Cuz Writes Of Mystery Stomach Mashing Doctor

I know a fellow by the name of Pete Hill, course that is not his real name, just an alias I have given him so I can say anything I want to about him in this week's column.

He does some doctoring around Murphy, N. C. I have been told that he is just practicing and I'm pretty sure that is right. In fact, I know it is cause he does a right smart of it on me.

I always refer to him as my doctor. You know when you go to these free clinics and things like that they always ask, "Who is your doctor?" and you have to give some doctor's name. So I happened to think of him and his name got put down as MY DOCTOR.

I had been doing that so long on all these things and finally I thought, perhaps, I oughta go around sometime and try him out. And I did. Been going to him ever since on account of how accurate he was in diagnosing the ailment I had.

He asked me a lot of questions about my symptoms. But first he had a real pretty nurse, I'll call her Roma, he had her call me into this room and she took my temperature and counted my pulse. Told me I had a very high pulse rate.

Course, I knew it had picked up some when she was holding my hand. I told her maybe she had made a mistake and suggested that she count it over. But she didn't fall for that cause she wouldn't do it again. Anyhow I tried. I guess she has had old Bald-headed men like me in there before.

Then she turned me over to my doctor, and he asked me about all those symptoms. I gave him a long list of 'em. They were not all current, but you know, I didn't want him to think I had come to see him with nothing wrong with me.

I think he picked out the ones he liked the sound of the best to use in diagnosing me. After I had told him everything I could think of that was wrong with me, and a few that weren't, he went over to a book shelf, pulled out one and read a little bit in it.

Now this book business is designed to impress the patient. And I was impressed. After he closed this book he says to me, "Have you ever had this before?" I told him I had. He said, "It'll be darned if you haven't got it again." He was exactly right. I had it again.

Now it isn't often that you can go to a new doctor like that for the first time and be lucky enough to have him figure out your trouble as accurately as he did mine.

On the way out of his office I paused momentarily at his book shelf to see what kinda book he had looked my symptoms up in. The title of it was "Home-Owners Do It Yourself Manual."

Now that might have upset some people but it didn't me. I saw right through it. You see, he already knew what was wrong with me before he looked in the book, but, my being a new patient and all, he didn't want me to think he was making any snap judgments. And I sure appreciated that.

When I decided to go up to the hospital for a few days rest I called on him again. He wanted to know what my trouble was.

I told him I thought it was my stomach. Now this, I soon learned, was a big mistake on my part because he is unquestionably the best stomach masher I ever came in contact with. He is a big man and when he begins mashing on your stomach he can fold you up like an accordion.

He said he was looking for a sore place. Well, to begin with it wasn't sore anywhere but it sure was when he got through with it. It was just sore in one place--all over.

He would come into my room every day to mash on my stomach, sometimes twice a day. And a lot of times when he would get tired he would call Frank or Harvey in there to do the mashing. But I don't think he ever charged me for the mashing they did. Usually he told funny stories while all this was going on but I never could laugh much with my stomach being mashed all out of shape.

I found out why he was all the time complaining about being so tired. It was from all that stomach mashing.

It sure is a good feeling to get him all paid up. I feel kinda independent then. That's when I call him Pete. But if I owe him any money I always call him Doctor Hill.

The other day I heard that Pete was going of to do some special studying. I know of a very clever remark I could make here but I won't. I called him up about it.

He said that he might not go on account of he was about broke. I promised him I'd take about thirty minutes some day to feel sorry for him.

But in case he was telling the truth I have been seriously thinking of going back to the hospital--but I sure won't mention anything about my stomach this time.
