Presiding over this term of Superior Court now in session is Judge Francis O. Clarkson of Charlotte and we discovered that he is no stranger to Murphy. Judge Clarkson spent night of his honeymoon at the Regal Hotel - 4l years ago.

Mrs. Bernice Wyszynski, of Bristol, Conn., spotted an ad of a automobile agency which advertised a late model con-vertible for "1395 bananas" whereupon she took 25 bananas to the agency as a down payment. The salesman laughed her out of the place of busi-ness. She appealed to the State Department of Consumer Protection and the automobile dealer was compelled to sell the lady the advertised automobile for the 1395 bananas, worth approximately $60,00.

R. R. Carryl, of Rt. I, Murphy, is one of our most arnt writers of letters to the Editor and to the Scoutlet Column. This time Mr. Carryl takes issue with Uncle Sam s prices on envelopes. "To be sure we are both talking about the same, stamped envelope that I sent you," says Mr. Carryl, "I might mention that the stamp is lavendar in color rather than blue. Also an error has been made in the design in that no eye shows in the Eagle's head which necessitated my inking one in. Prior to the 100% increase in the retail price of the blue stamped envelopes, that is the envelopes alone, less stamp, we paid $10 per 1,000. Now we pay $20 per 1,000 for the same envelopes. In your art-icle on November 4, the government said they were losing 1.5 million dollars a year selif you pay 3/4 million back, so will 1." (Scoutlet Note: Our budget won't stand it but we will sell you envelopes for $8,35 a thousand and print your return address on them to boot.)

Betcha didn't know that through the first eight months of 1965, foreign steel mill products entered the United States at a rate of about 20 tons a minute. That's almost enough to make the world lop-sided, ain't it.

Between now and December 25. let's show our county neighbors that we town folks were not born with larceny in our hearts. Every year it happens, town folks cutting down trees in the county not thinking about stealing other people's property. On the other hand, if country folks came into town and cut a tree out or someone's yard, the screams of outrage would be heard from one end of the county to the other.

Harvey McRae of Murphy, Rt. 3, sometimes has his troubles. Mr. McRae has a mess of chickens, you see, and he gathers some 4,569 eggs each day. You guessed it, good ole Harvey got up for breakfast the other day and You guessed it, there wasn't an egg in the house. He had to drive half a mile to the hen house before he could have breakfast.

Welsey Tillson, 58, is being sought by the Cherokee County Sheriff's Department in connection with the cutting. Two warrants have been issued for Tillson charging him with assault with intent to kill.

According to Glen Holloway, Deputy Sheriff, all three men had been drinking and were parked on the Hilltop Road hen the incident occured. Watson told Deputy Holloway that while the three men were sitting in the front seat of Brown's car, Tillson reached across him and stabbed Brown in the chest, Brown then got out of the car and to the home of Jess Buchanan who took Brown to his home and called an ambulance.

Watson stated that Tillson stabbed and cut him and left him in the car.

Bill Tillson, brother of Wel-sey, went to his mailbox and discovered the Brown vehicle and Watson lying in the front

Dave Bristol Named Coach For Cincinnati Reds

By: Red Schuyler

With Southwestern North Carolina and the entire tristate area now within commutbaseball and Major League Football, announcement has rews native has arrived in the major League Baseball scene.

It was known that the Cincinnati Reds would appoint a new manager for the upcoming year and there were a lot of people in this area hoping and anticipating that possibly this honor would come to Dave Bristol. It is this writer's opinion that Dave posessed the capabilities and certainly would make a fine manager. The Reds named Don Hefner as manager and immediately Hefner named Dave to a base coaching job. We would like to publicly con-gratulate Mr. Hefner on his choice and also extend congratulations to Dave Bristol on his new assignment. I am sure that even with the following that the Reds had in this area, this appointment will have even more people pulling for the Reds.

Dave Bristol began his baseball career fifteen years ago at the age of 17 and during the off season taught school and helped with the coaching duties at Murphy High School through the 1963 season. At the age of 32 Dave will have the distinction of being one of the youngest coaches in the majors, if not the youngest. When contacted, this is what Dave said. "There's no better way to go up than as a coach. When I started at seventeen, I had my heart set on being in the big leagues. I couldn't do it as a player (There are possibly some who would argue with Dave on this point) so I figured the best way then was as a manager. That is still goal of mine; someday soon

I hope to realize this ambition." Where is Dave now? He is currently managing Cincinatti's Tampa entry in the Fla. Winter Instructional League. In fifteen years that Dave has been in professional baseball nine of those years have been spent as a minor league manager in Cincinatti's farm system. He has managed in every classification from D to triple A, making stops in Hornell and Geneva, N. Y., Visalis, California, Palatka, Fla., Topeka, Kansas, Macon, Ga.,

on Friday morning.

Va., Ogden Utah. ing distance of Major League Sunbury, Maryland; West Palm Beach, Fla., Wausau, Wisconsin, and a a playing reached the Scout that an And- manager in Hornell, Geneva, Visalia, Palatka, and Topeka.

> Working with manager Hefner will not be a new experience with Dave. Heretofore Dave has worked with his new boss in the Reds major league spring training camp. Dave is following in the footsteps of Hefner and if tradition means anything, he will be the next manager for the Reds. Hefner manager San Diego for the two years before Dave took over as manager. In 1964, Hefner took a coaching job with the New York Mets.

Another thing that Dave has going for him is the fact that last season Cincinnatti had eighteen players on its major league roster who had played for Dave in the minors. The most notable of these was second baseman Pete Rose who went straight from Bristol's Macon Club in the old Sally League to Cincinnatti and won the National League Rookie of the Year Award.

With Milwaukee moving to Atlanta next year, this means that fans and friends of Dave will get to see him in action. What a fine tribute to an equally fine young man it would be to organize a bunch of fans and go to Atlanta next year on some inday and root for the Reds and Dave Bristol.

Bristol's present plans call for him to remain in Florida until the Instructional League closes November 28, then go to Fort Lauderdale for the major-minor league meetings and then returning to Andrews to await the opening of spring training in February.

Gene Mauch was managing the Philadelphia Phillies at age 34 and had the distinction of being the youngest man to manage a Major League team. Dave Bristol at 32 has two years to go and who knows if the chips fall right he could take that honor. This might not happen, but I do know this. There will be many people hoping and pulling for him if it does happen, it couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

In the years that I have spent in Western North Carolina, I do not recall of anyone having a day set aside for them. I think it would be fitting at this time, upon his return to Andrews and Cherokee County that a day be set aside 'Dave Bristol Day in Cherokee County" for a young man that has brought credit to this whole area.

Only Three Weeks Left In Football Contest

now going into its eighth week of research in trying to come has added two new names to up with a five point winner nteen previous winners.

With thirty remaining points up for grabs and no one can win over five points at a time, it's still anybody's guess as to who will win the big money.

The real "stumper" this past week were the Kentucky-Houston, Texas-T.C.U, Clemson-Maryland, Georgia - Auburn, L. S. U - Miss. State, and Florida State - N. C. State games.

This week we had four entries that missed three games and the tie breaker was put to use to come up with the three winners. Blain Stalcup was the 'top dog" and won $5.00 and five points. He missed the Florida State - N. C. State, Kentucky-Houston, and Texas T.C.U. games and predicted Ole Miss to defeat Tenn 10

Second place winner was Jimmy Matheson of Murphy-He missed the Clemson -Maryland, Florida State - N.C. State, and Kentucky - Houston games and predicted Tenn. to defeat Ole Miss 14-10.

Third place winner and a previous winner of 3 points was Jo Ann Matheson of Murphy. She missed the Florida State - N. C. State, Kentucky-Houston, and the Texas - T. C.U. games. She predicted Tennessee to defeat Ole Miss 13-7.

Fourth place and honorable mention goes to Connie Mc-Corkel of Hayesville. She missed the Auburn-Georiga, Clemson - Maryland, and the Ohio State - Iowa games and predicted Tenn. to defeat Ole Miss. 14-6.

To date there are two people tied for first and second place with ten points each and seven people tied for third place. With only three weeks remaining, it is possible that anyone that has failed to score any points could win the big prize of $165.00.

Of course that condition will cease after this week due to the fact that five is the maximum number of points anyone can win in one week. A gain of five points for Hugh Carringer or James A. Hughes out of the next three times would almost virtually assure one of these gentlemen first place money. You can bet that these

The Scout's Football contest two men will be doing a lot

On the other hand, anyone of seven people now tied for third place could forge ahead into third place by just gaining two points. Six people in the three point bracket and five people in the two point bracket could go up quite a few places with a five point winner

So, as it stands no one is assured of anything even though the contest has been running eight weeks. But you had better hurry, because only three more weeks remain.

People we have talked to, have said that they enjoyed the contest and were sorry to see it come to an end. This is the first year that the Scout has run the football contest in a long time.

In order to run a contest of this type, it needs sponsorship and we would like to urge those of you that need any of the merchandise sold by these sponsors that you be sure and give them your patrongae. The merchants sponsoring this years contest are: Smoky Mountain Gas Company, Citizens Bank & Trust Co. Insurance Department, Hughes Supply, Inc., Hicks Gulf Service, Murphy Laundry, Mauney Drug Co., Elmer Kilgore, Marketeer for Sinclair Products, Hughes Electric Shop, all of Murphy and Clay Farmer's Exchange of Hayesville. visit tells the boy or girl that someone cares and will give a far better idea of what is needed to help.

In an address before a Task Force on Youth Opportunity in St. Louis, Missouri, the Vice-President said that "we are entering and continuing a third phase of the Youth Opportunity Campaign -- to not only encourage boys and girls to return to school, but to help those who have returned to stay there."

Mr. Humphrey said that nearly one million summer iobs not otherwise available had been located as the result of phase one of the Youth Opportunity Campaign which President Johnson asked him to head last May.

He said that there is "reason to believe that phase two"aimed at encouraging young boys and girls who had dropped out of high school to return -- "was successful too."

Stressing the importance of locating the potential dropout, Vice-President Humphrey said "if school dropouts continue at the present pace, there will be 32 million adult, nonhigh school graduates in the labor force in 1975 -- at a time when jobs for the uneducated and untrained will be far fewer than today." Potential dropouts "share several characteristics," the Vice-President noted. He described them as "underashievers," often missing or late to school, changing schools frequently and not participating in school activities, such as sports or dramatics.

"More than four-fifths have the capacity to finish high school," Mr. Humphrey pointed out. He said that the potential dropout "may have a discipline problem, but is probably not a delinquent, and probably has an unhappy home situa-"Some 79 percent of dropouts have never had serious behavior problems and some 61 percent of the dropouts have IQ's at or above average," he explained. Mr. Humphrey called "failure of the school to stimulate the student" the "main factcontributing to school dropout. Poverty ("Some 40 percent of dropouts come from families below the poverty line") "failing some classes" and "lack of family motivation" were among other reasons he gave as contributing to school dropout. He said that in those cases where youths drop out for economic reasons, "there is seldom any appreciation in the family of the relationship between income, employ-ment and education."

West Of Asheville Don't Seem To Count At Shrine

By: Red Schuyler

There has been a lot said and printed both pro and con about the Shrine bowl game that is played every year early in December in Charlotte between the so called best High School Seniors of North and South Carolina.

There's no doubt about it, it's hard to come up with the top thirty-three High School Senior football players in a State as large as the State of North Carolina with 100 large counties, with some of the counties having as many as fifteen or more High Schools in it. With no school allowed more than two representatives you can readily see that it is quite some job to screen out the top players. Whereas, in the case of the South Carolina representatives, it is not near as difficult a task due to the fact that is is a much smaller State.

For a young High School senior to play in the Shrine bowl is indeed a great honor. Not only is he playing for a very worthy cause but they are also on exhibit to all college football scouts from all over the south and southeast. Here is where most of the football scholarships are awarded. It is a very rare occasion when a boy receives a scholarship if he is not selected to play in the Shrine Bowl. That's why to him, it's very important that he not be overlooked.

Each year the coaches all over the State are called on to submit a list of boys that they think are worthy of Shrine Bowl participation. From the results of these lists, it appears to be a waste of time for the Coaches west of Asheville. In the twenty-six years that I have been in Western North Carolina, I can't recall of but a very few boys west of Asheville participating in this all important game. Being an ardent fan and a follower of football, I know that we have had lots of boys in this area (west of Asheville) that have been overlooked due to one reason or another and the biggest reason is our geographical

Just a few years back I overheard one football Coach say that he has always sent in a list of hisreccommendations and so far they had been ignored. He went on to say that if the two names he was sending in that year were ignored and were not invited to participate, that this would be the last time he would make reccomendations and would ignore the request thereafter. What happened? They were ignored as usual. The same old story, too far away. We don't need mountain boys.

Before these two boys finished school, they were scouted and "courted" by football scouts from The University of Tennessee, Alabama, Auburn, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Clemson, Furman, Western Carolina, Wake Forest and many other large colleges. These two boys could have gone to any of these schools on a full football scholarship. One boy chose Wake Forest and is now a Junior and playing outstanding ball for Wake. . The other boy enlisted in the U.S. Marines.

A year later, Andrews had one of their best teams in history They won every game they played on the way to the overall State class A Championship. They played teams from Manteo to Murphy and were victorious in all their games. That was when you played four Champions from other areas of the State. From this team there were two boys that could and should have been selected. These two boys had many schools offering them scholarships too. One is a sophomore at Clemson and from what we have heard and read, he is destined to become one of the Clemson All-Time greats in the football world. The other young man is pursuing a career in the medical world.

We could go on and on giving you othernames and schools and boys that have been overlooked through the years. We only mention these two as examples due to the fact tha we are more closely associated with them than the others. What can be done to erase this condition? Honestly, we don't know. One sportswriter has suggested that we have two Shrine Bowl Games. One in Charlotte and one in Asheville. I remember a few years back that a bowl game was held in Asheville and it was called the Optimist Bowl. It was discontinued due to the fact that it was frowned on by some big wheel in the N. C. High School Athletic Association. This same wheel, I understand tried to throw a monkey wrench into the Shrine Bowl game but it was unsuccessful. Certainly such a contest that has the slogan "Strong legs run, so that weak legs may walk" whould be given all the ort nossible. All profits go to the Shrine fro crippled children in Greenville, S. C. But by the same token there should be some way possible where these selections could be made on a more equal basis. Possibly you have a solution or think you have. If so, we'd like to hear from you.
