Hot Dog Used in Jail Break Sunday Morning

A hacksaw blade smuggled into the Lenoir County jail in a foot long hot dog was the "key" to a jail break that freed two negro prisoners at about 2 a. m. Sunday.

In all, five men got out of the cell block but only two managed to get completely free. William Edward Williams remained free for 6 hours until turned in by his mother. William Henry Gibbs remained free until 9:30 Monday morning when he surrendered. Two others were caught on the jail roof and the 5th went back to his cell when officers blocked his escape.

Deputies George Hill, Liston Davenport and William Stroud along with Constables Willie Hart and Johnny Turner were in the sheriff's office when they heard noises on the staircase. When they went to check the five prisoners took off in different directions.

They had sawed two bars out of their cell and got out of the jail proper because Jailer Roy Phillips had left the front door open to permit a better circulation of air in the jail which was crowded with a pre-court population of 33 prisoners.

Willie James "Rabbit" Lawson, a teen-aged Happersville negro, admitted placing the hacksaw blade in the hot dog and will be tried for aiding and abetting a jail break.

The other prisoners also pled guilty to jail breaking but Solicitor Walter Britt says he will not send bills against them to the grand jury since "judicial notice" was taken of their jail break effort when sentence was passed on them in the charges for which they pled guilty Tuesday.

Building, Remodeling? Learn on Home Tour Nov. 3rd

Mrs. C. L. Davis of Pollocksville, will be showing her built-in sewing machine to a group of women on the home tour planned by Home Demonstration Club women in Jones County for Thursday, November 3.

By Maidred Morris

Before building a house, a plan is drawn up to fit the requirements of the family who will live in it. In the same way, it is equally important to have a plan before you start to furnish a house.

Home Demonstration Club women in Jones County have been studying home building and decorating this year. Mrs. Fayette Gray, home economics agent, says they will climax their study with a home tour on Thursday, November 3rd, beginning at 10 a. m. at the H. L. Haddock home.

The Haddocks have recently finished their new home. Haddock did most of the work himself, with the family assisting with finishing touches. "I am prouder of our forced hot air heating system and water system than anything else," reports Mrs. Haddock. Carol and Linda, the teenage daughters who are outstanding 4-H members, chose their own room colors.

Mrs. Gray encouraged the women to use only three colors in a room. "Apply the largest area of color first to walls and ceiling, about 60 per cent of your color plan," said Mrs. Gray. "Then apply the second color to fabrics for draperies, upholsteries and to floor coverings, about 30 per cent of your color formula. Finally, the bright accents of pillows, accessories, lamps and pictures will supply the third color, the 10 per cent finishing touches."

The kitchen will be featured with built-in oven and surface burners. The kitchen is white pine paneling and is U-shaped which is the ideal kitchen arrangement.

A special feature in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Dawson of Trenton, Route 1, is the family room, kitchen, and dining area combination. "I do not stay in the kitchen by myself," says Mrs. Dawson. "I can see what other members of the family are doing while I do the cooking."

The kitchen is separated from the den by a divided bar. One section of the bar is used for meal preparation with knee-room under the bar on the kitchen side. The other section of the bar is used as a planning area, for snacks, or by the children when preparing homework for school.

Mrs. Dawson realized the importance of balancing color, texture, and patterns in her large room. Special features of the home will be the utility room, breezeway between the kitchen and garage, and a bedroom walk-in closet. Mrs. Dawson will also be showing a bedroom suite which she refinished.

When Mrs. C. L. Davis of Pollocksville was asked what would be featured in her home, she just listed each room.

The cooking center is located as an island in the kitchen and is L-shaped. The cabinets can be opened from either side since the kitchen and den are together. All shelves in the cabinets are adjustable.

Featured in the den is a business center with a pegboard over the desk. Also, Mrs. Davis enjoys her built-in sewing center. She has a utility room adjoining her kitchen where she enjoys flower arranging.

Visitors on the tour will glow over the full-size basement. A fireplace is the center of attraction with spacious room around it. There is also a bedroom, bath, and workroom in the basement. Featured throughout the house is built-in storage space.

Mrs. Gray says, "We will be glad to have anyone on the tour who is interested in home building and decorating."
