The Goldsboro Grocery Company is now engaged in the work of moving from the quarters long occupied on West Centre street to its own commodious and up-to-date building recently completed on James street, just north of Dewey Bros.' foundry. This change is highly indicative of the progressive policy and substantial prosperity of the Grocery Company, whch starting out seventeen years ago as one of the pioneer wholesale houses of Goldsboro, and steadily keeping pace with the sturdy growth of our city, has expanded into a staid, reliable firm, serving not only a lengthy chain of local merchants be' also holding customers over a constantly increasing territory.

The Goldsboro Grocery Co.

This Widelv and Favorably Known Wholesale

House Approaches the New Year by Moving

Into New Quarters all Its Own

The company's new building is most advantageously situated for conducting its great bulk of trade with despatch, facility and convenience.

Extending from the railroad tracks on Centre street, a private spur runs directly to the doors of its commodious ware rooms while on the opposite side are suitable platforms, making the work of loading goods into delivery wagons or country merchants' teams a matter of the utmost ease. Of course these splendid facilities directly redound to the interests of the Grocery Company's large army of purchasers, whose shipments can now go forward with great saving of time and loading expense, as well as saving to the company of drayage, which advantage is also shared with its customers.

The building itself is a two story structure-large, and admirably equipped with freight elevator service, accounting departments, and display shelves of advantageous design and workmanship.

From its first beginning the Goldsboro Grocery Company has been under the continual direction of Mr. Thos. H. Holmes as president, and the marked success of its career reflects the courteous attention, sound business sagacity and commercial enterprise that Mr. Holmes has exercised in winning for his company the enviable reputation that it possesses throughout Eastern Carolna. The Argus takes pardonable pride in the magnificent achievements of our fellow citizen, Mr. Holmes, and his co-laborers of the Goldsboro Grocery Company, and is most sanguine in predicting for this company even a wider field of patronage, now that its new location affords all opportunities for increasing the volume of its business, and meeting every demand.

Goldsboro goes forward in every line of legitimate endeavor, and its wholesale trade commands a territory of patronage that experience serves to augment and win and hold every merchant customer of other towns and country stores that once gives our city a trial order.

We greet the Goldsboro Grocery Company in its new quarters with the New Year, with all good wishes for continued success and increasing patronage.
