Glenn Sees 'Roll Call' Aidna Freedom Tenets

VALLEY FORGE, PA - Col. John H. Glenn, who is heading the 1966 Freedom Roll Call campaign from Feb. 14 through Feb. 28, said today he didn't believe Communism could be a threat to the United States as long as people understand American Democracy.

"Despite draft card burnings, protest marches, teach-ins and other anti-Government demonstrations, voices that speak for freedom are stronger than ever," declared the retired astronaut, now a businessman. "The Roll Call is a reminder, however, that we must never let down our guard."

Col. Glenn, first American to orbit the earth, called upon all citizens to "speak, act and think" on behalf of the democratic processes. He said the awards program of the Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge, which sponsors the annual nationwide Roll Call, brings more and more entries each year - a total of some 1,500,000 in 16 years.

Some 30,000 awards of cash, medals, citations and "pilgrimages" to historic Valley Forge, where Washington and his army spent the winter in 1777, have been made to individuals, teachers, school systems and civic and patriotic organizations.

Col. Glenn announced this year's Roll Call slogan would be: "The more you use freedom, the longer it lasts."

The Roll Call, now in its sixth year, is intended to alert every citizen to his rights and duties in a free America. Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge responds to every request for a copy of its Freedom Handbook which tells what citizens can do.

Freedom Foundation, founded in 1946, is conducting a $7.5 million drive to complete by 1970 an American Freedom Center and patriotic shrine, a complex of nine buildings, and a Congressional Medal of Honor Grove. This year the foundation hopes to complete a $1.5 million George Washington Building, companion edifice to the existing Martha Washington Building, a Hall of Records for the Medal of Honor Grove and a residential hall to house students, teachers, writers and researchers participating in Foundation's seminars, programs and workshops.
