

Christian Activity Planned

Members of Joy Enterprises, while working together on the Nicky Cruz Crusade, shared thoughts on how good it was to use the Asheville Civic Center as a come-together location for Christians of all denominations. Joy Enterprises developed from a discussion about making more use of the facility for Christian entertainment.

Members of Joy Enterprises are committed as an outreach for Christ through Christian music, entertainment and special speakers. Groups and dates scheduled thus far include the following: April 10, the Rambos; May 7, Imperials; July 17 (youth festival) Dallas Holm, Other Groups, Tea; September 18, Jerry Clower & Happy Goodman Family; October 23, Andre Crouch & The Disciples. The time slated for all events is 8:00 p.m.

Joy Enterprises will continue to bring in Christian groups as long as the community will support them.

Burnsville Student Wins Poster Contest

Students in Yancey County entered a poster contest last Thursday and Friday with the theme of the poster being President Ford's visit to the mountains. Two winners were picked from each school, then a county winner was selected who got to meet the President at the airport on Saturday.

Greta McIntosh from Nell Bailey's 4th grade class was one winner from Burnsville school. Billy Ray Edge from Lois Anglin's 2nd grade class at Burnsville was that school's other winner, and sure enough, Billy got to shake the President's hand last Saturday when he appeared at the Avery County Airport.

South Toe Open House

THE GREAT TRAIN ROBBERY
By Michael Crichton. 1975. Pp.411. Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., Publishers.

The Great Train Robbery, by Michael Crichton, is based on Britain's actual Great Train Robbery of 1855. It was called "the crime of the century and the most sensational exploit of the modern era". Occurring as it did when trains were in their infancy and a sign of prestige and progress for England, the robbery appeared as an insult to Queen Victoria and Her Majesty's troops fighting in the Crimea, for whom the gold was destined.

Bit by bit and ever so slowly, the author fits the pieces of the plot together, as one would fashion a jigsaw puzzle. Murder is never ruled out, when and wherever it is needed to promote the action.

The master criminal, Edward Pierce, stops at nothing to further his ends. A multitude of incongruous and, on the surface, unrelated things add up to complete the plot. These consist of vicious dog and rat fights (animal baiting), the transportation of a wild leopard, a public hanging, staged fights, a coffin containing a live body, and even children are used to divert the attention of the authorities from the real action. Only a mastermind could manipulate such a thriller of a story.

For atmosphere there is the language of the underworld, and the English accent of both high and low society. Customs and tradition prevail as we find the British drinking their tea, or going to the pub for a beer. All in all, The Great Train Robbery is an entertaining thriller and an intriguing portrait of Victorian society.

THEN and NOW!

THEN: The first watch, it's believed, was invented about 1510 by Peter Henlein. He was also supposed to have made watches in the form of musk balls, the pierced gilt containers filled with scents and spices and worn around the neck by the fashionable and fastidious.

NOW: The modern watch preferred by precision-minded young men is the digital. This space-age watch operates so efficiently that one company, Sears in the watch business for 90 years, sells its best solid state digital watches with a warranty to be accurate to within three minutes a year for a period of three years from date of purchase.

Host Anniversary Open House

Members of the Church of God of Prophecy honored Rev. and Mrs. David Russell on their 25th wedding anniversary with an open house. Hostesses at the refreshment table, which was decorated with lace tablecloth and pink carnations, served up a rose-decorated 3-tier cake and punch. Pictured (l. to r.) Mrs. Grace Hensley served the cake, Eloise Hensley served punch, Mrs. Glenna Taylor served nuts and mints, Mrs. Velma Ray greeted the guests, Mrs. Rita Ray kept the guest book, Mrs. Ruby Williams greeted guests, and Sandra Huggins also kept the guest book. The Russells would like to thank their friends and out-of-town guests for coming by.
