SECOND CLASS POSTAGE PAID AT MURPHY, NORTH CAROLINA

"Feathers a'flying" we heard that Mrs. Lena Green of Hayesville has a well trained preacher dog, that brings home chickens. Course they were in pretty poor condition when they got home, so Mrs. G threw them in a nearby brush pile and set fire to it. Feathers started flying and Mrs. G realized that her faithful hound had brought home more chickens than she thought. To top it of., the "Feather-cluttered" pasture caught fire. The Hayesville volenteer fire department extinguished the blaze. Happy barbecuing Mrs.

Looks are sometimes deceiving. Three different salesmen strolled into Ivie's Furniture Store last week and after a quick look around, decided they were in the wrong place. They went up the street inquiring as to where Ivie's had moved. To their amazement, they discovered that they had been in the right place after all. You see, the store has just undergone a complete remodeling and they didn't recognize the place.

And while we're on the subject of remodeling, a tip of our hat to Troy Flemming, manager of Lay's 5&10, who is adding 3,000 additional square feet of shopping space. Construction should be completed in a week or so and we suggest that Troy furnish roller skates for customers who wish to shop in a hurry. -1-

Mary Faye Brumby delivered her first speech to the House of Representatives this week. And to top it off she gave every member a package of T-Shirts manufactured by Brumby Textile Mills here in Murphy. Now if Mrs. Brumby can just get some other members to give away coats, ties and britches, etc., it might pay to be in politics.

The anti-necking bill, introduced to the N. C. Legislature last Wednesday, could make necking while driving very unpopular. A maximum penalty of $50 or thirty days in jail is enough to discour age any young lover.

Last call for strawberry orders . . . anyone interested in obtaining the Tennessee Beauty variety of strawberries must have their order into the County Agents office by Monday, March 15. -J-

Here's a new twist. A fellow drove up to the town Police Station and told Ray Killian, who was on duty at the time, that he was drunk and would like to be taken to jail and locked up. Ray obliged.

Robert Shafto, new editor of the Andrews Journal, recently addressed the A. H. S. Journalism Class. When asked how many people it would take to report the news in Murphy, Mr. Shafto answered, "Only, one, Murphy's dull, nothing ever happends there". Boy that's a matter of opinion.

Last and Least. We would Hughes to the SCOUT staff. Anne replaces Sue Kilpatrick as Justowriter operator. She is married to Jack Hughes and they have two children, Tim and Laurie. Anne reported to work Monday morning and right off the bat was confronted with a problem. You see, she's only 5 ft. 2 inches tall and can't reach the time clock to punch in and out. The boys in the shop were quick to solve the problem though, they got her a wash tub to stand on.

Explanation To Last Week's Puzzle

1. A person who is GRACEFUL usually wins one's regard (Grateful). - One, as used here, is a generalization. A Grateful person need win the regard of only the person to whom he's grateful. A GRACEFUL person is much more likely to win regard from people generally.

Parental antagonism tends to make a headstrong youth CARE more for the girl he loves (Dare). - Note the implied comparison im more. With Dare it indicates that he has already dared for her -- an unjustified assumption. CARE is open to no such criticism.

5. Many a meek man's LIFE is made miserable by his relatives (Wife). - Wife is weak. She need not be meek; in fact, more often than not the wife of a meek man is selfassertive. LIFE is more reasonable.

An ambitious man is often apt to be dissatisfied with his BEST (Bent). - As his Bent is his natural aptitude, this amounts to a contradiction in terms. BEST is better with often apt; he's ambitious, and impatient even with reasonable

9. A disjointed TALE is apt to be irritating (Talk). TALE is better. Normally, we give all our attention to a TALE and expect to be entertained by it. This isn't true of Talk: much talk is disconnected in nature.

13. We usually feel rather sorry for a man who is BOWED by a shrewish wife (Cowed). - Usually points to BOWED. It's such a strong term. He's completely dominated by her. We needn't feel so sorry for him when he's merely Cowed; he's merely frightened of her, but still has will to resist

14. It's sometimes possible to READ a person by a look (Rend). - Figuratively, to Rend someone is to reproach him so severely that his feelings become an emotional turmoil it goes too far here. READ is better. Expressions and attitudes often clue us to a person's nature.

15. HIRING somebody is sometimes one of a conscientious employer's most difficult decisions (Firing). - Firing a man is always difficult for a conscientious person. He realizes all that the Firing implies for the employee. Only sometimes must have a most difficult time of it.

L. We usually esteem an opponent who shows GRIT when we've a big lead over him (Grin). - Usually goes rather far with Grin; it need not be a sportsmanlike Grin. GRIT is better; it indicates courage, perseverance.

Agreeable FACE often does much to win a hostess popularity (Fare) . - Note that the Fare is merely agreeable (which is more or less to be expected); it's not described as excellent or outstanding. Agreeable when applied to FACE has much more significance; she herself is attractive.

What a waste it usually is when money is LEFT to a spendthrift! (Lent), - It need not be such a waste when money is Lent to him; much depends on terms of repayment and on the security. Money LEFT to him, however, has no conditions attached, generally speaking. 6. It seldom takes an experienced person long to pluck a FOWL (Fool). - Seldom fits well with FOWL; he is experienced. With Fool more depends on circumstances; his friends might keep a watchful eye over the Fool, to protect his interests.

8. Clothes that make people START are seldom in good taste (Stare). - START is better. The closhing is outlandish and in bad taste. Stare is weak. Fashionable clothes are often Stared at, with admiration.

10. It's usually very mean to take advantage of a person's being AGED (Abed). - Exceptions are more likely with AGED he might be in full possession of his mental faculties and it might be a business deal. With Abed, an unqualified statement

11. A DOUR expression is often a sign of a severe nature (Sour). -Often goes too far with Sour; many people with Sour like to officially welcome Anne expressions are far from severe. Their expressions might spring from timidity or fear. On the other hand, Dour means

12. It sometimes irritates their parents when children are KEEN to show off (Seen). - Seen is open to question. They might show off unobtrusively, and the parents might even take pride in what they are able to do. KEEN means eager; the children make it clear to onlookers that they want to

Following was the construction of a new hospital, high school and gym, health and community center building, with plans underway for a new telephone exchange building, bank building and furniture factory. Now the new Federal and Post Office Building is underway.

One of Western Carolina's biggest boosters, Percy B. Ferebee, Mayor of Andrews, gave most of the credit for securing the new Federal and Post Office Building to Congressman Roy A. Taylor. Mayor Ferebee pointed out Congressman Taylor started the wheels turning back in 1963 for the procurement of the new building to be located in Andrews.

Executive-Secretary Congressman Taylor, Tom Mallonee, said the Congressman sent his regrets that he could not be present for the ground breaking. Congress-man Taylor's absence was due to the fact that his presence was needed along with Governor Dan Moore for the signing of the Appalachain

Congressman Taylor has been in the area for quite a few post office dedications and sent his promise that he would certainly be on hand when the new building in Andrews is dedicated.

"Congressman Taylor has dedicated so many post ofiice buildings lately, that if he dedicates many more, the Post Office Department was going to make him the 'offi-cial dedicator' of post offices," Mr. Mallonee said.

At the conclusion of speeches by dignitaries the crowd estimated at approximately 275 adjourned to the site of the new building where the actual ground breaking took Velman Nelson of the Cold Branch section of Clay County was found dead at 4 p.m. Saturday in a chicken house about 200 yards from his home, six miles east of Hayesville. Mrs. Lorene Nelson, sister of the dead man, told Sherif Neal R. Kitchens that her brother had been taking medication for the past 15 days for a nervous condition.

The body was discovered by Sammy Stamey, 18, a neigh-bor's son. The Stamey youth had joined in a search for Nelson after the sister and her two sons alerted neighbors that he was missing.

Clay County Coroner Dr. L. R. Staton ruled the death selfinflicted. Nelson died of a gunshot wound in the head, Dr. Staton said. A 16 gage shotgun was found on top of the body.
