

Many Farm Workers Under New Program

Changes in Social Security Law Effective In 1951 Make Several Million More Eligible For Plan

Regular farm workers—perhaps as many as 6000 of them in the Rocky Mount area—have come under the Federal social security law beginning January 1, 1951, according to Marshall H. Barney, manager of the Rocky Mount social security office, which serves Jones and Lenoir counties.

Dairy farming will lead to old-age and survivors insurance protection for the largest number of farm people in this area, Barney believes. He emphasizes that it is the regular farm worker who is paid cash wages who will come under the law—not the itinerant, seasonal, or part-time worker.

A new leaflet, "Notice to Farmers with Regular Hired Help" explains how the farm operator can tell whether any of his employees are covered by the law. Issued by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, the leaflet is available from the Collector of Internal Revenue at Greensboro, the Social Security Administration at Rocky Mount, or from offices of county agents or Production Marketing Administration. Many banks also have copies of the notice.

In addition to explaining just what farm workers are covered the leaflet contains a tear-off slip, Form SS-4a, which the farm operator should complete and mail if he has employees who will be covered by the law. blanks, will be sent to farmers who mail this form to the collector of internal revenue.

Although the new law brings farm work under the social security system for the first time, the system will not be new to thousands of the farm workers. Many of them made a substantial start toward old-age and survivors insurance payments by working in commercial or industrial jobs at some time since 1936. Some of them worked in war plants, and others are veterans of World War II, who will receive social security credits for their military service.

Regularly employed farm workers who do not have a social security account number card should secure one within the next few weeks. The account number is necessary in order to insure proper social security credit for the worker's wages. Applications for the account number card are in every post office. The card is issued at no cost to the worker.

"Not all farm workers are covered by the new law," Barney emphasizes. The farm operator himself does not receive the protection of old-age and survivors insurance, nor do farm workers who work less than five months for one employer.

Before he can be covered by the law, a farm worker must work for an employer during a qualifying period of one full calendar quarter. This may be the last calendar quarter of 1950—October, November, and December.

After he has served the qualifying period, the employee will earn social security credit for each succeeding calendar quarter of employment by the same operator as long as he continues to work at least 60 days on a full-time basis in each calendar quarter, and earns at least $50 in each quarter. He will also be covered for the first quarter in which he works less than 60 days if he earns cash wages of at least $50. In this event, before he can be covered in any future quarter, he must again serve a qualifying period.

Soil conservation means savings to the farmer in seed, fertilizer, labor, and power as well as increased income.

Always plan to sew tears or rips on toys before placing in the washing machine, so their stuffings won't ooze out.

The two colors which are most apt to run in overstuffed toys are red and brown. Cold water before washing helps to set the colors, but they should be washed separately from other toys.

Very dirty spots on toys should be brushed with dry soap or detergent before you wash the whole toy.

Stuffed toys have a tendency to float on top of the water when

Candied Orange Peel
Peel from 6 oranges
Water
2 cups brown sugar
1 cup water
2 tablespoons corn syrup
Sugar for Rolling

Cut peel from oranges; cut into strips, bell, star or tree shapes. Place peel in saucepan and cover with cold water. Bring to a boil and boil for 5 minutes; drain and repeat 3 times to prevent bitterness. Drain water and add brown sugar, 1 cup water and corn syrup. Boil gently stirring constantly until syrup is thick and almost absorbed by the peel. Drain and roll in granulated or colored sugar.

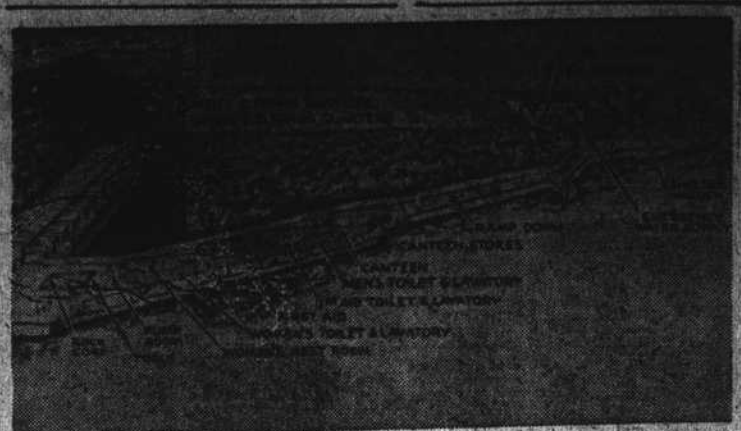

they're being washed. Push them down occasionally after washing has started so they can be immersed in the water.

Spin dry toys when possible, and get much moisture out of them, as they'll dry faster and have less of a tendency to get a musty odor. You can squeeze some of the moisture out with heavy turkish type towels, too, if you're hand washing.

When drying toys on a line, try to tie the necks or arms to the line to prevent them from falling into the soil or ground. Several ties are good, and clamp type pins can be used on ears, hands or tails.

In 1700 it took 19 people working the soil to produce food for 20 so one could go to town. Now, 1½ to 2 can produce enough for 10. The city is a product of the agriculture machines.

"Give me liberty or give me death" are not the only words of Patrick Henry that go ringing down the years. He also said, "He is the greatest patriot who stops the most gullies."

Average size of a farm in the U. S. is 174 acres. But don't be fooled by measurements. Only productive capacity counts. Soil conservation makes every acre bigger, the SCS points out.

Let us be soil builders not soil robbers.

There's no short cut or easy way to do a soil conservation job. Only a complete-farm soil and water conservation program will do the job, the SCS points out.

Chief harvest of the land is man himself.
