Ceremony At Special Campground

Members of the Mental Health Activities class of Yancey provided a colorful highlight to a ribbon cutting ceremony on Mother's Day. The occasion was the dedication of a dining hall to Robert Eller at Bear Walla Camp near Saluda, North Carolina.

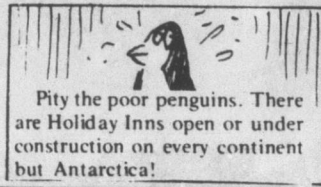

The camp is operated by World Changers, Inc., a Tulsa, Oklahoma based non-profit, non-sectarian organization established for the purpose of providing a full range of life assistance to disadvantaged children. Its program is world-wide.

Bear Walla Camp has been renovated by World Changers for use as a summer camp for disadvantaged and exceptional children. Robert Eller, for whom the dining hall was named, was a boy with Muscular Dystrophy from nearby Asheville. His mother, Sadie Eller, cut the ribbon opening this portion of the camp.

Mrs. Louella H. Honeycutt from Burnsville presented several colorful wall plaques made by the Mental Health Activities Class of Yancey County. Mrs. Frank Muratori, also of Burnsville, was responsible for having the plaques made.

Development of Bear Walla Camp, at this stage, will include a dormitory-cafeteria, a medical clinic and a hexagonal building designed for meetings and gatherings around a large stone fireplace.

World Changers also operates another camp in Tulsa along with providing youth-motivational "Discovery Clinics." The organization has assisted over 40,000 boys and girls in 16 countries as well as developing 200 projects among American Indians.

Pity the poor penguins. There are Holiday Inns open or under construction on every continent but Antarctica!

What's new at Carowinds?

There are three exciting new live action shows at Carowinds this year. You'll hear foot thumpin' bluegrass at Frontier Outpost. And the cast at Harmony Hall has put together one of the most entertaining shows of its kind in the southeast. The Magic Theater is a favorite with the kids, combining colorful costumes with mystifying tricks. This year, the Monorail is free, too. All rides, shows and other attractions at Carowinds are included in the price of your ticket.
