Smith Apparently Hopes To Deadlock Convention

Walter Brown, Washington correspondent, sent out the following interesting political news from that city Saturday:

As a result of his gains in the East during the past week, Alfred E. Smith has unquestionably made progress toward his most cherished ambition—that is to be "big boss" at the forthcoming Democratic national convention.

There is a division of opinion here as to just what kind of a political program Smith and his close personal friend, Chairman Raskob of the Democratic national committee, have in mind.

First of all, of course, Smith desires the nomination for himself because he feels that 1932 is going to be a Democratic year and as the presidential nominee he would have a free ride into the White House. The former New York governor has not let the country forget he received 15,000,000 votes in 1928, the largest vote ever received by a Democratic candidate. At every opportunity he rushes into print with the assertion that he is the same Al Smith he was when nominated in 1928. "No one seems to know whether Smith really thinks he has a chance to be nominated."

It now seems that Smith is going to the convention with around 200 votes. This is not enough to block nomination, but with a few favorite son votes which are expected to be under control of the Raskob machinery will tie the convention into a knot as it was done by Smith at the 1924 Madison Square Garden convention.

The 1928 Democratic nominee will in all probability base his appeal for the nomination on the grounds he received in 1928 more votes than any other previous Democratic nominee, that if he is denied a second try for the presidency it will be the first time the party has denied a second nomination to nominee who desired it, and that unless he is nominated there is a large personal following in the United States which will bolt the ticket.

It is generally agreed here in Washington that the religious issue came into play in the Massachusetts primary and was more than any other factor responsible for Smith's crushing defeat of Roosevelt in the Bay State. Those at the Capitol who speak frankly on political matters do not hesitate to state there is a danger of the Democratic party losing the Catholic vote unless Smith is nominated for a candidate of his choice.

While Smith may block Roosevelt the New York governor likewise can do some blocking. He will go to the convention with majority of delegates, according to present indications, and one may write it down in their little red book that Roosevelt will not let his one-time friend but now a bitter rival receive the nomination.

There may be a change of sentiment between now and convention time but the present outlook is for a convention marked with bitter strife between the Smith-conservative wing of the party and the Roosevelt-liberal faction.

What doubt remained in the minds of Democrats, if there was any at all, that Smith was referring to Roosevelt when he said he would take off his coat and vest and work to keep the convention in session all summer rather than see a demagogue nominated has now been removed. Smith, in commenting on the results in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania primaries, said:

"I ought to put a check under the Roosevelt bandwagon and stop people from jumping on it on the theory there is no where else to go."

Unquestionably Raskob has convinced Smith that Roosevelt is the wrong kind of a man to have in the White House. Raskob was Republican before becoming chairman of the Democratic national committee and he expresses the viewpoint of "big business." It is believed in Washington that Raskob is directing Smith in his fight against the New York governor. Some of the Roosevelt senators are regretting Raskob has been allowed to remain in charge of the party machinery and unless the writer misses his guess they will regret it more by the time the convention rolls around.

Control of the party machinery gives to the "stop Roosevelt" forces a distinct advantage and one which will have telling effect.

If Smith blocks Roosevelt and Roosevelt blocks Smith then the convention must find some candidate which will satisfy both sides. This will be no easy matter. Newton D. Baker is without a doubt dark horse

Tax Sale Has Been Postponed 2 Months

In Regular Session Monday, The Board of Commissioners Deferred The Tax Sale Until August 1

At their regular meeting Monday Rockingham county board of county commissioners took the bit in their mouth and, heeding the call of hundreds of delinquent tax payers, postponed the advertising and sale of property on which no taxes have been paid for another two months. In other words, instead of advertising the property of delinquent tax payers this week, this advertising has been continued until the first week in July, the sale to follow the first week in August. This gives the tax payers two more months in which to come across with what they owe the State and county.

Regardless of the law, and the people are mightier than the law, this was a wise move and one that will be appreciated by a large number of people who find it impossible at this time to take care of their tax account. We notice that some of the counties refused to postpone this sale, while many others acted as did Rockingham. This means that hundreds who are not able to pay their taxes will do so before another two months roll around, and the county will be just that much better off. Yes, we feel that our able board did the just and right thing, regardless of what Mr. Johnson, chairman of local government commission, may think about the matter.

Regardless of the kind of platform adopted by the committee there will be a fight to amend it in the convention. "Alfalfa Bill" will be there seeking to give the declaration a favor of Murrayism. Al Smith will be on the floor and he will raise plenty of trouble if the platform is not so wet that liquor and beer can be wrung out of it.

Following the scrap on the platform the big battle over the nominee will take place. For months Shouse and Raskob have been trying to jockey Al Smith into the position of holding a veto power over the convention. By gaining all of the convention votes in Massachusetts, half in Pennsylvania, all in Connecticut the 1928 nominee now has over a hundred votes in his own name. If you give to him the New York vote, which he is slated to receive, Smith has in this time practically as many votes as Roosevelt.

Smith's opposition to Roosevelt has put renewed life into the Roosevelt camp and is solidifying his forces. Senator Cordell Hull and other Roosevelt leaders think this is the best thing that could happen to their candidate. They say that Roosevelt will now begin to demonstrate his real strength and nothing will be able to stop him. All agree that Smith's opposition to the New York governor is swinging the anti-Smith faction of the party behind Roosevelt.

Tuesday evening Miss Virginia Smith was hostess to her bridge club. Mrs. Harvey Price received high score prize. Mrs. C. L. Walters had in the same building. When the shooting began she rushed out but the bandits, two white men, immediately left without securing any loot. There is no clue, except that the bandits were operating a blue roadster.

Madison high school team, which has been playing against the jinx all the season, put a quietus on that animal last Thursday at Bethany when the boys romped on the Bethany school team to the tune of 20 to 4. This was the first win of the locals. Encouraged by this win, the locals played Walnut Cove on the local diamond next day, Friday, and downed the Couveites by a score of 10 to 7. Howard Marshall was on the firing line in both games and came out with flying colors.

The flight of the jinx seems to have been of short duration, for on Tuesday the Stoneville high team came down and outplayed the locals at every point, taking the game by the score of 10 to 1.

The last meeting of the P-T. A. was held Monday afternoon in the school library. It opened with the Lord's prayer. The annual report of the treasurer was read with great interest. The P-T. A. raised $295.45 for the year by the diligent work of the members. The picture for having the most mothers present went to Miss Annie Martin's room. Miss Irene Money presented an attractive display of wild flowers native to this section. This was followed by an interesting paper on wild flowers by Anne Johnson and Edwin Price. New officers for the following school year were elected. The president, Mrs. Dick Crews, vice-president; Mrs. Fred Loftis, secretary, and Marcus Simpson, treasurer.

The school commencement is as follows: Monday evening at 8 o'clock the elementary and primary commencement. Friday evening at 8 o'clock, May 13, the senior Class Day Exercises. Sunday evening at 8 o'clock the baccalaureate sermon. Monday evening, 8 o'clock, the Graduation Exercises. Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock the senior class play, "Two Days to Mary."

The Men's Bible class of the Episcopal Sunday school staged a most delightful banquet in the Sunday school building on Wednesday evening, April 27. Covers were laid for fifty members and guests. Kirby Reid, president of the class, presided as toastmaster. After Rev. E. W. Hurst, rector of the church offered the invocation, E. F. Duncan, the class teacher, gave the address of welcome. A delightful three course luncheon was served by the ladies of the Woman's Auxiliary. During the luncheon short talks were made by May-Roy Martin, J. F. Roach, Jesse Robertson and Rev. Jennings Johnson. Rev. D. W. Allen, rector of St. Mary's Church in High Point, made a short address and presented the speaker of the evening, Rev. E. Gilbert of St. Paul's Church, Winston-Salem, who gave a most interesting and helpful address to the men of the church. He congratulated the class on its splendid membership and urged that the interest be continued. Several numbers were rendered

Madison-Mayodan Team Takes Opener

Outplayed Fieldale Saturday; Ray Had One Bad Inning; The 7th, When Six Runs Were Made

Madison-Mayodan team, new member of Bi-State league, had a good day Saturday when the season opened. She captured the game against Fieldale on the latter's ground with a 11-to-8 score.

Carl Ray was on the firing line for M-M, and went good until the 7th, when he gave up nine hits, which netted Fieldale 6 of their 8 runs. After that he was all to the good.

Lentz of the Fieldale aggregation was the only one to secure a home run, and that was a fluke. Byrd, first sacker for M-M, led the hitting with three doubles out of five trips to the plate. Ray caused eight of the Fieldale sluggers to whiff the air. Stigall, for Fieldale, had four strike-outs to his credit.

The following is the box score:

New Gem-Dandy Product Popular

A few months ago the Gem-Dandy Garter company began manufacturing a new line—garter belts and brassiers. The machinery was installed on the second floor of Penn Handkerchief company building, and Louis Spire and Miss Virginia Marshall, who are experienced in this line of work, were engaged to superintend the work—instruct beginners. This new line has proven to be quite popular and at present the orders are being received faster than they can be filled. New machines are now being installed, and for a while it was necessary to put on a night force. It is a pleasure to note the success of this new venture and the Messenger wishes for it continued success. This does not mean that the garter, suspender and belt business of this popular goods are in great demand and a large force of hands is required to produce the goods to fill the orders.

Yacht Marcon Is Reported At Sea

Norfolk, Va., May 3—The yacht Marcon, presumably bringing John Hughes Curtis back from another cruise in connection with negotiations for the return of the Lindbergh baby, was reported to have been seen coming into Chesapeake Bay this afternoon from sea.

Efforts, however, to locate the boat were unsuccessful. It was believed to be heading for the naval base from which outsiders were barred.

The Marcon had made a secret get-away from the naval base at some time late this afternoon.

Popular Troupe Will Come Here

Edward A. Reno and his theatrical company will bring their theatre and troupe to Madison next week, opening the season at 8 o'clock on Monday night, May 9th.

Madison has an excellent theatre throughout the large city. It is well known in North Carolina having been in this state for many years and is always well patronized by lovers of good entertainment. The company offers a program of popular plays, comedy and drama, and withstanding the fact that financial conditions are not at their best, it is necessary to have some diversion, and Reno's show furnishes this in abundance.

The show is much larger than in former years, says the advance man. It embraces a company of forty people, including a chorus of beautiful girls and a jazz orchestra.

Court Adjudged

The two weeks term of special court for the trial of civil cases adjourned the first of the week. But very few cases were disposed of, in view of the illness of Judge Ogilvie, who presided when he was able. This means that in all probability another special term will have to be ordered to clear up the docket, which is badly congested.
