Andrews Air Show Sunday Aug. 12th

Andrews -- Thrills and chills will be spectator fare at the All-Star Air Show to be held at the Andrews-Murphy Airport Sunday, August 12, at 2:00 p.m.

Richard Parker, local pilot and general chairman for the Andrews Lion's Club sponsored event, stated this week that the variety and professional ability packed into the two-hour show will make it one of the best one he has promoted.

The roster of performers includes names long famous in aviation sports events, such as "Bevo" Howard, Ben Huntley, Haskell Deaton, Bob Nance, and Major Lynn Bachtell.

Bob Nance is returning this week from Europe, where he participated in the world precision aerobatic competition in Budapest, Hungary. He will appear at Andrews in the same plane he used in Europe, a specially-built Great Lakes. Nance is from Winston-Salem and is a captain with Piedmont Airlines. His specialty is low-level aerobatics with smoke.

Top billing goes to "Bevo" Howard, president of Hawthorne Aviation at Charleston, S. C. The world's precision flying champion for several years, Bevo is outstanding in the split-second timing of the intricate maneuvers he performs at close range in his German Jungmeister.

Charlotte's Ben Hundley has performed here several times. A former trophy winner at the Miami International Air Maneuvers, he is considered one of the foremost pilots in aerobatic and comedy flying in the southeast.

As an added attraction, Parker has secured the services of Major Lynn Bachtell, USAF, to perform precision aerobatics in his Schweitzer L-23 sailplane. Bachtell is from Roanoke, Va., and replaces Walter Fuller of Hayesville, who cracked up in his sailplane two weeks ago. Bachtell's craft will be towed to an altitude of 3000 feet above terrain, where he will cut loose to enter his routine.

Spectators will be treated to the machine-gun chatter of Haskell Deaton, one of the top aviation sports event announcers in the nation. The Charlotte, N. C. veteran spikes his sharp descriptions with plenty of wit and banter.

One of the fastest-growing sports in this country, "Sky diving" will be featured for the first time in western North Carolina. Six parachutists from the Georgia Sky Divers Club at Gainesville will jump at various times during the show. Jumping from 12,000 feet, they will trail smoke in a free fall to 2,000 feet, where their chutes will open. Alon Disharoon will be in charge of the group.

Another "first" will be the performance of Neal Kilby of Atlanta, a builder of radio-controlled craft, who will direct his aerobatic midjet through various maneuvers using ground control only.

Of special interest to local aviation fans will be the appearance of "Genny Lee," a snappy sports biplane built and flown by C. H. "Ace" Townsend of Marble. Townsend's trim little ship is an experimental hot-rod, and will perform with the best of them.

The local wing of the Civil Air Patrol will be in charge of ground traffic for the show. Joe Almond, Supervisor of the Atlanta Air Traffic Control Center, will be in charge of air traffic control and Safety Inspector, C. B. Seidel of Charlotte will direct adherence to air safety regulations.

Shetland Pony Dies

Culberson -- Pooch, the little Shetland Pony that broke his leg two weeks ago had to be put away Monday, August 6.

Pooch took lockjaw and he was in terrible pain. So the family put him away. Everyone is sad over Pooch, all of his little friends will miss him.

In Loving Memory of Pooch

by Wanda Simonds

He was just a shetland pony some might say, But to the Dillards, especially, Gary, he brightened many a day. To the friends and neighbors he gave a line ride. To the little ones, gentle, as if someone were by their side. He jumped and ran, he worked and he played. Then alas an accident, his leg was broke, oh what a sad day. Days passed, they doctored and watched, oh we all cared. Yet it was not to be, his life could not be spared. So we'll miss you, but there's one thing we know. If there's an animal Heaven Pooch, you surely will go.

Leave it to a Murphy Senior Girl Scout arriving home from a camping trip with 8,500 other teenage girls to be loaded down with every kind of souvenir imaginable.

Adnah Brown, from the looks of things, took a very active part in the most popular past-time at the recent Senior Roundup at Button Bay, Vermont.

Each girl came to the Roundup with a supply of small objects that reflected the history, natural resources, arts and crafts or nature of her home community or section.

These exchange tokens served as icebreakers between the girls who came from opposite ends of the country and globe.

The exchanged items served another purpose in that they helped these girls learn about the different sections.

According to reports, the most popular swaps at the roundup were those that could be worn. It is easy to see that these are the ones that

$100 In Cash, Old $10 Bill Are Stolen

The safe and cash register at Graves Tire Company were robbed late Friday night or early Saturday morning last week. One hundred dollars in cash was taken from the cash register and an old valuable "blinker" $10.00 bill was taken from the safe. No checks were taken. A few tires were also missing.

Ralph Graves, owner, discovered the safe open Saturday morning August 4, after he had opened for business. The back door was discovered to be open at about the same time.

Mr. Graves reported that he had been working on his income tax reports and had opened the safe Wednesday night. He did not lock it back as there was no money in it, except for the $10.00 bill which was given him by his father before the start of World War II.

Sheriff Claude Anderson and SBI Agent, M. G. Crawford investigated. Crawford took fingerprints Monday morning. The investigation continues.
