Singings are on tap this coming Saturday and Tuesday at two area Baptist churches. Everyone is invited to attend the singing at the Old Shooting Creek Baptist Church Saturday night. And then on Tuesday night, The Little Glade Baptist Church will feature the internationally known Favorite Melody Quartet of Knoxville, Tenn. Singing begins at 8 p.m. at Glade and tho it wasn't announced we imagine the time will be the same at Shooting Creek.

Mrs. Robert Graham, reporter for The Ogden Community Action Club, advises us that their next meeting will be held Monday at 7 p.m. According to the report, a very interesting program has been planned and all people in the Pine Log, Brasstown, and Warne areas are urged to attend. The program includes a film and refreshments will be

Tom L. Mallonee, 11th congressional district assistant to Congressman Roy A. Taylor, is now making a scheduled visit to Cherokee and Clay County. On Friday September 19, he will be at the Town Hall, Andrews, from 9 to 9:30, at the City Hall, Murphy, 11 to 12 and at the Clay County Courthouse Hayesville from 3 to 4. Any Ya'll with congressional business had better see Mr. Mallonee before he gets out of town.

The Montgomery Advertises made this prediction: By the end of this year, the following interrogative sentence will be completed by hundreds and perhaps thousands of demands: "If we can put a man on the moon, why can't we . . .?" It may well prove to be the most popular opener of all time;

And for an opener, now that we've put men on the moon and brought back snapshots from Mars, pe some unknown genius can invent a bathtub soap container that will (1) hold the soap, but (2) will not hold the Singing has been announced so we now turn our fancy to folk dancing that will be held at the John C. Campbell Folk School Saturday night, 8 p.m. A pot luck supper is on tap for anyone who wishes to come.

A tip of our Scoutlet hat goes out to the Bull Dogs, the Mighty Mites, and the Wonderful Midgets who skunked their opponents this past weekend. Get 'em 'Dogs' and 'Pups' - let's do it again this weekend.

Jane Marshall Carver and Ruth Curtis Hall of Andrews were among thirty students graduated with honors from Southwestern Technical Institute at Cullowhee last weekend. Congratulations

Ya'll better check over the jury list in today's paper and see if your name is there because if'n your name is there and you don't show up, the High Sheriff will surely come and get ya.

And by the front page of the Scout this week congratulations are in order for the men folks. Harry Smith has been promoted to the home office of Westco in Weaverville. and Bobby Joe Graves has been named manager of the local office. Billy Carringer, former Scout News Editor has been made manager of the new Cherokee Savings and Loan and Jimmy Simonds has been promoted to Production Supervisor of the Scout-Progress Best of luck to all you fellows.

Fair Closes The 51st annual Cherokee County Fair closed early last Saturday night.

Just what happened is difficult to report, but these facts are correct in so far as we have been able to learn. There was disturbance at the fair involving a member of the carnival group and a Murphy youth.

The youth left and returned with friends. Taunts and jeers were exchanged. Pistol shots fired by the carnival

Members of the Murphy police department were on the scene but no arrests or charges were made.

The crowd dispersed, and the fair closed for the evening and the season.

Constituents Modify Thinking In Recent Congressional Poll favored their election by benefits, 40 percent said they

WASHINGTON Responses to an annual poll taken recently by 11th District Rep. Roy A. Taylor indicate that many of his constituents have modified their thinking on Vietnam and some other national issues during the last

The Black Mountain Congressman said his office has completed tabulation of a representative sampling of more than 14,000 replies to his third annual legislative questionnaire. It was mailed to some 150,000 box holders in the 16-county Congressional District.

Thirty-seven percent of the respondents said that should the currect Vietnam peace talks fail, they would favor renewed bombing of North Vietnam and stronger efforts to win the war. Thirty-three percent indicated they would prefer a gradual withdrawal of U.S. troops, with continued aid to South Vietnam while 29 percent favored immediate withdrawal of American troops. Only one percent favored continuation of limited warfare as at present.

By comparison, 81 percent of the respondents to the Congressman's 1968 questionnaire said they would favor renewed bombing and excalation of military operations should the Paris talks prove futile.

On new Administration programs, 68 percent said they favored the President's proposed anti-ballistic missile system while 65 percent voiced approval of the Postmaster General's plan to convert the nation's postal system to a private non-profit corporation.

Only 30 percent of the respondents favored extension of the surtax; 92 percent indicated approval of Rep. Taylor's bill to substantially reduce the oil depletion allowance; and 91 percent said Congress should have taken action to secure meaningful tax reforms before extending the

Asked about continuation of three anti-poverty programs, 61 percent favored retaining the headstart program; 52 nity action program; but only 49 percent Westco Manager favored keeping the job corps camps. (In 1968, when asked simply whether they would favor continuation of the poverty program, 67 percent said, "no.") Sixty-seven percent opposed continuation of the foreign aid program; 87 percent favored stricter laws and regulations dealing with pornography; and 55 percent favored changing the draft system so as to draft 19 year-olds first and use a lottery system.

Perhaps the most detailed question on the 1969 questionnaire sought opinion on various pending proposals to change the method of electing the President and Vice President. Fifty-four percent

Simonds Named Scout Production Supervisor

Jimmy Simonds, 26, of Rt. Murphy, was named Production Supervisor of The Cherokee Scout and Clay County Progress this week by Publisher Jack Owens. Mr. Simonds assumed the duties of his new post Monday Sept. 8, and will be in charge of production of the Scout-Progress as well as five other Western North Carolina newspapers. He will also be responsible for the company's commercial printing plant.

A 1961 graduate of Murphy High School, Simonds began his printing career at The Cherokee Scout during his senior school year as a part time employee. After graduation he began a four year apprenticeship program that earned him the certificate of Journeyman Offset

During 1966, Simonds moved to Greenville, S. C. where he was employed by Scott Press. He later moved to Atlanta where he operated offset presses for Longino and Porter. In April 1968 Simonds returned to The Scout-Progress as a commercial printer and a graphic arts cameraman. At that time he also began a training program on the Scout's new high speed web off-set newspaper press.

Bill Carringer Accepts Savings And Loan Post

Walter Puett, President of the newly formulated Cherokee Savings and Loan, announced this week that Bill Carringer has been appointed manager of their Murphy office.

Carringer resigned his post as news editor of The Cherokee Scout last week and is now in a training program at Waynesville.

In a statement to The Scout Mr. Puitt said, "We feel very fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Carringer as our manager. He is a native of Cherokee County and has lived here most of his life. He returned to the county a few months ago after having lived and worked in the Atlanta area for a few years. Mr. Carringer stated to me that he wishes to live and work here permanently. I am sure that he understand our needs, goals, and objectives in the savings and loan business to the extent that he is well qualified to serve the needs of both the invester and borrower."

The Cherokee Savings and Loan plans to open their office in Murphy Sept. 22 when Mr. Carringer returns from training program in Waynesville. Carringer, who came to the Scout on March 31, is the son of Mrs. Bertha Carringer and the late Mr.
Luther Carringer of Brasstown.
He is a 1960 graduate of Murphy High School and attended Truett McConnell Junior College in Cleveland,
