Last month the council voted to zone the tract to commercial, but at that time the school board was negotiating for other sites for the junior high school.

The board also voted to advertise for bids to extend the sanitary sewer outfall some over 10,000 feet up the Adkin Canal to that point where it intersects Jones Road.

Clever Devil!

Evidence offered in an annulment hearing in Jones County Superior Court this week revealed that Dorothy Roberts Arthur had been doubly duped by Linwood Earle Arthur. She had received money in an accident settlement and had loaned Arthur $1400. He repaid her with a worthless check. Then when she got anxious about her money he wooed her and they were married January 8, 1963 in New Bern. Minutes after the nuptial vows she says Arthur informed her that she, as his wife, could no longer prosecute him for giving her a worthless check. The last time he was heard from he was in sunny California. Dorothy got her annulment and now she can indict her ex-what-ever-he-is.

Commissioners Remove Community College from Bond Election Question

Monday after hearing the requests of the Community College Steering Committee the Lenoir County Board of Commissioners agreed to several things which in the aggregate removed the problem of financing such an institution from a bond issue that is likely in the near future for secondary schools.

The commissioners voted to include $75,000 of the $150,000 needed to expand the Lenoir County Industrial Education Center to a junior college in the 1964-65 budget and also called for an election along with the general election in November in which voters of the county would approve or disapprove a five cent tax levy on the $100 valuation to finance the operation of such a school.

If the voters approve the tax levy for operating funds then the board will include in its 1965-66 budget the additional $75,000 needed to secure $500,000 in matching funds from the state to expand the IEC into a comprehensive community college.

Of course, if the voters disapprove the $75,000 put in the 1964-65 budget will revert to the general fund of the county.

Jones County FCIC Now in Court House

The Jones County Federal Crop Corporation office has moved from the Mallard Building to the basement of the Court House. Mrs. Mary B. Barnes is in the office Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. D. E. Taylor is county fieldman.

Tobacco farmers of Jones County, again this year, have the opportunity of participating in an all-risk crop insurance provided by the F. C. I. C. The Tobacco crop is covered against all types of weather damage including drought, excessive rain, flood, hurricane, hail, tornado, or damage resulting from any kind of adverse weather. In addition, participating farmers are protected against loss from diseases, parasites, unavoidable insects, wildlife and fire either in the curing barn or packhouse.

Now is the time to insure the 1964 crop. Only FCIC sells an all-risk policy. The insurance starts when the plants are set in the field and ends when the tobacco is weighed in at the warehouse.

An insured does not have to have a complete failure in order to collect a claim. Most claims are paid in cases where the insured sold some tobacco, but not as much as he was guaranteed to make.

If you do not already have crop insurance and are interested in learning more about the program, contact one of the following sales agents in your area: D. E. Taylor, A. E. Radford, Mrs. Rom W. Mallard, H. M. Quinn, E. W. Humphrey, Dalton Jones, Robert Ray Harrison, Albert L. Andrews, Raeford Blizzard, and Alva B. Howard. These agents will be glad to discuss the program with you. Or, if you prefer, come by the office in the basement, Jones County Court House, Trenton, and Mrs. Mary B. Barnes will be glad to go over the program with you.
