinator will enable the Lab to be open four nights a week. The new Coordinator is Joyce Orndoff, who will join Louise Hembree.

The Lab, which can be used by anyone who is over eighteen years of age at no charge, can be used for the following reasons:

1. To prepare for the high school equivalency test;
2. To earn credit in the Adult High School Diploma Program;
3. To make up college deficiencies;
4. To review high school subjects in preparation for future study;
5. To learn academic (and some vocational) skills needed on the job;

6. To have the satisfaction of learning.

For more information contact Mayland Technical Institute at 765-7351.

"Jesse Helms is not one of your backslapping, hand-wringing, affable garden variety political office seekers." — Virginian Pilot 7/27/72

Down in Monroe, where Jesse Helms was born and reared, the folks remember him who worked three different part-time jobs — afternoons and evenings, after school and all day Saturday. Those were the depression days, and times were hard — and Jesse Helms learned that America is a land of opportunity for those who make the effort. This is the same Jesse Helms who was overwhelmingly nominated for the United States Senate back on May 6. He's the Jesse Helms whom you can help elect to work for you in Washington. He's not a politician — he's a citizen candidate who is concerned about the future of your children. Jesse Helms is a man who has earned scores of awards because he cares about people and because he has worked and fought for the principles of freedom and justice. North Carolina knows where Jesse Helms stands. You can stand with Jesse Helms in November.

YES, I believe in Jesse Helms and I want to help elect him as our Citizen-Senator. I'm enclosing my contribution of:

Faculty Orientation Week Observed

Mayland Technical Institute observed Faculty Orientation Week, July 3, 5, 6 and 7 to acquaint faculty members appointed for the regular curriculum programs with the Institute, its philosophy, policies, personnel, and programs.

Although the curriculum programs will not be starting until September 5th, faculty members reported for work July 3rd. Until September 5 they will be getting classrooms and equipment set up, and plans made for the school year.

Faculty members and their assignments are:

Ralph Thad Rice—Business Administration—Mr. Rice is a native of Madison County. He holds a B.S. degree from Mars Hill College and a M.A. degree from East Tennessee State University, where he was a graduate assistant in the Economics Department. He is a member of the U.S. Naval Reserve. His wife is a teacher in Marshall Elementary School.

Katrina Hunter—Secretarial Science—Miss Hunter holds both the B.S. and M.A. degrees from East Tennessee State University. She has previously taught in the Business Departments of Lees McRae College, Marion College (Virginia), Blanton's Business College, Enka High School, and East Yancey High School. She has worked as an executive secretary in both industrial and educational organizations. Miss Hunter is a native of Burnsville and resides with her parents there.

Irene Blevins—Practical Nursing Education—Miss Blevins holds the B.S. degree from Montreat College, and the R. N. degree. She has been Director of the Banner Elk program of Practical Nursing for several years, working with Caldwell Community College until Mayland Technical Institute assumed responsibility for the program. Miss Blevins lives in Banner Elk.

Hugo Peterson—Automotive Mechanics—Mr. Peterson is a resident of Spruce Pine and a native of Iowa. He has had vast experience in the field of power mechanics, and in related fields such as electricity, diesel mechanics, and general physics.

He has attended numerous Service Schools including Le Tanneau, International Harvester, Bear Manufacturing Co., Murphy Diesel Co., and others.

Hattie Wiseman Keller—Related Subjects (English, Math, etc.)—Mrs. Keller will teach several related subjects in various departments of the Institute. Mrs. Keller attended Milligan College and holds a B.S. and M.S. degree from East Tennessee State University. She and her husband have recently moved to Avery County from West Palm Beach, Fla. where she was a teacher of English, Reading, Math and Business subjects in high school.

Joyce Buchanan Orndoff—Librarian—Mrs. Orndoff is a native of Mitchell County and graduate of Bowman High. She holds a B.S. and M.A. degree in Library Science from East Tennessee University. Mrs. Orndoff, who will also serve as coordinator in the Learning Lab, formerly held the position of Assistant Librarian and Learning Lab Coordinator at McDowell Technical Institute in Marion.

To Visit Here

Tom L. Mallonee, 11th Congressional District Assistant to Congressman Roy A. Taylor, is now making scheduled visits to county seats and other sections of the counties.

On Thursday, August 3, he will be at the Yancey County Courthouse, Burnsville, from 1:00 to 2:00; and at the Town Hall, Spruce Pine, from 3:00 to 4:00 p. m.

Any person who has plans or official business pertaining to Congressional matters to be discussed, is invited to meet with Mr. Mallonee at the above-specified times.

Sign Marks Tobacco Disease Project

Signs Mark Projects

Brightly colored signs at various locations about Yancey County indicate some projects underway this summer. One such sign is placed at the Bruce Bailey Farm on Jack's Creel. Mr. Bailey, in cooperation with the County Extension Service and N.C. State University, is conducting a test on tobacco. Mr. Bailey's soil has a high infestation of root rot disease which causes low tobacco yield. He is using two varieties that are resistant to root rot and in addition certain rows have had chemicals applied to combat the root rot disease. The purpose of the plot work is to learn more about how yields of Burley can be improved in diseased fields through variety selection and chemical treatment.

Other farmers conducting tobacco work in the county this summer are Lawrence Grindstaff, Luther Ayers, Britt Holloway, Jim Adkins, Doris Hensley, and Wayne McCurry.

A farm tour is planned later in the summer to give farmers and others an opportunity to see this and other work now in progress.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Mrs. Dillingham and I have just returned from a 6000 mile trip to nineteen states. We saw snow, geysers and bears in the Tetons and Yellowstone National Parks.

We enjoyed our vacation very much, but were really glad to arrive at the Visitors Welcome Center on I-40 at the Tennessee Line. Here we were served free drinks and given maps and literature on North Carolina attractions—including Burnsville and Yancey County.

Why is this area a desirable place to live? Why do new people keep coming here? How can we keep it desirable and improve its natural beauty?

We saw hundreds of miles of roads without a shade tree to stop under for a picnic. We saw livestock, crops, and people who did not have enough water for healthful existence. Many service stations had signs on the rest rooms saying "Due to water shortage—For Customers Only". Rivers had dried up in many places and the land was bare. The supply of water for the Grand Canyon is hauled from a nearby town.

People come here to get away from overcrowded conditions in large cities. They like the scenery, people, climate, and cost of living.

If we keep our forests and fields green and clean, keep the bulldozers and developers from destroying all our trees and natural beauty, and conserve our water, we will continue to be a desirable place to live and we will continue to get new taxpayers so that we can have improved schools, roads, and freedom from crime.

You are doing a splendid job with The Yancey Journal. Keep up the fine work!

Dear Editor:

The Social Services Department would like to thank the couple who gave an excellent swing set to our Child Development Center. We now have a set for each of the two classes at the Center. The other swing set was given by the ladies of the Moose. We sincerely appreciate the help and interest of these concerned citizens.

A special invitation is extended to all citizens to visit the Center and see what is happening to 20-25 children each day. You are welcome to call the Center's Director, Miss Nancy Wyatt, and arrange a time to visit. The phone number is 682-2469.

Sincerely,
Randall Peacock,
Social Services Director

Dear Editor:

(Our children speak)
"Do we have any Mozart records, Daddy?"
"Awww! Why can't we go to Mars Hill? Don't you know there's going to be a woodwind quintet?"

"...and he showed us how to make a sound on the French horn, and..."

(whispered at a concert—quietly!) "This is my favorite part. The string quartet came in this morning and played it for us."

"Look at the stick over there, it looks just like a bassoon."

On Mondays and Thursdays this summer, waking up and hurrying was no problem around our household. It was Music in the Mountains workshop day. The boys were anxious to go.

Charlie Boone was a delight—the boys are still talking about him. We rarely had to ask what was going on, for we were told enthusiastically, and told, and told, and told.

Today marked the last session of the workshop for this year. Since it takes a long time to build an audience, we are hopeful that this is the first in a series of workshops for the young (how about one for the older folks too?). The fair tuition this year gave encouragement for those of us with more than one child to send.

Music has always been a joyous part of our lives. This year Music in the Mountains has increased that joy by making our sons a part of the audience instead of the stay-at-home-with-a-babysitter bunch.

Three cheers to the children's workshop of Music in The Mountains!!

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Koch
Burnsville, N.C.

Delegates To 4-H Congress

North Carolina 4-H Congress is being held this week on the campus of N.C. State University in Raleigh. Jan Hensley, Susan Wilson and Steve Hardin are among some 1200 4-H members, leaders and extension agents participating in the annual four-day program which began Monday on the University campus. The Yancey County delegates are accompanied by Pat Guyer, Yancey Extension Agent. The program consists of recreation, discussions, competition, election of state officers and a lot of fellowship. During the week state winners are determined in some 30 demonstration programs and various judging activities.
