WAYNE'S GREATEST COUNTY COMMENCEMENT

A REVIEW OF THE EVENTS OF THE MOST NOTABLE DAY IN ALL GOLDSBORO'S EXPERIENCE.

Wayne is the pioneer county in the matter of having an annual County Commencement and Educational Rally in which all the people take a part and become enthused, it having initiated the movement in 1910, under the inspiration of Mr. E. T. Atkinson, our very excellent County Superintendent of Public Education; but never before has even Wayne County seen so large and so successful a commencement as the one that charmed this town inexpressibly yesterday.

Beginning Thursday at noon, for that evening's opening program, the people flocked in—pupils, teachers, patrons, and friends, until by an early hour yesterday they were here in multitudes.

The people of the town opened their hearts and homes to welcome them, and never has a day here been marked with more joyful enthusiasm or with greater evidence of past achievement and hopeful prospect in Public Education.

Practically every school sent student representatives to enter some of the several contests, and every township was represented by crowds, it being a matter of rivalry among the townships to see which can show the largest number present in the parade at the County Seat on County Commencement day and win the County Prize Banner—a beautiful blue silk and gold banner—for the year—given by the Goldsboro Chamber of Commerce.

On this occasion Fork township had nearly four hundred in line when the parade started, which was the largest number present from any one township, and Fork, therefore, won the banner for the year, and bore it in the big parade—at the head of the procession, and will hold it until some other township at County Commencement wins it away from Fork.

The program was broad and varied enough to elicit the interest of every man, woman, and child in the county. There were exhibits from the different schools, showing the remarkable skill of Wayne's younger generation in books, in mechanics, and in the arts. There were prizes given for the best and second best exhibits in the Primary, Grammar, and High School grades, and these prizes were awarded as follows:

First prize in Primary grades and second prize in Grammar grades—Rosewood School.

First prize in High School grades and second prize in primary—Seven Springs School.

There were track athletic events in the morning in which Pikeville School excelled and won away from Goldsboro, that has held it two years the beautiful silver loving cup, given by the Wayne County University Alumni Association and is awarded to that school that scores the greatest number of points.

At the conclusion of the track events, a picnic dinner was served at Herman Park, and it was a veritable feast. The Chamber of Commerce and the patriotic citizens of Goldsboro furnished two thousand pounds of barbecue and bread to cover it for the dinner, and the good women of country and town did the rest, and such an open air feast has never before been witnessed in these parts.

The Court House was thronged yesterday afternoon to witness the Grammar School contest in Declamation. There were twelve participants representing every section of Wayne county. The boys all acquitted themselves well and showed the result of careful training and hard work. The judges, Messrs. Wilkins, Dees and Thompson, awarded first honor to Master Henry Edwards of Woodland School; second honor to Master Leon Becton, of Eureka School.

The medals were conferred by Supt. Huffington, in the name of the County Board of Education.

In the High School auditorium yesterday afternoon the opening exercises were very impressive, and the splendid address by Superintendent Atkinson was followed by the presentation of diplomas to forty-one young ladies and young men of the county's Grammar schools, by Col. Jos. E. Robinson, Chairman of the County Board of Education.

In the High School Auditorium at the same hour in the afternoon was held the contest in recitation between the girl pupils of the Grammar schools of the county—fourteen little girls being in this contest, and each doing so well that it was really difficult for the judges to reach a decision, but they finally awarded the first prize to little Miss Lizzie May Stanley, of the I. O. O. F. Home school, and the second prize to Miss Francis Herring, of Indian Springs, and the beautiful gold medals were presented to them by Superintendent E. T. Atkinson.

In last night's closing contest in declamation and in joint debate, the gold medals were awarded by the judges; the first in recitation to Miss Dora Westmoreland, of I. O. O. F. Home school, and the second to Miss Minnie Davis, of Mt. Olive school. In debate, the first gold medal was awarded to Mr. Harry Lee, of Fremont High School, and the second to Mr. Henry Hollowell, of Falling Creek.

The silver loving cup was delivered to the Pikeville team, also, at last night's exercises, by Mr. Gurney Edgerton, of Wayne county's student body at the University, on behalf of the County Alumni Association of the University, and this he did in a speech that we wish every citizen of Wayne county could have heard.

In the High School declamation contest and in the musical contest, both of which were held Thursday night here in the City High School auditorium, Ralph Lee and Miss Laurinda Hooks, both of the Fremont School, were the winners, respectively, of the first prizes, and Philip Hettleman and Miss Ida Shrago, of the Goldsboro High School, won the second prizes, all four prizes being beautiful gold medals.

Athletics likewise featured in yesterday afternoon's program. Pikeville played baseball against Goldsboro and gave her a defeat to the tune of 17 to 9. The battery for Pikeville was Dees, Davis and Percell; for Goldsboro, Eason and Gurley.

One of the striking novelties of the exercises was the Industrial Parade composed of the most progressive business men and institutions in town. There were carriages and automobiles gorgeously decorated, advertising and representing the business houses or institutions that furnished them. Every activity, from the moving picture theater to the Red Cross Society, was set forth in beautiful and picturesque fashion.

In a word, this Wayne County Commencement was a gala day for the whole people of the county, and it meant pleasure and inspiration to all.

LIBRARY NOTES

The coming Chautauqua will present as one of its attractions the play by Charles Kennedy entitled "The Servant in the House." Wherever this play has been presented it has attracted much attention.

All the scenes are laid in the vicarage occupied by the Rev. William Smythe. The Vicar is much disturbed by an odor which is so noticeable in his church that the members of his congregation refuse to attend the services and it seems that a new building is the only remedy. He appeals to his brother who has been living in India for many years and has become famous as the Bishop of Benares. The Bishop of Benares is known throughout the world for his deep piety. He writes the Vicar that he will arrive on a certain day. On the same day the Vicar expects his brother-in-law who is also a Bishop—Bishop of Lancashire. The Bishop of Lancashire is a man thoroughly imbued with worldly ideas. He loves money and all things material and had utterly ignored the Vicar until he became prosperous. Mary the young niece of the Vicar lives with him. Her father, the Vicar's brother, was so dissipated and irresponsible that after the mother's death the Vicar took the little girl into his home and learned to love her as his own child.

On the day the Vicar is expecting the two Bishops he employs a drain-man to examine the drains under the vicarage. This man, Robert Smith, is reviving in personal appearance befitting his task. The Vicar recognizes him as his outcast brother, the father of Mary. His first thought is to conceal the truth from Mary. In a short while Mary meets the drain-man and in her childish way tells him that she believes in wishing and that she wishes above all things to see her father.

Smith tells her that perhaps her father is so low that she would be unhappy if she knew him, but she will not listen to this and clings to her wish. The play centers in the new butler from India who is the Bishop of Benares who has disguised himself as a servant that he may understand the situation. The beautiful spirit of the man is at once evinced by his kind treatment of his outcast brother and the little girl. The Vicar returns from early service having had no congregation. The Bishop of Lancashire arrives. He has worked out a scheme for the new building. He proposes to use the name of the Bishop of Benares to raise the money. The drain-man comes in and announces that in examining the drains he has followed one along filled with filth until he reached a grave and all manner of loathsome things under the church. This is the origin of the trouble that has ruined the church. He offers at the risk of his life to clean out the place and so purify the church. His brother, the Vicar, touched by his nobility of spirit insists on accompanying him in the task. The little girl puts her arms around the drain-man and says she knows he is her father because of his beautiful spirit. The Bishop of Benares makes himself known to his brothers and orders the Bishop of Lancashire to leave the house.

The play is of course symbolic. The impurity permeating the church and driving the people away symbolizes the materialism and worldliness in the church which kills the spirituality. The Bishop of Benares typifies the spirit of Christ that would uplift humanity. The most striking passage in the description by the Bishop of the ideal church—"When you enter it you hear a sound—a sound as of some mighty poem chanted. Listen long enough, and you will learn that it is made up of the beating of human hearts, of the nameless music of men's souls—that is, if you have ears. If you have eyes, you will presently see the church itself—a looming mystery of many shapes and shadows, leaping sheer from floor to dome. The work of no ordinary builder."

GOING THE LIMIT.

Jones was one of those men who grumble at everything and everybody. He was once attacked by inflammatory rheumatism and was carefully nursed by his wife, who was very devoted to him, in spite of his faultfinding disposition. His suffering caused her to burst into tears sometimes as she sat by his bedside. One day a friend came in and asked him how he was getting on. "Badly, badly!" he exclaimed; "and it's all my wife's fault." "Is it possible?" asked the friend, in surprise. "Yes. The doctor told me that humidity was bad for me, and there that woman sits and cries just to make it moist in the room."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

LILLIPUTIAN WEDDING.

In a recent issue a mistake was made as to the price of admission to the Lilliputian Wedding, which will be solemnized in St. John's M. E. church next Tuesday night. Instead of ten cents for everybody it will be ten cents for children and twenty-five cents for adults.

This wedding will be one of unusual interest. Forty children will take part and each one takes their part as well as a grown up. After the wedding every one is invited to the wedding supper that will be served at the parsonage. The proceeds will go for the benefit of the new parsonage. Don't forget the date and come. We promise you a pleasant evening.

An Invitation

There is being waged in our City a campaign for the better enforcement of the laws now on our statute books.

On the opposition, there are as good men as there are on the side making the fight for a better town, and to these men, men who have always stood for civic righteousness but who seem to have lost sight of the main issue in this campaign, a hearty invitation is extended to attend our meeting at 8 o'clock, Monday night, at the Court House, where the matter can be brought to your attention.

Your attendance will not be taken as in any way binding you to support our cause but we simply want you to hear a plain statement of facts entirely free from personal animosity or bitterness.

And, if we fail to impress upon you the truth of our statements and the justness of our cause, we are willing to leave the matter in your hands.

This Space will contain Teague Campaign Items each day.
