CLIFF BLUE ... People & Issues

ALBERT COATES... Albert Coates, another one of North Carolina's great contemporary citizens has just written and published a very interesting 202 page paper back book - "What The University of North Carolina Meant to Me."

Coates, founder and longtime Director of the Institute of Government and now Professor Emeritus, Law School The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, a native of Johnston County, led off his book with a down-to-earth chapter on "What Smithfield and Johnston County Meant to Me."

What we want to say is that in our opinion it is about time for someone to write a book on "What Albert Coates Has Meant to the University of North Carolina And The State as a Whole."

Albert Coates as Director of the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill has contributed greatly to law and order and justice and good government in North Carolina.

LEE COUNTY... We hear rumors that Bob Gavin of Sanford who ran twice for governor on the Republican ticket may be interested in carrying the banner again in 1972. In 1960 when he ran against Terry Sanford he polled 613,975 to Sanford's 735,248 votes, and in 1964 he polled 606,165 to Dan Moore's 790,343. In 1968 Gavin supported Nixon for the GOP presidential nomination while Jim Gardner was trying to lead the state's delegation into the Reagan camp which gives Gavin close working ties with the white house in Washington.

With C&D Director Roy Sowers, also of Sanford being mentioned as a possible candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, it would not be beyond the stretch of imagination for Lee County which is near the heart of the state, to provide the two major gubernatorial candidates in 1972.

JIM GARDNER... Some people are beginning to feel that Jim Gardner will be trying again in 1972 to win the GOP gubernatorial nomination. If so, chances are that he will not win it as handily as he did in 1968 over Jack Stickle, who in our opinion might well have run a stronger race in the fall than Gardner did.

GENE SIMMONS... Bob Scott picked well when he tapped Gene Simmons as the man to succeed Jimmy Johnson as Chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee. He is able, steeped in politics and comes from the East which has been the pillar of the Democratic Party since the turn of the century but which is recent years has shown signs of discontent.

WILBUR D. MILLS...Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas who has frequently visited North Carolina to speak in behalf of Democratic candidates for Congress in being prominently mentioned as a successor to House Speaker John McCormick if the 79-year old Massachusetts Democratic should decide not to seek another term as House Speaker.

We think that Wilbur Mills would not only make a good House Speaker but that he would make a good candidate for president on the Democratic ticket in 1972. He is one man on capitol hill in Washington who has his feet on the ground and has a sense of fiscal responsibility.

L.V. SUTTON...Louis V. Sutton who died in Raleigh last week at the age of 80 gave progressive and powerful leadership to the Carolina Power & Light Company for 36 years, seeing the company grow from 62,500 customers to 530,000 customers and from 321,000 to 3,000,000 kilowatts of generating capacity. He has vision and ability. Named Man of the Year in 1966 by Dixie Business Magazine, he was one of the great business and utility leaders of the nation.
