Four-County Effort Mapped to Get Mt. Olive College Moved to Craven

Dr. Dale T. Mills and William W. Jefferay were elected co-chairmen of the 4 county steering committee for the purpose of meeting the requirements of Mt. Olive College which will bring the college to the New Bern area.

Paul Crayton was selected as chairman of the publicity and advertising committee, and Ken Zacks as chairman of the general finance committee.

Assistant county chairmen are: Earl Holton, Pamlico County; R. C. O'Bryan, Jones County; Cyril Edwards, Craven County; and C. B. Chalk Jr., Carteret County.

County meetings will begin immediately for the purpose of further enlightening all citizens on the advantages and benefits to be derived from having Mt. Olive College relocate in this area.

One of the immediate objectives of the steering committee is to determine the most appropriate site of approximately 100 acres which will be acceptable to the officials of Mt. Olive College and the consulting educational architect.

It is the feeling of the steering committee that Mt. Olive College will definitely come to this area provided the citizens of the four counties involved show the desire to have it and their willingness to work and contribute to get it.

This project is one of the very few ever offered to this general area, which can and will become a reality with no strings attached.

803 Persons Act As Representatives for Welfare Recipients

There are currently 803 personal representatives in North Carolina who assume the responsibility of seeing that public welfare payments are being used properly for persons unable to manage adequately the expenditure of their checks.

In 1959 the North Carolina Legislature passed legislation making it possible for county directors of public welfare to help persons, unable to budget properly or to spend their welfare checks wisely, by arranging for personal representatives to be appointed by the clerk of superior court.

Many persons, because of lack of training or education, or who have limited mental ability, have difficulty in managing their money properly.

Responsible citizens in many North Carolina communities who act as personal representatives for these people by seeing that welfare payments are used for essential expenditures are rendering a great service.

Since the law was enacted, 1,264 persons in 95 counties have served in this capacity. Many of the cases have been closed because the person was taught to handle money wisely or the family became self-supporting or the case was terminated for some other reason.

The persons being served by personal representatives at present include 144 old age assistance cases, 209 aid to dependent children families, and 450 aid to the permanently and totally disabled cases.

Man Run Over; He and Driver Both Indicted

An accident Saturday night about a mile east of Comfort on Highway NC 41 resulted in two indictments.

Metts, who staggered into the path of the Foster car was charged with being drunk on the highway. He also suffered a broken leg.

A suit has been filed in Jones County Superior Court seeking to recover a 61-acre farm in the western part of the county that was sold under a foreclosure notice November 30th of this year.

The suit brought by J. D. Cottle and his wife, Lillie Mae, and Mrs. Susan C. Turner, alleges that two deeds of trusts (mortgages) given against the farm in which Mrs. Turner holds a life estate, did not bear either of their signatures.

The defendant in the action is the CRV Motor Company of Richlands, which held two mortgages of $750 each that were allegedly made in the names of the plaintiffs for automobiles.

On failure to pay for the car, or cars involved the motor company called for sale of the farm through the trustee, George R. Hughes.

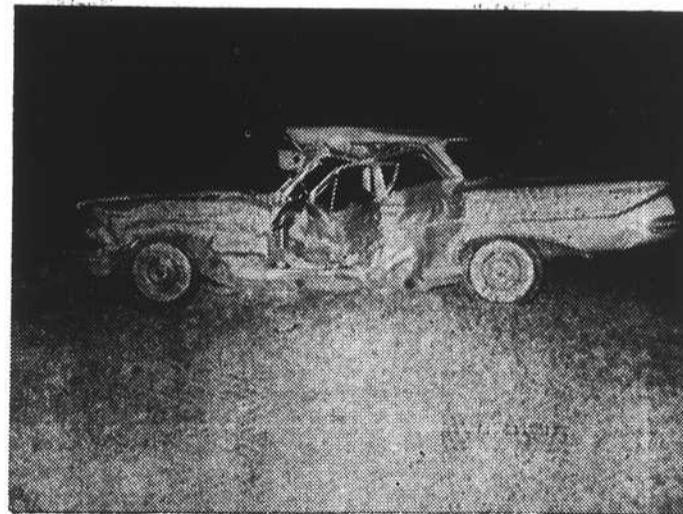

The complaint is also in the form of a restraining order which asks the court to stop the entire transaction, set aside the public sale and return the farm unencumbered to the plaintiffs who claim that if their signatures are on the deeds of trust they are forgeries.

The hearing on the restraining order is set for December 29th before Resident Judge Henry Stevens of Warsaw.

Saturday Night Wreck Kills Kinston Woman

This is the car in which Mrs. Julia Howell Hoffman was killed at 8:15 Saturday night at the intersection of the Airport Road with Heritage Street Extension, just north of the Kinston City Limits. The car was knocked 78 feet from the point of impact with another car driven by William R. Seymour Jr. of Kinston route 6.

Mrs. Julia Howell Hoffman, 36, of 1103 Morningside Drive became the 30th auto accident fatality of 1962 in Lenoir County at 8:15 Saturday night.

Mrs. Hoffman, manager of a downtown Kinston shoe store, was driving west alone on the airport road when her car was rammed in the mid-section by another car driven by 17 year-old Seymour of Kinston route 6.

Patrolman C. E. Edwards, who witnessed the tragedy, said the car driven by 17 year-old Seymour was headed north on Heritage Street extension at a high rate of speed and that the brake lights of the car never came on as Seymour sped through the intersection, either ignoring or not seeing the large stop sign.

Mrs. Hoffman's car was knocked 78 feet. She was instantly killed.

Seymour escaped serious injury. Tommy Walters of 111 East Washington Street, a passenger in the Seymour car suffered a compound fracture of the left leg and other less serious injuries and Kelton Sutton of 115 East Washington, the third passenger in the Seymour car suffered injuries described as painful but not serious.

Patrolman Edwards, who was in the act of turning around to follow the Seymour car, but had not begun a chase, has indicted young Seymour for manslaughter and reckless driving.
