'America's Foundation:

Bicentennial Bible

Singer Pat Boone, an outspoken Christian, says nothing continues to shine so brightly in the darkening sky of our times as the Word of God:

"It has been America's hope, foundation and molding force."

Boone endorsed The Freedom Edition Bible, a family Bible in the King James Version, with special preface sections commemorating our bicentennial and "American heritage under God."

He is also involved in Intercessors for America, a Christian calling for people to pray for the nation's leaders, to fulfill a Biblical promise that the country can be healed in this manner.

In the simple but rugged surroundings of early America, fathers drilled their offspring in the virtues and blessings of a life that honors the Bible.

"It was expected that our leaders had learned their ways from the pages of the Bible, and were committed to following its high ideals in their public offices.

"But today there are those who would throw away all such restraints, laws and ethical codes."

Boone cited two particular passages from the Bible. He said the Old Testament (1 Timothy 2: 1 and 2) calls for us to pray for "all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty." Also, Jesus (11 Chronicles 7:14) promises that if his people will humble themselves, and pray, that He will then "hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

Boone has associated himself with The Freedom Edition

Bible because he feels so strongly that "No book has molded the life of a nation as the Bible has shaped America."

"By whatever means we can cause more Bibles to find their way into American homes it is certain to be a blessing—and this particular edition is testimony to America's great heritage under God."

"It is an exciting and inspiring volume, with all of the enduring qualities of a good family Bible."

"It is relevant, of course, as it has been through the ages. But it seems especially relevant to modern times, and the special sections on our God and country theme have filled the Boone family with patriotic understanding of this relevancy."

Pat, his wife Shirley (who is daughter of the late country singer Red Foley), and two of his daughters reside in Beverly Hills, California. Their two other daughters are married and also live in the area.

When the Boone family is in town between recording, television, and film engagements, they hold Monday evening Bible studies in their home for friends, including many show business personalities.

The Freedom Edition Bible is not for sale in stores, but is offered by this newspaper through mail order.

"No book has so molded the life of a nation as the Bible has shaped America . . ."

Nothing continues to shine so brightly in the darkening sky of our times as the Word of God. It has been America's hope, foundation and molding force.

THE FREEDOM EDITION BIBLE, with its special preface sections, has filled the Boone family with new understanding of our nation's roots in the Word of God. And it is proof that the Living Word is the only answer for our tomorrow.

Jesus promises (11 Chronicles 7:14) that if his people will humble themselves and pray, that he will then 'hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land.'

The Boone family wanted to share the discovery of this magnificent volume with you. We also find it exciting that the Freedom Edition Bible is raising funds to further the publisher's widespread Christian book ministry.

In addition to being a constant source of inspiration, this traditional family Bible will be a comforting reminder of our cherished freedoms, and a meaningful keepsake for any home.

Counselor On Birth Defects

Dr. Harold O. Goodman, a March of Dimes Grantee at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine has devoted his professional life to detecting and understanding hereditary disorders in children and adults. His field is eugenics, the study of human genetics. In his work as a genetics counselor, Dr. Goodman tries to help his clients understand the complexities of genetically caused birth defects. And based on the couples genetic history, he calculates the risk that their child will be born with a defect. He said that most of the parents who come to him for counseling are referred by obstetricians and pediatricians. Many already have a child with a serious defect. Others have a relative with a child who has a birth defect. George Thomas, a March of Dimes volunteer of Boone who serves as The Blue Ridge Council Representative, states that counties served by Dr. Goodman and his team from Bowman Gray School of Medicine include Alleghany, Ashe, Avery, Caldwell, Mitchell, Watauga, Wilkes and Yancey Counties. Mr. Thomas said that if anyone has reason to believe that they need this counseling service, they should see their family physician or their local health department for referral to Dr. Goodman.
