Georgia Collins Is Jones Dairy Princess

Above 1961 Jones County Dairy Princess Patricia Huffman is seen crowning the new princess, Georgia Ann Collins, following the selection of the 1962 Jones County representative at the ag building in Trenton last week.

Kinston Delegation Invites British Ambassador to 200th Birthday Anniversary Oct. 18

Tuesday a delegation of Kinstonians, headed by Mayor Guy Elliott, and including Bicentennial Committee Chairman Meriwether Lewis, City Attorney Fitzhugh Wallace Jr., Bill Page, Billy Pines and School Superintendent Jean Booth invited British Ambassador Sir Ormsby-Gore to attend the 200th birthday anniversary of Kinston on October 18th.

Kinston received its original charter from the British Crown, and because of this was able this year through the efforts of Attorney Marion Parrott to obtain a coat of arms, flag and city seal, prepared by the College of Arms in England under an ancient rule of the college, which extends this right to all cities whose original charter came from the British Crown.

The ambassador is being asked to make a formal presentation of these items to the city at the October celebration.

Pitt Countian in Plenty of Trouble

C. J. Anderson of Greenville route 1 got himself into plenty of trouble during the past week.

Kinston police went to Greenville, looking for Anderson with a warrant charging him with theft of a car from Thelma Beaman of Hookerton route 1.

When they got to Greenville they found Anderson without difficulty—he was in the Pitt County jail, charged with numerous traffic violations that had been placed against him after he had wrecked the car stolen in Kinston.

For good measure, another warrant was also on file with Pitt County authorities, accusing Anderson of embezzlement in Washington, D. C.

CHARGES DROPPED

Solicitor Walter Britt Monday dropped a charge of drunken driving against George Washington Suggs, who is already serving a 5-year jail term for manslaughter, and fraud charges against Arthur Forbes, whose accomplice Lynwood Turnage was committed to Dix Hill for psychiatric treatment.

Wilson Lowery Jr. Elected District 4-H Club President

Mrs. Jeannette Lowery, adult leader of the Clover Leaf 4-H Club accompanied 13 members to the eastern district 4-H Demonstration Day at Chocowinity School.

At this time her son, Wilson Lowery Jr. was elected president for the district. Susan Duval from Pollocksville was elected secretary and treasurer.

This same group spent the day at Atlantic Beach Sunday accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Lowery.

Forger Gets Five Years on Wednesday

Earl Langston, sometimes known as Earl Lancaster, pled guilty to a string of forgeries and passing of worthless checks in Lenoir County Superior Court Tuesday.

Wednesday morning Judge W. J. Bundy gave Langston a flat five-year term in state prison. He also faces similar charges in Wilson County.

APPEALS SENTENCE

Monday in Lenoir County Superior Court Carl Lee of Kinston route 2 was found guilty of simple assault upon Theodore Sutton and a 30-day prison term was suspended on condition that Lee pay the court costs and $54 to Sutton. Lee gave notice of appeal to the supreme court.

Need A Program to Keep Track of This Domestic Difficulty

Over the weekend Jimmy S. Gardner of 513 East Gordon Street was charged with fornication and adultery committed, allegedly with Joyce Weeks of 510½ West Washington.

Gardner was also accused of assault upon a female, his wife.

Nancy Croom, who lives with Miss Weeks at 510½ Washington was charged with trespassing.

And then on Monday Ruby Gardner of 19-D Simon Bright Homes was charged with trespassing as more charges blossomed from this same domestic squabble.

SIX MONTHS

Sudie Ward of Kinston was found guilty of shoplifting before Superior Court Judge William J. Bundy on Tuesday and he gave her a 6-month term in the woman's prison.

Kinston Host Methodist Convention This Week

Taking Up Collection?

Kinston Businessman Haywood Weeks — an Episcopalian — gave visiting Methodist permission to park on a lot he owns at Peyton and McLewean during the annual state convention that is being held this week at Queen Street Methodist Church. Policeman Rodolph Hill was called to investigate Tuesday morning at the free parking lot and wound up by indicting Hubert E. Jones of 203 East Peyton Avenue on a charge of false pretense. Jones had collected $275 from visiting Methodists for the right to park on Weeks' lot.

Eagle Home Games

- June 22 — Durham
- June 23 — Durham
- June 24 — Burlington
- June 25 — Burlington
- June 26 — All-Star Game?

Queen Street Methodist Church in Kinston this week is host to more than a thousand official delegates to the annual conference of North Carolina Methodists.

Bishop Paul N. Garber of Richmond is presiding over the 4-day session.

On Tuesday Governor Terry Sanford urged his fellow churchmen to help fight oppression of the races in the treatment of migrant workers and in affording job opportunities.

He stressed his belief that the government is not able to do much on this problem, but that the rural church can do a great deal more.

The convention has adopted the largest budget in its history and also has noted its largest membership in North Carolina.

On Thursday the convention will be adjourned with the naming of pastors for the coming year to the churches of the state.

Saturday Primary Will Decide Commissioner And Court Clerk Races

Two Jones Arrests

During the past week only two arrests are reported by Jones County Sheriff Brown Yates. These were charges of drunken driving and driving without a driving license against Jonas Gay Turner of Richlands route two and malicious damage to private property against Melvin Sharp of Maysville.

Lt. John Gray on Maneuver in Germany

Lt. John W. Gray, 25, whose wife, Gloria, lives on Route 1, Pollocksville, recently participated with other personnel from the 14th Armored Cavalry Regiment in Exercise Surge-On, a week-long medical field training maneuver in Germany.

The exercise was designed to test the capabilities of Seventh Army medical units to provide full medical support for combat units under all conditions of limited and nuclear warfare. The training emphasized the care, treatment and evacuation, by road, rail and air, of simulated casualties from a combat zone.

Lieutenant Gray is a motor officer in the regiment's 501st Armored Medical Company in Fulda, Germany.

Before entering the Army, the lieutenant was employed by Dixie Chemical Corporation of New Bern. He was graduated from Jones Central High School, Trenton in 1954 and received his bachelor of science degree from Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, in 1961. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. David E. Gray, live at 1104 Industrial ave., Wilson.

Saturday the qualified voters of Jones County will have the right to go to the polls and make their choices in two second primary races.

Those choices are between Walter P. Henderson and George N. Noble for Clerk of Superior Court and between Joseph E. Turner and Carl S. Brown for County Commissioner.

The quiet that has very largely prevailed since the first primary on May 26th has continued through this week as the vast majority of Jones Countians were too busy and too concerned with their farming to exhibit much interest in politics.

Henderson ran high in a five-way race for the clerk job. Noble, of course, was in second place.

Turner was in 5th place in the 11-way commissioner hassle, but he lacked the required numerical majority, which gave the sixth place contestant, Brown, the right to call for the runoff.

The winner of the clerk race will be the Democratic nominee for the four-year term of the clerk's office, and since there is no Republican opposition the winner of the Saturday race is automatically in line for the job and will be sworn in on the first Monday in December.

The commissioner term is for two years, and in this again there is no Republican opposition, and the high man will be sworn in on the first Monday in December. The other Democratic nominees to the board are Nelson Banks, Harold Mallard, Eugene Simpson and Horace Haddock.

Voting is from 6:30 a.m. until 6:30 p.m.

Largest Damage Award In Lenoir Courts Goes To Young Paraplegic

Negro Facing Murder Charge in Shotgun Slaying of Husband

Forty seven year-old Bessie Jenkins is facing trial for murder following the shotgun slaying of her husband last Friday afternoon on the Tull Hill farm in upper Lenoir County.

Following an argument she grabbed a 12 gauge shotgun and instantly killed her 50 year-old mate with a blast in the chest.

She was given a preliminary hearing Monday afternoon before Recorder Emmett Wooten, who bound her over to Superior Court without privilege of bond.

On Tuesday Superior Court Judge William J. Bundy appointed Attorney Thomas Griffin to represent her since she told the court she had no money and could not obtain counsel.

Solicitor Walter Britt says he hopes to begin the trial late in this week's session, or possibly during next week's term.

TWO CHARGES

Charlie Meadows of 1209 Reed Street got in double trouble over the weekend; charged with larceny and assault with a deadly weapon.

Land Transfers

Jones County Register of Deeds Bill Parker reports the recording of only two transfers of real estate during the past week:

From Braxton George to Eugene Rhodes two lots in Cypress Creek Township.

From Virgil B. Jenkins to D. L. Wood two lots in White Oak Township.

The largest damage award in the history of Lenoir County Superior Court went to a teen-aged former Camp Lejeune Marine Friday afternoon in a $65,000 consent judgement approved by presiding Judge Edward Clark, while a jury was deliberating evidence presented in the week long trial of the case.

Tennessean Ronald C. Pack suffered a spinal injury in an accident between Kinston and Grifton on the night of March 20, 1961, when the car in which he was a passenger was involved in a wreck with a Tidewater Transit Company truck-trailer driven by Charles Wesley Smith of Kinston.

The Young Marine's injuries forced the removal of three sections of his upper vertebrae, leaving him permanently paralyzed from the shoulders down, and with only partial usefulness of his hands and arms.

The case got underway on Monday of last week and went to the jury just before the Noon recess Friday. When court was reconvened Friday afternoon counsel for the plaintiff and the defense had reached the $65,000 compromise upon the original $250,000 damages that had been asked in the suit.

Judge Clark, taking into consideration the lengthy investigation necessary on the part of the attorneys representing Young Pack awarded them $20,000 in fees from the $65,000 judgement.

Pack was represented by the law firms of White and Aycock of Kinston and Jenkins and Jenkins of Knoxville, Tennessee.
