WHOSIT! If you can identify the above bearded character, we'll give you a King James edition of the Holy Bible absolutely free, a $5.95 value. If you can tell us when he grew it, we'll toss in a free one-years subscription to the Cherokee Scout - total value of $9.01. All we'll tell you is that he is a well-known Murphy resident. Entries must be postmarked no later than Monday a.m. His relatives are not eligible. No phone calls, please. Earliest postmark wins.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE that rainey brings sunshine and bacon brings ice cream? Yes, it's true. You may prove it by checking at a loca1 motel (Mooreland Heights Court) and you'll find stopping there are Mr. Rainey who sells Sunshine Crackers and Mr. Bacon who sells Mayfieldice cream. How about that!

Age is sometimes deceiving. The Scout's own "Cuz" was visiting Cyrus White recently at a local hospital and the subject of age was being discussed. "How old do you think I am assess "Well, by the looks of ya, I am asked "Cuz"

I'd guess about 2 years my junior," says Cyrus. Actually Cyrus is 66 and "Cuz" is 47. Looks like "Cuz" would learn to keep his mouth shut sometimes.

Now they've done it. The powers that be have issued a Realty license to a female. Diann Dorsey out at Farm and Resort Realty Company recently got her Realty license and now she can peddle real estate all over the place. Next thing you know, they'll want to give women the right to vote.

Would believe that a waterfall has been lost? At least that's the way it looks, and the curator of the North Carolina Museum of Art is looking for it. This all started when a Thomasville couple gave the museum a painting with the name "Tamahaka Falls" written in script on the back. The director of the museum says he believes the artist. who died in 1905, was the first to penetrate Western North Carolina. An old catalog hinted that the falls are located in Cherokee but didn't state whether or not it was the town or county. If you think you know where the lost "Tamahka Falls" are give us a call.

-J-A former national president of the Trial Lawyers Association has suggested that the automobiles should be put in jail when a person is caught violating traffic laws. "If the automobile has become the great American status symbol let's take it away from him when he misuses it," the lawyer said. Note: This would be a good way to keep juries from turning loose traffic violators and leaving the cars on the streets.

-J-The latest thing going on down at City Barber Shop is on L.B. Ledford. Seems that a customer in L.B.'s chair was having a rough shave and he said, "I say, Barber, have you another razor?" L.B.-"Yes, why?" Customer-"I just want to defend myself."

TODAY'S THOUGHT- Not only is the horse becoming extinct; so are the people who work like one.

Governor Moore Scoutlets To Be Here For Groundbreaking

Gov. Dan K. Moore will attend the ground breaking ceremonies for the new building at the Tri-County Industrial Education Center the Tri-County at Peachtree, Thursday, May Holland McSwain, director of the center, said he was notified last weekend that the governor would accept his invitation to attend the ground breaking. The public is invited to the ceremonies which will begin at 3 p.m. The new building will be constructed with the help of funds made available under the Appalachian Redevelopment Program. The federal government made a $48,000 grant for this purpose a few weeks ago. The remaining $12,000 will come from Cherokee County.

McSwain said Cherokee is the only county paying the local share. He explained that while the school also serves Clay Graham counties, the building will become the property of Cherokee County.

Man Found Dead In Swing Here

Alvin Martin, 66, was found dead in a swing at his home on Wells Street, Friday morning.

Coroner J.C. Townson said Martin had been dead about eight hours. Death was believed caused by a heart attack.

Martin, a mechanic for Regal Mills, had been involved in an accident last week when drove a car owned by Virgil O'Dell backward into the Employment Security Commission office.

Area Summer Youth Corps Approved

Tom Day, Four-Square Community Action President, announced this week that Sum-Neighborhood Youth Corps enrollees are being selected in nine high schools in Clay, Cherokee, Graham, and Swain counties.

The recently approved Summer NYC Program will give employment to 100 needy high school students for ten weeks this summer. They will work 28 hours weekly at a salary of $1.25 per hour. The program, under the direction of Mrs Jayne Ramsey of Murphy, begins June 16 and will end August 24.

Students are being selected by school principals and guidance counselors. Selection is based strictly on need, with welfare and surplus commodities recipients receiving first priority. Enrollees are selected on a non-discriminatory basis. To be eligible, they must be returning to high school in the fall. The students chosen for will be given jobs as close to their homes as possible. Many of the jobs will be in the schools while others will be in town and county offices, public agencies and private, non-profit ganizations. This summmer's program will be the second NYC project undertaken by Four -Square. A current in-school project is employing 176 students in jobs in schools throughout the four county area. Since February, these students have had an opportunity to earn cash and the project has enabled many of them to remain in school and participate in many activities in which they would have otherwise participated. "The in-school project has proven to us what NYC can do, Day said, "For this reason, we are especially pleased to be able to continue though the

The Cherokee Democratic Party held its convention at the Courthouse Saturday afternoon. A slate of candidates for the November general election

Pete Stalcup was nominated as the party's candidate for sheriff in a close race with Ray Sims. The Murphy policeman bested Sims by five votes, 43-38. Another contender for Ernest Crowe, sheriff. received four votes. A five vote margin decided the race for register of deeds candidate also. Jack Carter defeated Henry Truett, 45-40. A lively discussion on eligibility was raised when Mrs. Hugh Hensley was nominated as a candidate for register of deeds. A delegate questioned her elgibility since Mrs. Hensley had not been living in the county for some time. While the statutes on this were being checked, the delegate who nominated Mrs. Hensley withdrew her name.

Hugh Rayburn of Andrews was nominated for the clerk of court post. He defeated Murphy restaurant owner Jimmy Howse, 51-34.

Lewis King and Robert Stiles were nominated for the Cherokee County school board. King received 83 votes and Stiles got 69. A third contender, James Chapman got 17 votes.
