Mrs. Hendrix Is Nominated "Mother Of The Year"

Mrs. Clarence Hendrix has been chosen as a district nominee for the selection of the State Mother of the Year for 1969. Announcement of the name of the State Mother of the Year will be made at an awards luncheon in Raleigh on April 10. Selection of the State Mother of the Year is under a special committee of the State Mothers' Association.

The mother selected must exhibit evidence that she is a successful mother. She must embody those traits highly regarded in mothers: courage, cheerfulness, patience, affection, kindness, understanding, and homemaking ability. She must also have a sense of responsibility in civic affairs and be active in service for public benefit. It is important that the Mother of the Year be an active member of a religious body and exemplifies in her life and conduct the precepts of the Golden Rule.

Mrs. Hendrix was placed in nomination by the Cherokee County Extension Homemakers Council. She has been active in Home Demonstration and Extension Homemakers work for more than twenty-five years and has also worked with 4-H. Currently she is teaching craft classes through Tri-County Technical Institute. All of her life Mrs. Hendrix has been involved in bringing pleasure and knowledge to others. She attributes much of the knowledge she has helped others with to her years of Home Demonstration work. Mr. and Mrs. Hendrix are parents of three children: Mildred Hendrix Stewart of Fort Worth, Texas and Edwin and David Hendrix both of Cherokee County. They have presented the Hendrix' with a total of seven grandchildren.

low cost electricity gives you "extras"

fresh clean

ELECTRICITY DOES IT BEST!

Isn't it nice to get something extra at no extra cost? You do every time you use electricity in your home. You get the extra convenience, extra cleanliness, and extra comfort only electricity can furnish. These advantages come with heating and cooling. Cooking. Washing and drying clothes. Heating water. And with dozens of other household jobs. And you get all of these at low, low cost. In convenient, one-bill service. We say fresh, clean electricity does it best at lowest cost. And it does — with extras!
