This John Deere Model "R" Diesel Tractor is the largest and only one of its kind in North Carolina, and this week its proud owner, Simon Jackson, owner of Lenoir County's most mechanized farm, who has John Deere tractors, seated upon it, has it in his Lenoir County fields. For size comparison, beside it is the popular John Deere Model "M", with Leo Harvey in its riding seat and Bob Sharpe standing alongside.

The giant machine is 147 inches long, 79½ inches wide, and 78 inches high. Its weight is 9,200 pounds, as compared to the 3,288 pounds of the Model "M". In exhaustive Nebraska tests the giant diesel proved 48.58 horsepower on the drawbar and 50.96 horse-power on its belt.
