Jones County's Wilson Lowery, Lenoir County's Kenneth Earl Stroud Win 4-H Project Prizes

A trip to National 4-H Club Congress — that trip in a lifetime — is the award many 4-H'ers will receive this year as state project winners.

L. R. Harrill, state 4-H leader, reports all the 4-H records were judged recently and 37 state winners were named. The state winning records will be submitted to the national 4-H office where they will be judged in national competition. The national winners will be named during National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago the week following Thanksgiving.

The boys and girls who are state winners started earning their reward many years ago. They spent hours working on their individual projects and filling out project workbooks.

Many of the boys and girls this year have been groomed for the big day by former club members who were state and national winners and are now serving as adult leaders in many counties.

Co-operative Burglar Caught on Fourth Visit

Sunday night Detectives Leslie Gay and Guerry Broadwell did not have long to wait in Harvey's grocery store for the arrival of what turned out to be the most co-operative burglar turned up locally in a long time.

Just before 9 p.m. a young white man rode up on a bicycle, parked it, got off, took a brick, broke open the store door window (the fourth time in recent weeks) and walked to the cash register.

When he reached for the till he found himself suddenly looking into the wrong end of a pair of .38 caliber police special revolvers.

The young man was Samuel Joseph Aldridge of 115 South Orion Street, who was booked for breaking and entering and for further investigation.

Monday morning Detective

Kennedy had a talk with the young man, who admitted that he had only recently gotten out of prison for a series of similar break-ins in Goldsboro.

Kennedy who has had years of experience with such young men handed him a legal tablet and a pencil and said, "Son, how about just writing down all the places you can remember breaking in?"

Aldridge obliged and began to write, listing each place and to the best of his memory what he had gotten in each entry.

The list included four visits to Harvey's grocery, two visits to the Carolina Laundry, and one each to Sidney's department store, Standard Drug Store No. 1, The Piggy-Wiggly, Lovick's cafe, Gurley-Dozier Pontiac Company, Tyndall Seed Store, Ipock's service station and Denmark's service station.

Kinston Pair Nabbed With Stumphole Load In Jones Saturday

Two Kinston negroes have been indicted for transporting 96 jars of stumphole whisky following their apprehension Saturday night near Hargett Crossroad in Jones County by Patrolman B. W. Oakley.

William Randolph of 800 Oak Street was driver of the car and Zeb Parker of 500 South Orion Street was "riding shotgun" on the eight cases of backwoods headache drops.

Oakley pulled up beside them and they refused to stop at first — not driving fast but failing to halt. Apparently Randolph was looking a hole in the bushes since when he did stop he took off in passing gear and left Oakley with the car, the whisky and Parker.

Parker, who lost one leg in a Sugar Hill gunbattle back in the 30's, was not able to take to the gallberry bushes.

Randolph was picked up in Kinston Sunday morning.

The other arrest reported during the past week in Jones County was that of Charles Fletcher Fluellen of Maysville who was accused of public drunkenness.

PINK HILLIAN CHARGED

Gordon Miller of Pink Hill route 1 was booked over the weekend on charge of drunken driving.

The Jones County Commissioners have approved the distribution of surplus foods to the needy in Jones County. Due to the heavy loss of crops by food waters, they realize that few farmers made as much as they usually do. This distribution of food will be a means to help them through the winter months and will supply at least a part of their food requirements.

Applications should be made by the head of the households to the local welfare department where certification has already begun. The income of all members of the family from all sources must be considered.

The determination of need of all persons applying for food shall be in accordance with the eligibility standards as set up by the Department of Agriculture and the State Board of Public Welfare.

The program applies to all needy persons in the county whether or not engaged in farming. Distribution of these products will begin soon after the middle of November.

Each person certified will be required to show his Identification Card at the warehouse. If the head of the household is unable to go to the warehouse to pick up his food, he must name in writing the person whom he wishes to pick up the food for him.

All information necessary is available at the Jones County Department of Public Welfare in Trenton.

Witnesses Contradict Assailant in Shotgun Slaying on Saturday

Shortly before 9:30 Saturday night Edward Hooker, 43, of Cunningham Road was instantly killed when the full charge from a 12 gauge shotgun hit him in the heart while he was in the home of Albert Lawson Jr., 22, of 600 Cunningham Road.

Deputy Sheriff Leo Harper's report on the preliminary investigation of the shooting included a statement from Lawson which said that he was showing the shotgun to Hooker and telling him that he had used it to kill seven squirrels on Saturday.

Lawson said there had been no argument, no fuss between he and Hooker and that the gun went off accidentally.

But six witnesses who were in the room at the time of the shooting told Justice of Peace Bill Thomas Monday in a preliminary hearing that the two men had been arguing, that Lawson stepped back from Hooker, loaded the battered shotgun and deliberately fired it into Hooker's chest from a distance of about six steps.

Thomas bound Lawson over to the next term of Superior Court without privilege of bond on an open charge of murder.
