Bride

A personalized ceremony taken from the book of Ruth was performed by the Rev. Patrick Perry.

The sanctuary was lighted with arched candelabra, spiral candelabras, cathedral candelabras and the Trinity candelabra. Designing her own flowers, the bride chose Sonia roses and white daisies which trailed throughout the candelabras.

The prelude of wedding music was performed by Ms. Wendy Rees. A trumpet solo, "I Love You Truly", played by the younger brother of the bride, Jonathan Miller, was one of the impressive moments of the prelude.

A solo "There Is Love" presented by vocalist Jerry Freeman opened the service, followed by the entrance of the mothers, each carrying a candle which was placed in the Trinity candelbra, representing the two families from which the bride and groom will be departing as they are united together as one. The way was lighted for the attendants by candle girl, Angie Williams, cousin of the bride, and candle boy Stevan

bride Amelia Pouliot of Rutherfordton, N.C., cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Shirley Andrews and Cynthia Fowler of Greenville and Phylia Corzine of Charlotte, all close friends of the bride, served as bridesmaids. Cheryl Pate of Hendersonville, N.c., cousin of the bride, served as junior bridesmaid. Teresa Shehan of Greenville was flower girl and David Hoxit of Hendersonville was ring bearer. The pillow was personally designed by the bride with

"Peau-d, ange". The bridesmaids were attired in peasant dresses of peach floral pattern trimmed in venise lace. They carried colonial nosegays of white daisies and sonia roses.

Mr. James Ross, father of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Gary Coleman, brother-in-law of the groom; Geno McFadden and Wayne Pickelsimer, friends of the groom, all from Greenville, South Carolina. Joseph Miller, brother of the bride was junior groomsman.

Pam Garren, friend of the bride, was honor attendant assisting at the registry table decorated with sonia roses and white feather pin.

The bride was given in marriage by her step-father, James Ernest Rogers. The bridal gown, designed by the bride and her mother was of soft satin with an empire waist and chapel train. The front of the gown was peaked with Peau-d, ange lace and trimmed with pearls. The sheer chiffon sleeves were fitted and peaks of Peau-d ange fell around the hands. Her fingertip veil of illusion was elegantly trimmed with Peau-d, ange and pearls. The chapel train flowed and was trimmed in matching decor. The bride carried a cascade of sonia roses and baby breath and enhanced with a white orchid that was detached for the bride's going away corsage.
