

Some Husbands Face Draft Call

Married men without children will face the draft by January in many parts of the country. Several states will start inducting them even sooner. This was disclosed after an announcement Tuesday by the Selective Service System in Washington that restrictions have been lifted on drafting men married before Aug. 26. Agency officials in at least eight states said plans are under way to start drafting married men without children in December. This will include men in the 19-26 age group, with older men in the bracket to be inducted first. The North Carolina Selective Service said it does not plan to call married men without children this year.

A sampling of other state draft boards indicated most anticipated calling married men by January as the supply of eligible single men shrinks. "No doubt about it, we're going to have to induct some childless married men in December and January," said Oscar N. Grandmason, New Hampshire Selective Service Director. Montana draft board officials said they already have drafted a few men who were married after Aug. 26 and intend to call even more next month.

In Minnesota, authorities said nearly every eligible single man will have been called for induction by the end of the year. Married men without children will be called in December.

Most of the State Selective Service Directors say scholastic deferments and the number of single men rejected by the draft boards have cut into the pool of eligible unmarried men available for the increased draft calls.

Other states planning to draft childless married men in December include Maryland, Idaho, Connecticut, New Jersey, New Mexico, Alabama, Washington and Wisconsin.

Several other states said it is likely the draft will be extended to the childless married men in December, and no later than January, depending on individual board quotas.

One Oklahoma official said, "It is quite possible that in December, but certainly by January, that we will begin drafting older married men."

That sentiment was expressed by officials in Maine, Texas, Arkansas, Kansas, Nebraska, California, Nevada, and Massachusetts.

Michigan officials have informed local boards to start calling in the married men for physical examinations.

Murphy High School Observes National Education Week

Our youth lives in a world of exploding knowledge, a world in which he can see clearly the shrinking need for the uneducated and the untrained. Thus, the need to set aside one week called National Education Week.

This is held each year in November to acquaint the public with the work of education, and with the problems of training children for effective citizenship. The Business Department, the Home Economics Department, the Music Department, and Introductions to Vocations Department of Murphy High School have displayed some of their talents in the windows of Trudy's, Candler's, Coleman's, and Ivie's Furniture Store in observance of NATIONAL EDUCATION WEEK.

BUSINESS EDUCATION - The Business Education Department displayed a live exhibit in the window of Ivie Furniture Store. In order to acquaint the public with the different styles and kinds of correspondence and stenographic work taught in the department; two girls, Linda Morris and Darlene Dockery, displayed their talent by taking letters from dictation and transcribing them back. They also did free typing for the public.

A display of work done by the business department of the American Association of University Women, Murphy Garden Club, Introductions to Vocations, and Music Department of Murphy High School, Civic organizations, and church bulletins were some of the highlights shown in the exhibit.

The window featured four large keys on which Typewriting, Shorthand, Bookkeeping and Machines was lettered; also, two locks were shown on each side of the keys, above which was the following slogan: "These keys can unlock your future."

It is through education that we learn to develop our abilities, to work with our hands, and to think with our minds. The Business Education Department of Murphy High School is striving to meet these goals, and to cooperate with our local businesses; as well as being well-rounded in the business field.

HOME ECONOMICS - The Home Economics Department has a display in Candler's window. The display consists of skirts made by first year students, this is the first time they have attempted to make a garment. The skirts show the fine work these students have done.

Two Tied With 10 Points In Football Contest

The Scout football contest now moving into its eighth week adds two new names to its list of previous winners. Last week's contest also had a triple repeat winner and for the first time since the contest started, one person has won three times James A. Hughes having won two points and three points previously, topped all the entries the past week and had a five point winner, now giving him a total of ten points and a tie for first place with Hugh Carringer who has won five points each two times. With first and second place locked in a tie, third place is wide open with six people tied.

Actually, last week's contest was the closest we have had so far. No one submitted a perfect sheet. As a matter of fact seven contestants missed a total of four games and the tie breaker was really put to use to determine, first, second and third place winners. Here's the way they were scored. James Hughes missed the Virginia - South Carolina, Duke - N. C. State, Murphy - Franklin and Army-Air Force Games. He had as his tie breaker, Tenn. to defeat Ga. Tech by a score of 17-14. Second place and a new name to the list was Bud Alexander of Murphy. Bud missed the Maryland-Navy, Virginia - South Carolina Syracuse - Oregon State, and Army-Air Force games. He predicted that Tenn would beat Ga. Tech by a score of 7-6. Third place and another new name went to Bill Christy of Murphy. Mr. Christy missed the Virginia-South Carolina, Duke-N. C. State, Army-Air Force and Florida - Georgia games and predicted Ga. Tech to defeat Tenn. by a score of 17-14. Mrs. Katherine Suddeth was fourth and she missed the Clemson-North Carolina, Syracuse-Oregon State, Duke - N. C. State and Army-Air Force, and predicted Ga. Tech to defeat Tenn. 14-10. Fifth place went to Nina Ruth Graves. She missed four games and predicted Ga. Tech to defeat Tenn., by a score of 20-13. Hattie James missed four and she predicted Ga. Tech to defeat Tenn., by a score of 22-14.

Due to the fact that Hayesville and Blairsville played Thursday night instead of Friday night, we automatically scratched this game.

With the contest to run four more weeks, there is still time for anyone to win either of the three grand awards for the big money.

On-Job Training Begins At Andrews Furniture

On-the-job training at the new Andrews Furniture Industries plant in Andrews, officially got under way on Thursday morning November 11 with the initial twelve trainees assigned to the Rough Mill. After some basic indoctrination these men will receive on-the-job training on the hydro-cut off saws and rip saws in making the first cuts on the rough lumber to cut out defects and cut for the specified length and width.

As these men progress in their training and additional equipment is delivered and installed, the company will call in and schedule additional employees for training on a gradual build up basis for the Finish Mill, Machine Sanding, Sub-Assembly, Assembly and Finishing Department.

Several key men are being transferred to the Andrews Furniture operation from Magnavox cabinet plants in Tennessee to train new employees; however, company officials have expressed that whenever possible local men will be trained and promoted to supervisory jobs as they acquire the necessary cabinet manufacturing skills.

At the present time, the Personnel Department is also seeking skilled men from the general four county area for work as Patternmakers, Jig and Fixture Builders, and Molder Head Builders. Anyone having skills in one of these categories of work is requested to contact the personnel offices immediately if interested in employment.

Bulldogs Beat Franklin Windup With 5-5 Record

The Murphy "Bulldogs" closed out the 1965 season the way they started. They won their opening game and won the closing game giving them a season of 5 wins and 5 losses which also was an improvement over last year's record. Last year they won four and lost six.

The "Dogs" had things going pretty much their way throughout the entire game, scoring in every quarter with the exception of the first. They made up for this by ramming across a six pointer in the opening seconds of the second quarter and then scoring again before the half ended. The final score was 26 to 6 with the Bulldogs on top.

Stevens carried the ball across the double stripe for the first Murphy score from the three yard line. Wayman's run for the extra point was good and the Bulldogs were off and running. On the ensuing kickoff Norton, received the kick on his 32 yard line and ran all the way for 68 yards and six points. The try for the extra point failed and Murphy led 7-6. Minutes later Stevens again scored another six pointer from two yards out. This time the extra point try failed and the Bulldogs retired to the dressing room for the half with a 13-6 lead.

The Franklin lads could never get their running attack going and started the second half by filling the air with the pigskin and completed several passes before Roger Stiles latched on to one and ran untouched across the Franklin goal line for six points. The intercepted pass covered 68 yards. The try for the extra point failed again.

In the fourth and final period Murphy scored again with John Shields going the last two yards and the run for the

AMONG THE NEW improvements at Shooting Creek School are new swings on the play ground.

Clay School Enjoys New Improvements

HAYESVILLE - The students and faculty at the Shooting Creek School are enjoying the vast improvements that have been made there. During the summer months the building was completely redecorated by refinishing all the student and teachers desks, painting the entire building. This was made possible by the Clay County Board of Education using the tax dollars paid by Clay County citizen. Other improvements have been made during the summer months at the other Clay County schools.

In addition to the building improvements, sinks, drainboards, pot and pan hooks, have been installed, new furniture for the teachers lounge, play ground swings and a flag pole were purchased through the co-operative efforts of teachers, students and Parents Teachers Association of the Shooting Creek School, where Mr. Bobby S. Burch is principal. It is with pride that the faculty and students watch the flag wave over their school.

Last year the school ground was landscaped and seeded with grass and an old hedge was removed.

Right-Of-Ways Most Important, Holding Out Stalls Project

Now that the Road Bond issue has been approved, the engineers and State Highway officials are concentrating on projects throughout the 10-county Division, according to A. J. Hughes, Division Engineer.

"One thing which should be brought to the attention of the public," Hughes said, "and that is the regulation about acquisition of right-of-way for rural roads."

The State Highway Commission regulations forbid the purchase of right-of-way for rural roads - those roads without a US or NC number. The property owners give the land for the right-of-way, and usually it is a matter of just a few feet, since in a majority of cases the present road almost has enough right-of-way.

"Present rural road regulations require a 6-foot right-of-way," Hughes said. "Very often the state only used 35 or 40 feet, leaving some 10 or more feet on either side of the road for the property owner to utilize as they see fit as long as no permanent structure is put on the property."

There are a number of instances in the 10-county area right now where the State would like to pave the existing road, but one or two people are holding out on right-of-way, and this stalls the project.

"There are so many projects being engineered, that we do not have the manpower to spend endless hours seeking right-of-way from those who refuse to cooperate," Hughes continued.

"The truth of the matter is, we have scores of places anxious and begging for roads where there is not a right-of-way problem, and as a means of saving money, and getting the program underway, we shall be forced by necessity to go to such jobs," he went on to explain.

The Division Engineer suggested that communities get together, have a meeting, and make sure the right-of-way is no problem, and when the time comes to modernize or pave such a road there will not be any wasted time.

"The money we spend belongs to the people, and all our State Highway officials are determined to get the most for every dollar and for that reason, we cannot waste expensive man hours on some projects haggling over right-of-way," Hughes went on to explain.

The program just approved by the people is not a crash program, the engineer said, but is to cover a period of five years.

W. Curtis Russ, Commissioner of the 14th division has said, publicly and in print on several occasions, that as to rural roads, first consideration will go to school bus routes, pointing to safety for them is of first and foremost importance.

New Andrews Post Office Opens Friday

ANDREWS - The Post Office building in Andrews has been completed and postal service in the new facility will begin Friday morning, Nov. 12, Postmaster William P. Walker announced Wednesday.

The 5 p.m. mail Thursday will be the last mail put up in the old building and everyone is asked to pick up their mail no later than 9:30 p.m. At that time all mail will be rebounded and moved to the new building.

All post office boxes in the new building require keys and although some people have picked up their keys, there are many who have not, Postmaster Walker stated.

Veterans Caravan Will Visit Murphy Friday

Is patriotism going out of style?

One group that's convinced it isn't, and that is determined to convince a lot of other folks is Veterans of World War I, Department of North Carolina.

To accomplish a dual purpose - to enlist more members and to boost public support of United States foreign policy - the group is sponsoring a statewide motorcade dubbed "Operation Buddy."

State Commander Lindsey Swindell and his chief of staff, Raymond Jeffreys, will occupy the lead car as the caravan swings into scores of cities and towns from Manteo to Murphy.

It is painted white and splashed the length of the car in huge red letters are "Operation Buddy", and "Veterans of World War I."

The membership goal of the state group is 10,000 (the present membership is 6,000). Swindell feels that now more than ever before the organization needs added strength to "support our government's foreign policy and to strengthen our national security."

The caravan according to the organization, is the most extensive campaign yet attempted by a veterans group in the U.S. The tour started last Monday and will make stops in 66 different towns and cities before it ends Nov. 13.

The Caravan will reach Murphy Friday at 4:30 p.m. and will stop in front of the Cherokee Scout Building.

At 5 p.m. a rally will be held in the Cherokee County Courthouse at Murphy with State Sen. Oral Yates of Haywood County as the speaker. The World War I veterans hope to fill the courtroom for the program. Especially invited are members of veterans organizations and reserve and Civil Defense units.

On a state level, Gov. Dan Moore has designated Nov. as "World War I Veterans Recognition Month" and has asked the cooperation of Tar Heels in its activities, calling especially for support of the "Operation Buddy" caravan.

The national WWI Veteran organization has taken a stand in support of President Johnson and our action in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

Every Member Canvass Chairman is Mr. Thomas Price, U.S. Ranger at Robbinsville, and member of the Murphy Church. A congregational dinner is planned for November 17, at 6:30 p.m. at which the plans will be discussed with the members. Entertainment is to be provided for children while the meeting is in session following the dinner. Mr. Price is to be the speaker.

The Every Member Canvass is to be conducted on the afternoon of Sunday, Nov. 21 between 1:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. Members of the church will be requested to be at home during those hours so that the canvass may be completed in one day.

A significant advance is usually attained when Episcopal Churches throughout the nation seriously enter into the program.

Points of study for the year: (1) Relating one's characteristics, interest, aptitudes, and abilities to occupations. (2) Relating our economic system to occupations. (3) Exploring manual and mechanical occupations. (4) Exploring clerical, sales, and service occupations. (5) Exploring professional, technical, and managerial occupations.

Episcopal Church Launches Campaign

In the next two weeks Messiah Episcopal Church will conduct a vigorous effort to move to a new level of Stewardship as outlined by the last General Convention of the national church. Delegates consisting of laymen and clergy members representing the entire church resolved that tithing is the official standard of giving by Christians, and that at least half the tithe should be contributed to the local parish church.

The Vestry of Messiah at its last meeting adopted this resolution as the standard for their church, with each vestryman agreeing to make his own pledge according to that standard.
