

1976 License Sticker Problem

Edward L. Powell, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, announced today that there have been problems with the new 1976 validation stickers for renewal of automobile license plates. Powell said complaints coming to his attention have revealed instances where the stickers have torn and citizens are unable to use them.

Powell urged all citizens who have received faulty stickers to return them to their local license plate agent or to the Division of Motor Vehicles Headquarters in Raleigh and he assured them that new stickers would be issued to them at no cost. Powell encouraged motorists to inspect the stickers before applying them to determine if they are damaged.

Powell said "We don't know the extent of the numbers of damaged stickers, but I have instructed the Registration Officials to begin an immediate investigation into this matter."

Homemaking Hints For Safety & Economy

BATHROOM SAFETY

Accidents do happen all around the house, but they occur most commonly in the bathroom. To make sure that your bathroom is as safe as possible for you and your family, see how it shapes up with this bathroom safety checklist:

* Date and label all medicines and check their shelf life. Medicines used incorrectly or beyond their expiration date can be more harmful than helpful.

* Store all medicines and caustic cleaning compounds in locked cabinets to prevent accidental intake by children and pets. And, even when discarding empty and old containers, place them where your small loved ones can't get to them.

* Harsh chemical cleaners can be harmful if accidentally used improperly. Always read instructions before using any cleanser and, whenever possible, avoid using hazardous ones. For example, instead of using drain cleaners which contain dangerous lye or acid, use Drain Power, the first drain opener to use pressure to unclog sinks and bathtubs.

* Line your bathtub with a rubber mat or with decorative rubber decals to prevent falls. A handle or rod installed on the shower wall will provide extra protection, too.

* Never use electrical appliances near water or wet surfaces. If you must use them in the bathroom, be sure to unplug them when they're not being used.

KITCHEN SURFACES

If everything in the kitchen were made out of the same material, it would probably be the easiest room in the house to clean. But since this isn't the case, it's useful to know how to treat various kitchen surfaces. For example:

* Butcher Blocks. These popular wooden work surfaces can take a lot of rough treatment, but you must avoid saturating them with water which causes warping. To clean a butcher block, wipe it quickly with lukewarm water or mild suds and dry. Re-season when necessary by pouring boiled linseed oil over wood surfaces and rubbing it in with steel wool.

* Formica countertops are attractive, but they scratch, so don't use them as cutting surfaces. Avoid using abrasives such as steel wool when cleaning. Steel wool leaves scratches on some kitchen surfaces which can catch dirt and become the breeding ground for germs. To easily remove soil from your formica countertops, use new Glass-Plus™ glass, appliance and cabinet cleaner. Just spray it on and wipe with a damp sponge or cloth—no need to rinse.

* Sink faucets which have been chromium- or nickel-plated should not be washed with scouring powders, which can wear off the plating, although these powders are safe for the porcelain sinks they service. To keep faucets sparkling, clean them with non-abrasive spray cleaner.

According to Arab tradition, Mohammed was carried to heaven on the back of a mare with the wings of an eagle and a human face.
