Governor Jim Hunt has recommended state funding of about $95,000 per year for a new Western Governor's Office, located in Asheville. The recommendation was part of the Governor's supplemental budget message given to the General Assembly May 4.

If approved by the legislature, the funding would allow the "maximum of personal contact with citizens to discuss any problems they have," according to Hunt. "The creation of this office is an effort to provide the approximately one-and-a-half million people in the western counties with direct contact with the Governor's Office."

The supplemental budget requests are in addition to the $3.6 billion budget for continued support of ongoing state programs and services, including increased spending for several priority state programs.
