Cuz's Corner By Bagley

A Serious 8 Year Old

If any of you have long memories that you probably recall my mentioning a little boy, Johnny Crawford, in this corner before. He is the youngest son of that Fire Escape Salesman, Arvel Crawford, my former pastor, and a very serious minded little eight year old.

Johnny practices this early to bed early to rise business. Shortly before Christmas he awoke one morning, as usual, before the rest of the family. He had to string some popcorn to take to school that day. To prevent awakening other members of the family by turning on the lights, he lit a candle so he could get on with his popcorn stringing. He put the candle on his bed beside the window and PDQ the curtains were afire.

Then he tiptoed to Mom and Pop's room, gently shook his Mom's shoulder and whispered, "Mama, Mama, I set the curtains on fire in my room." Mama asked if he'd put the fire out and he replied, "No, Mam, they're still burning." This brought Mama out of bed along with the fire escape salesman to put out the fire.

If that had been me I would not have been tiptoing or whispering. I'da been running and hollering as loud as I could, "Fire, fire, run for your lives". But Johnny don't know nothing about no panic buttons.

Last summer their oldest son was getting up early going to work. His Mom and Pop thought he was fixing his own breakfast every morning. They could see the evidence of his having done so. But they learned that it was Johnny, instead, who was doing all the breakfast cooking for both of 'em.

The rest of that bunch, the lazy ones, were about to sit down to breakfast one morning. They invited Johnny to come on and eat. I thought this was right sociable of 'em. He said, "Naw, I done eat." When they suggested that he sit with them while they ate. And Johnny said, "I didn't see none of yawl getting up to sit with me while I ate mine."

Summer before last we visited these folks and about 150% of the time Johnny's B. M. (Beautiful Mama) and my B. W. played scrabble.

I'll tell you it got so bad that neither one of 'em would even look up when anybody spoke to 'em. I asked, "Johnny what in the world are we gonna do about these two women playing scrabble so much?" Johnny said, "Looks to me like we're just gonna hafta separate 'em."

Johnny & Co. visited us during the Christmas holidays. After all the neck hugging and handshaking, and everything, they all came in where Missy, our vicious chihuahua, greeted them with a lot of ferocious barking. Johnny went over to her bed to pet her.

I reckon she thought he was gonna get her bone cause she was about to bite his hand off. I tried to explain about her unseemly conduct and Johnny said, "I guess she didn't know that I don't like bones."

Not long ago they were all having dinner. Johnny had been doing some hard playing so he was kinda thirsty and he was taking some good healthy slugs of his tea. His pop, of course, knew that if this continued he wouldn't eat his dinner so he took Johnny's tea and put it in the middle of the table. He told him he could have it back as soon as he finished eating.

Some time after the meal he confided to his Mom, "You know when I get grown and married, and Daddy comes to see me at my house I'm not gonna let him drink a drop of his tea until he eats every bite on his plate."

We were all sitting around the table one night during their recent visit. Rowena, little Smarty's sister, was sorta picky at her food. We were trying to encourage her to eat when Johnny's admonition to her really gave us an insight into the Baptist preaching influence in that family. Johnny said, "Rowena, if you don't eat you'll die of SALVATION." He corrected that to STARVATION after all the laughter sorta died down.

But Johnny is a completely normal youngster, in spite of his seriousness. One night last summer his Mom was reminding him about his bath. Reluctantly Johnny submitted with this wry comment, "Sometimes I just wish I was a dog so I wouldn't ever have to take a bath."

Yep, this is the same little lad who very candidly informed me once, when he was about four years old, that "My daddy is not as ugly as you are."

Of course, I already knew that, but he probably thought I didn't, so he told me.

Local Boys To Compete For Morehead Scholarships

CHAPEL HILL - Twenty-five high school male seniors from 17 counties in this area will be interviewed Wednesday, Jan. 20, at the Battery Park Hotel in Asheville by the Morehead Awards District VI Committee.

The 25 nominees from District VI for coveted awards to study at the University of North Carolina are being interviewed in statewide competition with 172 boys from the other six Morehead Awards Districts.

District VI is composed of Avery, Buncombe, Cherokee, Clay, Graham, Haywood, Henderson, Jackson, Macon, McDowell, Mitchell, Polk, Rutherford, Swain, Transylvania, and Yancey counties. Morehead Awards provide four-year, all expense-paid undergraduate educations at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. They were established in 1951 by John Motley Morehead, UNC graduate and native North Carolinian who resided in Rye, N. Y., until his recent death. Nominees for district interviews from this area are Terry Gene Marr of Andrews and Kenneth Hayes Martin of Hayesville.

Each of the seven Morehead Awards District Committees will nominate six candidates to be interviewed in Chapel Hill by the Central Morehead Awards Committee, along with 32 nominees from 16 private preparatory schools on the Morehead Foundation's selected list. Those chosen as scholarship candidates by the Central Committee will be interviewed

IS YOUR CITY OR COUNTY SHARING IN THIS REVENUE?

The State of North Carolina's 1964 tax bill on the sale of beer was $11,292,974.98

$3,781,269.45 went back to the counties listed below.

Counties and municipalities having legal sale and control of beer divided over $3-1/2 million in tax revenue last year. They also gained revenue at the local level through license fees and franchise taxes paid by North Carolina beer wholesalers and retailers. Obviously, communities and counties not permitting legal sale and control of beer did not share in this revenue. Yet their citizens doubtlessly contributed thousands of dollars to the revenue of neighboring counties permitting legal sale and control.

Look the list over for your city or county. If you don't find it, remember this advertisement next time your taxes go up.

These cities and counties received $3,781,269.45 from state beer excise tax. Listed below are the amounts of the above excise taxes allocated to the counties and municipalities where the legal sale of beer is permitted. Figures for counties also include all amounts allocated to the municipalities therein.

THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS A DRY COUNTY!

"Can a small-town girl find happiness

(married to a man who's in love with his new Dodge Polara?)"

"A man who talks in his sleep about such nonsense as a 383 cubic inch V8, a 121 inch wheelbase, and over 17 cubic feet of trunk space?"

A man who even smiles while he dreams about the money he saved by buying a Polara instead of big-car X? Can she?

She can if he shares it with her once in a while!"

And now a word from our sponsor: "Polara."

POLARA: Two tons of body beautiful. 383 cu. in. V8 (regular gas). Full foam seats. Push carpeting. Polara—at your Dodge dealer's.
