Riddles are fun, but if we hadn't known a fellow with extra toes we'd never have come up with the answer to last weeks tidbit. There were many correct answers but there were only three early birds who got their entries post marked Thursday a.m.

A free one year subscription to the SCOUT goes out with our compliments to Mrs. Blain Stalcup, Mrs. C. C. Crain, and Mr. Ben L. Beaver. Last weeks question was: If a farmer had $100 and wanted to buy 100 animals, how many of each could he buy if pigs cost 50¢ each, sheep $3.00 each and cattle $10.00 each. Here is the correct answer: 94 pigs, $47.00; 1 sheep, $3.00; and 5 cattle, $50.00. Total 100 animals for $100.

Spring fever overcame Mrs. Nellie Taylor last week. Mrs. Taylor has been confined to her own hospital, Murphy General, for 4 1/2 months following a coronary. Mrs. T just couldn't stand the spring sunshine peeping through her window any longer, so she asked_lab technician Larry Faulk if he would take her for a ride. He said he would and she told him to meet her outside. Mrs. T didn't want the doctor to know she was leaving so she skooted down the fire escape from the second floor. Just goes to prove that you can't keep a good man, ah, woman down.

Jaycee Bud Penland was working the wrestling match Saturday night and was doing a fine job until a Japanese wrestler began twisting the leg of his opponent Len Rossi. In fact they had to carry Rossi from the ring and the match was over. All of a sudden, Bud, who was selling cokes at the time began limping all over the place. We asked him why he was limping when it was the wrestler who got his leg turned and he said, "My wife kicked me".

Ole Joe "66" Fowler has a new gadget down at his service station these days. It's one of them new fangled 5 minute car washes. Joe invited us to try it out so we told him if he would put in the quarter we would supply the man power. Sho 'nuff, we washed our old beat up station wagon in a flat 5 minutes. So the advertisment is truethey could do it and we could

Bill Hembree, owner of the Double H Drag Strip at Blue Ridge, Ga., brought a gosh awful looking four wheel monster by the office yesterday and offered us a ride. It was a 22 1/2 foot long, jet powered dragster that Bill will have running on his drag strip Saturday night. The car will turn better than 200 miles per hour in a quarter mile. Kinda makes a fellow think someone is trying to get rid of him by offering him a ride in something like that.

Hiwassee Dam Girls Attend Convention

Hiwassee Dam High School was represented for the first time at the North Carolina Association of Future Homemakers of America Convention. The Convention was held recently in Memorial Auditorium at Raleigh.

The guest speaker was Dr. Walter Kerr of Tyler, Texas, Director of the National Youth Foundation. He spoke on the theme, We Are America's Future, to the 3,500 delegates from throughout North Carol-

While there, the delegates visited such places as the House of Legislature, the University of North Carolina, and Catawba College, Mrs. Connor's Alma Mater.

Sportsmen Urged To Attend Meet

Area Sportsmen are urged to attend the N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission meeting to be held at the Courthouse in Sylva May 18 at 7:30

This meeting is to discuss the regulations for the 1965-66 hunting season.

Women who are SHREWD are sometimes harshly critized by other women. (Shrews). - Sometimes understates with Shrews used to complete the clue. Only sometimes do other women harshly criticize women who are SHREWD, keen-witted. They usually admire them.

3. Few self-made men believe the struggle facing ambitions youth is NOT sterner then it was a generation ago (Now).-Note ambitious. Because it's so difficult nowadays to amass anything resembling a fortune few believe it is NOT sterner and many believe it is Now sterner.

7. How hard it often is to AMUSE a person when we're not in the mood to do so! (Abuse) .- The exclamatory how hard indicates very hard. Whether it's often very hard to Abuse a person depends less on mood than on need for such action AMUSE is better; it doesn't need the same inspiration to be amusing as it does to be abusive.

8. Probably most of us at times feel a desire to SPEND recklessly (Speed).- Most of us includes the entire population, many of whom have neither the opportunity nor ability to drive (youngsters, the ill, the very old). SPEND is more reasonable; a greater proportion of most of us have the opportunity to SPEND money -- either well or recklessly.

12. Study is FOOD for thoughtful minds (Good). - The outright statement is better with FOOD; there can be little doubt study makes thoughtful minds work. Whether study is always Good for such minds is debatable; too much depends on the subject studied.

13. As a rule, the cleverer a criminal the harder it is for police to JAIL him (Nail).- It might be easy to Nail him, to catch him, to have sufficient evidence of wrong doing to JAIL him is quite another, and much more difficult matter,

14. Young women are apt to be self-conscious when they have NEW clothes to wear (Few). - Few implies that their wardrobe is limited. But if well-chosen, they need not be self-conscious. They're more likely to be self-conscious with NEW clothes.

15. The cruel, hard world often soon changes the disposition of a youth who is LOFTY (Softy) .- Softy means weak in character, body or mind; to change such a youth's disposition isn't so easy as often indicates. LOFTY is better; it's easier to bring down a youth who is haughty, arrogant.

1. A sensible person is usually able to laugh at SNUBS (Snobs.-It seldom, if ever, does any good to be upset over a SNUB; a sensible person usually regards them at face value. Snobs is open to question; a sensible person might pity them, rather than laugh at them.

2. We're apt to be exasperated by a vain GUEST (Quest) .-GUEST, yes; his vanity is a potential cause of exasperation. Quest is weak. Much depends on what the Quest is for. It might not be our Ouest.

4. A novelist is apt to disappoint his readers when he ends a book SADLY (Badly) .- When he ends a book Badly he's more than merely apt to disappoint readers. The restraint is better with SADLY; the end might be well written, though

5. Undeserved bitterly unkind words often make a person feel NUMB (Dumb).- NUMB is better. It indicates a more profound reaction than Dumbness- silence. Moreover, you can feel NUMB but, hardly Dumb. You're either speechless or you're not speechless.

6. Humorists often base jokes on the supposition that visiting the dentist makes most people YELLOW! (Bellow). - YELLOW is better here; humorists make much play on the alleged fear that fills the dentist's patient. They are less inclined to emphasize the Bellow --- the field is too restricted for much

9. An approach that's OILY is often apt to defeat the purpose of a request (Wily).- Wily is less fitting. If it's Wily, the approach is unlikely to be recognized as such. An OILY approach is by no means a Wily one. It may alienate the sympathy of the person approached.

10. A woman is usually less reserved than a man in talking about a FOE (Woe).- It's very hard to generalize with Woe; men and women react about the same to great sorrow. FOE is better. Women are more likely to speak their minds.

11. The fact that he BIT his brother is likely to get a boy into trouble with his parents (Hit). - The fact that he BIT his brother is much more serious than the fact that he merely Hit him.

School Board Stands Firm

Students Demand Rehiring Of Murphy School Teacher

students at Murphy High School walked away from the school grounds, Thursday, May 6, during the noon lunch period displaying their protest of the Murphy School Boards decision not to renew the teaching contract of Miss Maria Travis.

Miss Travis has been an English teacher at Murphy High School for the past seven teen years. In addition to teaching English, she teaches Journalism, sponsors the high school annual and is in charge of the school newspaper.

Apparently the student protest was to no avail. At a meeting Friday, May 7, at 2:00 p.m., the school board met with a delegation of parents, president of the student council, president of senior class and other students. The board stood firm on its decision not to rehire Miss Travis for the 1965-66 school

The question most asked by ing was, "Why was Miss Travis not rehired?"

"All teachers know that we give them the courtesy to resign, however they have the privilege to come before the school board," H. A. Mattox chairman of the board said. "We feel that it would be an injustice to the teacher to tell 900 children or adults why she has not been rehired. If Miss Travis would like to appear before the board, we will gladly discuss the matter with her and if she so desires, can make public the boards reason for not renewing her contract," Mr. Mattox continued.

In an interview with Miss Travis, Wednesday, May 12, she told the Scout that she did not know the reason for her not being rehired and that she did not plan to go before the school board.

"I have always felt that my work would speak for itself and I try to live up to my convictions in all fairness to my students," Miss Travis

Demonstrating In The Streets

Two hundred Murphy High School students marched through the streets of Murphy Thursday students at the board meet- May 6 shouting "We want Travis". The demonstration was in protest of the school boards decision not to renew the teaching contract of Miss Maria Travis.

After the open meeting, the board went into closed session to discuss what disciplinary action should be taken concerning the students participating in the demonstration.

Letters To Editor

Dear Editor:

There comes a time in every persons tide of affairs when he must face himself in the mirror and ask if he is proud of his reflection. Are we proud of the reflection we have cast on the public in the last few

We want quality education for our children, we say - New buildings, new libraries, new equipment - all of these are fine, but they cannot give quality. Only respect for the position of responsibility to the profession of teaching young people to the very best of one's ability can give quality. That means respect and trust of one adult for another adult which will in turn cause young people to respect those in authority. Because we as parents have failed to do our duty, we have caused our children to take the wrong attitude.

Talking among ourselves cannot solve our problems, even though that is what we have resorted to. We need to be able to express our sincere and honest opinion to the only group of people who control the quality of our school the school board. Our children are helped or hurt by what goes on in our schools. Because we, the majority of parents, are vitally interested in our children, we should be allowed to express our opinion in a sincere and honest manner. Instead of such expression causing trouble, it could make for understanding instead of the feeling of 'What is the use, they don't care'. We must care - a good education is too necessary for every boy and girl today. We are neighbors and friends; as such, we should be able to solve our problem for the good of all. When things go wrong at home, we eliminate the cause; the same holds true of our business. It should hold true in our schools. We as Christians are obligated tosee that it does. Let us not cast a reflection which will keep us from getting what we are seeking. Mass psychology is a smeared reflection. Ours should be a clear one of interested parents having convictions strong enough that we are willing to stand up for what we feel is for the best.

> Mr. and Mrs. Merle Davis

Dear Editor: Do we, the students of Murphy High School, believe in justice enough to speak our hearts and minds for all to hear? Are we willing to fight for our beliefs? This is a matter concerning the entire student body and faculty of Murphy High School. Are we going to sit quitely in our class rooms and allow a just and sincere teacher to be persecuted because of the selfish and rude motives of an influential minority?

We say no! We cannot shamelessly hold our heads (Continued back page)

In a motion made by John Gill and seconded by Harold Wells, the Murphy City School Board voted unanimously that Murphy High students participating in a demonstration Thursday, May 6, be put on probation and their teachers be advised to give them extra work. If in a reasonable length of time the extra work is not completed or if these students participate in any form of disobedience and/or disorder of a similar nature they will be expelled from school for the remainder of the school year.

The students left the high school grounds at approxi-mately 12:15 p.m. and went directly to the office of Holland McSwain, Superintendent of Murphy City Schools to register their complaints.

Not finding Mr. McSwain in his office, the students departed from the elementary school grounds and marched through the streets of Murphy, carrying hastily made signs and shouting, "We want Travis

The march through the streets ended with a demonstration on the courthouse steps. The rest of the afternoon was spent by most of the students gathering signatures of protest to be presented to the Murphy City School Board. Over 1,200 signatures were gathered.

Several hundred students along with a number of parents gathered at the Fairgrounds at 8:00 p.m., Thursday, to rally in further pro-

From the Fairgrounds, they went to the home of H. A. Mattox, chairman of Murphy City School Board, wherefour members of the group were received by Mr. Mattox.

A spokesman for the group asked Mr. Mattox what they could do to get the school board to reconsider their decistion concerning Miss Travis. Mr. Mattox informed them that he felt they were going about the matter in the wrong way and suggested that they meet with the school board to discuss it.

Picnic Fee Plan To Be Restudied

WASHINGTON - Reexamination of a proposed outdoor reported here Tuesday Congressman Roy A. Taylor stated.

"I am pleased to report that the entire proposal is being reexamined, with a good chance that some of the undesirable features, including picnic fees, may be dropped or substantially amended, Taylor said Tuesday. The Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, responsible for coordinating plans of the National Park Service and Forest Service, conceded the two agencies are not in agreement as to how the fee system can be uniformly implemented.

The whole matter was touched off last week when Rep. Taylor announced his strenuous objection to plans of both agencies to charge 50 cents per adult for picnicking in federal recreation areas.

In lengthly letters to Interior Secretary Udall and Agriculture Secretary Freeman. Taylor warned that this was, "Carrying fees to far," and predicted that charging for picnicking would, "Raise more trouble than money."

Taylor's action followed announcements by the park and forest services of their intentions to include picnicking among items for which fees will be imposed under the recently enacted Land-and-Water - Conservation - Fund

The congressman said it is now evident that the two agencies are not in agreement on the amount of the fees, exactly where and for what they will be charged or even what they will be charged.

For example, the Forest Service plans to charge, "En-trance" fees for admission to development recreational areas. The visitor may either

Park Service has revealed intention to charge "user" fees for individual facilities, such as $1 per night for a camp site. Under their system, no-thing would be charged for general admission to the National Park Service recreational areas in Western North Carolina. And because the $7 sticker covers, "entrance" fees only, it would not exempt the bearer from "user" fees.

Before the Land-and-Water - Conservation - Fund Act was finally approved, Congressman Taylor succeeded in getting the Great Smoky Mou-Blue Ridge Parkway exempted from entrance fees to parks themselves. Parts of the act offered by Taylor prohibit fees for the use of the high-ways within the Parkway
