Pensacola Students Learn About Camera

produce the negative. Then contact prints were made of each photograph.

The pinhole cameras offer none of the conveniences we have come to expect from modern photography. Each step in the process, from making the camera itself to processing the print, must be done by the photographer. Pictures are made quite deliberately. Even then there are certain built-in inaccuracies. Movement cannot be stopped; aim is approximate.

According to the student photographers, the entire procedure is not only educational but entertaining. The final products are enough to rival the work of the early photographers—aside from the obviously modern inclusions of school buses and tennis shoes.
