Former Trentonian Is Indicted Again; Now for Embezzlement

Walter Beddard, former janitor and jailer at the court house in Trenton, was indicted this week on charge of embezzling $320 from State - Wide Bail, Inc.

Mrs. Beddard was agent for the bonding company and Beddard is charged with forging her signature to bonds, collecting bonding fees and appropriating sums in the amount of $320 to his "own use and benefit".

He was tried recently in federal court at New Bern on charge of forging an endorsement on a Marine Corps check, and warrants have been issued earlier in Jones County charging Beddard with passing worthless checks.

Maysville Man Held On Two Theft Charges

Aubrey Lee Morgan of Maysville was arrested this week by Sheriff Brown Yates and SBI Agent John Edwards on charge of having twice broken into Pelletier and Weeks store in Maysville.

Morgan is charged with first entering the store on November 2nd and then again on November 5th.

The first trip Morgan is charged with taking money and materials valued at $230 and on the second trip his haul was allegedly $101.25.

Old Jones Jail to be Renovated for Welfare Department Office

The Jones County Board of Commissioners voted Monday to renovate the old county jail which is directly back of the court house into office space for the county welfare department. The board employed Wayne Jarman to do the renovations under the supervision of Board Chairman Tom Stille and Board Member Bruce Simmons.

The old jail building has been used largely for storage since it was discarded back in the thirties with the opening of the court house.

Plans call for division of the building into five rooms with toilet facilities at an expenditure of approximately $2,300.

Eight From Jones At State College

Among the 4,816 students enrolled at North Carolina State College this semester are eight from Jones County.

Figures on the county enrollment were released this week by Kenneth D. Raab, director of admissions and registration, who said North Carolinians make up 82 per cent of the student body.

The Tar Heel students represent all of the State's 100 counties total 3,959. In addition, there are 899 students from 43 other states and the district of Columbia, 153 from 39 foreign countries, and five from United States possessions.

State College has six major degree-granting schools — the Schools of Agriculture, Design, Education, Engineering, Forestry, and Textiles. It is recognized as one of the nation's key Land-Grant Colleges.

The list of students from Jones County follows:

Malcolm Ray Bonner, Comfort; Preston Collins, Maysville; Charles Donald Davidson, Maysville; Benjamin Orvis Gray, Route 1, Trenton; Robert Lynwood Mattocks II, Maysville; Preston Eugene Sasser, Route 2, Dover; Jame Woodrow Spann, Trenton and Jimmy Garland Westbrook, Route 3, Kinston.

Navy Thieves

Extremely foolish Camp Lejeune Marines are held under $200 bond charged with a rather unusual kind of larceny. John W. Dowling Jr. was booked on a charge of stealing ABC Officer Clarence Bland's pistol from a parked car. Marine Ray Blankenship was charged with aiding and abetting Dowling and also charged with receiving stolen property.

Linesman Is Seriously Burned Tuesday Near Pleasant Hill

Leroy Reed, Lineman for Sumner Builders, was critically burned by a 7,000-volt charge of electricity at about noon Tuesday near Pleasant Hill.

Reed, an employee of just one month with the company which is building new lines in Jones and Lenoir Counties for the Jones - Onslow Electric Membership Corporation, was hooking up an oil - circuit breaker switch on a pole about one mile east of Pleasant Hill.

He raised up and struck the high - powered line with his left side. The current surged through his body and went out through both feet.

Doctors feared that his left lung was completely ruptured, and half of his left foot was blown off by the eruption of the current from his body. The foot from his instep outward was completely torn away.

Reed, a native of Atmore, Alabama, presently is a resident of Mount Holly, near Charlotte, where his wife and four children reside.

He was given emergency treatment and plasma at Parrott Memorial Hospital and then rushed to Duke Hospital.

Ambulance attendants who carried Reed to Durham said he remained conscious throughout the trip and was able to answer the questions of admitting physicians at Duke Hospital. They admit they don't understand how it was possible, but it was true.

This is the pole where lineman Leroy Reed was severely burned Tuesday. His left side accidentally struck the middle wire here as he was connecting up the oil - circuit breaker.

Auction Sale Saturday for Livestock Center

Members of the Lenoir County Livestock Development Association have taken "the Bull by the Horns" in their effort to secure a suitable building for livestock shows, sales and other types of agricultural exhibitions.

The first grip on this bull's horn came with the purchase of a site just south of Kinston on the Pink Hill highway. The county had been asked to help with the purchase of the site but the county didn't have the money.

So a strong supporter of the association bought the land and is holding it for the association.

Now in order to get money up for the building an auction sale is to be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the Co-operative warehouse just south of Kinston on the Richlands road.

Every kind of gift of farm and home produce will be auctioned off in this Saturday sale. The gifts are coming from members of the association in every part of the county. Every cent taken in from this sale will be set up for a future building fund.

Every person who'd like to donate anything for this sale is urged to contact any member of the livestock association. No gift is too small or too large to be accepted with thanks and sent to the highest bidder in this auction sale.

Planning Funds Voted For Contentnea School Construction Program

The Lenoir County Board of Commissioners Monday voted $10,000 to the county board of education to be used for a planning study and preliminary architectural work on expansion of Contentnea School.

The School Committee, including Chairman Fred Stokes, Wright Nobles, Harold Kilpatrick and Cephus Eubanks, appeared with Principal George Warren to outline the needs of the school.

County Superintendent Henry Bullock reminded the commissioners that the Contentnea

School was next in line for expansion now that work was well underway at the Pink Hill and Deep Run schools.

Warren pointed out that the present enrollment at Contentnea is 754 and without any new residents the normal increase would push this to near 800 in the next school year.

In all 14 additional rooms are needed, including an all-purpose high school room, library, commercial department room, supply room and lounge for men and another for women and a room for special teaching. At present the school has 31 teachers and only 28 rooms, and next year will see at least one more teacher added to that number, Warren reminded.

New Fire Truck Bids

City Manager Roy Robinson told the Kinston board of aldermen Monday night that advertisements have been placed for bids on a new fire truck for the city. Only two bids are expected, Robinson said, since the specifications exclude any companies who are not engaged in the exclusive construction of fire trucks. The bids should be ready for opening at the December meeting of the board, he told the council.

This large installation is part of a current expansion and improvement program of the Jones-Onslow Electric Membership Corporation. This sub-station located in the Pleasant Hill section of Jones County will receive power from the 110,000 volt lines of the Carolina Power & Light Company, drop it down to 7,000 volts for distribution in to this REA Co-op system which serves several thousand farm families in Jones, Onslow, Pender Counties. This installation will stabilize service to users on this system in Lenoir, Jones and Onslow counties.
