40 Years Seems Suspicious

I have an uncle living in Pensacola, Fla., who is a native of this state, Uncle Mac, and I would tell you his full name but there are some folks by the same name living around Murphy and they might not like it. Aw, I'd go ahead and tell you anyhow, but it has been over forty years since he left the state and, you see, I ain't too sure why he left here in the first place.

You know when anybody leaves a state like this and stays gone a solid forty years, darned if it don't look suspicious to me.

If he left to keep from getting shot for horse stealing, but that couldn't be the reason. The statute of limitations would have run out on that a long time ago.

If it was to get away from a murder rap, that might explain his staying gone so long cause you know there ain't no statute of limitations on that!

I heard from this old codger the other day and he told me he was planning to come back up in here this summer. So, he must not be too worried anymore since he is gonna chance it anyhow.

Speaking of his being an "ole codger", I wouldn't have called him that if he hadn't said what he did to me a few weeks ago. I saw him down there in Pensacola and he comes up to me, rubs his hand over my bald head and says, "When are you gonna retire old boy?"

Just because I am prematurely bald he was trying to rub it in on me. And that wasn't all he did and said. Next he patted me in the belt buckle area and said, "If I didn't know you so well I'd swear you's about six—"

Oh, never mind about the rest of what he said.

Course all the time he's grinning from ear to ear like a mule eating saw briars, you know, so's I couldn't get sore at him.

But I WAS sore at him! I just didn't let on. Told him I wasn't baldheaded, that I just had a crew-cut. He says, "Yeah, but looks to me like all the crew done bailed out."

On, this fellow is a real wit. And I don't care if none of you believe but about half of what I'm telling you. That'd be good enough for him. That'll make him just the kind of WIT I had in mind.

I'm sure glad he ain't no blood kin to me. He married

Mama's oldest sister, Aunt Nora. And I declare, I have never been able to figure out how come her to get hooked up with a thing like him.

Her first three or four husbands were pretty nice fellows. At least none of 'em ever hurt my feeling like good ole Uncle Mac done.

You ought to see him. He's about a hundred years old but still straight as a board. And he's still got as much hair as he ever had, and it ain't even as gray as what I've got left. No sign of a spare tire around his middle either.

Besides all that the old geezer is spry as a cricket. But it ain't no wonder he's been able to stay in such good shape. He told me that he never smoked, drank, or fooled around with women until he was eleven years old.

And another thing, you see, him and Aunt Nora never had 'em no younguns. Well, I've been exposed to three of them little monsters and all of you know what they'll do to you!

I commented to Uncle Mac about how good he looked. You see, now wasn't this like turning the other cheek? Anyway, he says, "Well, I guess I oughta look real good. Your aunt feeds me pretty well, I have a fine place to sleep, she takes care of all my money, my neighbors tend to all my business, and that don't leave me nothing to worry about."

I told him if he wasn't careful he'd get in a rut, with nothing to worry about an all. You know what a rut is; don't you? It's a grave with the ends kicked out of it.

Maybe I should tell you a little about Aunt Nora. Way back years ago, somewhere between husbands, she stayed awhile with us. It was along about the time I made my debut into this world. Anyhow bless her heart, she's about as discreet and subtle as a blind dog in a meat house, for in front of a bunch of kinfolks and friends the other day, she says, "Young man, (bless her heart again for that 'young man') I'll have you know that I am the one who gave you your first bath. And I spanked your (censored) real good."

Now, if any of you ever wonder why I am like I am I want to tell you. I reckon it is on account of Aunt Nora. She probably got all mixed up in the excitement and hit me too hard and too high up.

2 Girls Score High In Local Betty Crocker Contest

MINNESOTA - Winners of the 1965 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow awards in high schools here are Shirley Fox, Hiwassee Dam High School, and Shirley Laney, Murphy High School.

Each scored highest in her school in a written homemaker examination administered to over a half million senior girls throughout the county on Dec. 1, and remains in contention for scholarship grants ranging from $500 to $5,000.

Test papers of all school winners in the state are being judged competitively. From this, the State Homemaker of Tomorrow will be named. She will receive a $1,500 scholarship from General Mills, Inc., sponsor of the annual Betty Crocker Search.

In addition, her school will be awarded a set of the Encyclopedia Britannica from Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc. The second-ranking girl in the state will receive a $500 educational grant.

Following her selection, the State Homemaker of Tomorrow, together with a school advisor, will join winners and advisors from each of the 49 other states and the District of Columbia in an expense-paid educational tour of Colonial Williamsburg, Va., Washington, D. C., and New York City.

Climaxing the trip will be the naming of the 1965 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Chosen from among the state winners on the basis of her original test score, plus personal observation and interviews during the tour, her scholarship will be increased to $5,000. Grants of second-, third-, and fourth-ranking girls in the nation will be raised to $4,000, $3,000, and $2,000 respectively.

All judging is conducted by
