Kin Of Dan 'I Boone

(EDITORS NOTE: A feature story on Herman Estes and his Boone ancestry with full photo coverage will appear in a forth coming issue of The Cherokee Scout.)

People do beat all! Some people anyhow. For instance, if you were a direct descendant of such an illustrious figure in American History as Daniel Boone, would you keep quiet about it?

And I can just hear you screaming, "Why, of course not!" I'm just like you, too, I would be for telling it. Tell you what, if I were kin to somebody like that I'd probably call the Party Line Show, the first thing, and tell about a hundred thousand people. Then, you know good'n well that I'd sure put information like that in a whole bunch of newspapers.

But everybody is not like me and you. I reckon it's a good thing too, on account of I can't imagine a world as fouled up as one would be if it was full of folks like us - and, especially, if they were all like me.

Herman Estes, of Brass-town, N.C., right here in Clay County, is one of those people who is not a bit like me. He is a Great, Great, Great Grandson of Ole Daniel Boone, and I've known him for twenty years. But I had never heard a word about Dan'I being his famous kinsman until I actually visited in his home a few nights ago.

I don't believe I would have heard a word of it even then if I hadn't been nosey and asked about a family crest - or coat of arms that I saw hanging on the wall in the Estes living room.

When I did question his about it he finally got around to explaining that he was a fifth generation descendant of THE Daniel Boone, Oh, he's proud of it, sure, but he's perfectly content to just keep information like that literally bottled up right there in his and Mabel's (his wife) house.

Well, they have kept a pretty tight lid on the secret long enough. I'm presently engaged in a project that'll not only prize the cover off, but one that'll lose it for good.

Herman was born in Kentucky and waited until about twenty-five years ago to migrate to Clay County where he was associated with the John C. Campbell Folk School until his retirement a few years ago.

I don't know why the heck he says that he's retired cause right now he is planning to go to Cherokee to teach a wood working class for several weeks. Of course, his ideas of retirement differ a right smart from mine. Some folks retire and get busier than ever - like Herman and Mabel Estes. Now when I retire... Herman said, "You know I'm just a wood butcher." But I can tell you, he'll kid you. Cause if you look around in his home you won't have any difficulty in deciding that, in actuality, he is an artist sculptor. Everywhere you look you'll see examples - works of art in wood.

His talents, and Mabel's, for she is just as involved as he is, extend into still another area. They are both Rock-hounds and their creative instincts have led them to produce many truly beautiful Objects d' Art in rocks.

Their works of art in wood and rocks have been featured in exhibits, fairs, and shows in several Southeastern States. And Herman can be persuaded to appear at Civic Club functions to talk about his rocks or his wood creations, if you act genuinely interested.

Now he and Mabel are all wound up in yet another undertaking: Amateur Photography. And they are just as conscientious about achieving excellence in this as they are about their other endeavors. You've heard of a few people like them - who were never happy with doing anything unless they could do it like an expert. And it was through this that I managed to gain access to a little of his "inside story."

I think it's natural that he would be interested in history since he has Dan'I Boone for an ancestor. He and Mrs. Estes spend a lot of their retirement time visiting famous historical landmarks, and they are making color slides of every one of them.

When he told me of his collection of pictures of Revolutionary and Civil War battle sites I asked if I could bring Sharon to see them, thinking you know, that this might help her in school. The invitation to "visit anytime" was forthcoming. So, to make sure that he didn't forget that he'd invited us, we took him up on it very promptly.

In discussing his famous forefather, Herman said, "When I was a boy I had a lot of fights when I said anything about being kin to Daniel Boone. So, after I grew up I decided to establish the fact, from records of my relationship to Grandpa Boone."

This decision led him to the National Archives of History in Washington, D. C. And with this help and old family records he has it all down in easily traceable form.

One of the nicest compliments anyone can ever pay a scribbler is to let him know you read him. Herman took time to do that a few days ago. He had read a funny story in a newspaper someone had sent him from West Virginia, and, he said, "As soon as I read that I thought, 'Now Cuz's, just gotta see this, he might want to write something about it.'"

But Herman Estes, Great, Great, Great Grandson of Daniel Boone, I think, is a much much more interesting story.

Herman loaned me his scrapbook, told me to use any part of it that I wanted to - the following is from that scrapbook:

Technical Analysis of a Very Selective Subject - THE CHEMICAL WOMAN

Subject: Feminine Chemistry, Symbol: WO, Accepted Atomic Weight: 120 lbs., Physical Properties: Boils at nothing, freezes any minute, melts when properly treated, very bitter if not used, Occurances: Found where ever men exist, Chemical Properties: Possesses great affinity for gold and silver, platinum and precious stones. Violent reaction if left alone. Able to absorb great amounts of food matter. Turns green when placed beside a better looking specimen. Uses: Highly ornamental, useful as a tonic in acceleration of low spirits and an equalizer of distribution of wealth. Is probably the most income reducing agent known. caution; highly EXPLOSIVE IN INEXPERIENCED HANDS

For the guy who'd rather drive than fly: Chevelle SS 396

Chevelle SS 396 Sport Coupe with Body by Fisher, seat belts front and rear, one of eight features now standard for your added safety.

POTENT THE CHEVROLET WAY

This is about a Chevelle—a very special one—with a bulging hood, a black grille and red stripe nylon tires. Start it up and you've tuned in on 396 cubic inches of Turbo-Jet V8.

Get it moving and suddenly you're a driver again. With gears to shift. A clutch to work. Even a set of gauges to read, if specified.

Now take a curve, surrounded by a machine that delights in crooked roads.

This, you see, is an SS 396. A Chevelle, yes. But what a Chevelle.
